AT HEIGHT OF THE MELEE

San Francisco jails were jammed Friday night after 200 rioters had tried to "crash" a hearing of the House of Representatives sub-committee on un-American activities. Clubs and fire hoses were used by police to quell the riot, whose instigators are unknown. (AP Wirephoto.)

400 Policemen Battle San Francisco Rioters

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—One hundred and thirty policemen guarded city hall, barricaded the steps and admitted persons only by passes today to avert a repetition of Friday's riot by 250 persons over a hearing on un-American activities.

Mounted police kept a wary eye on 200 pickets marching outside.

Inside, a House of Representatives subcommittee opened the third and final day of hearings at which most witnesses have refused to answer questions about Communist affiliation.

66 ARRESTED FRIDAY

Friday, crowds in the city hall rotunda surged up steps and tried to storm the closed door of the hearing room on the mezzanine floor.

Twelve persons were injured and 66 arrested during an hour marked by showers from fire hoses and swinging police clubs. Demonstrators were dragged kicking and screaming to patrol wagons as San Francisco had its biggest riot since V-J Day.

It took 400 police to handle the Friday disorders, during which six policemen and two firemen were injured.

It was difficult to determine whether the riot was instigated—or by whom.

Mayor George Christopher appealed to the demonstrators from a police car. Speaking over a loudspeaker, Christopher said:

"I do not want this to become a black day in the history of San Francisco. Please obey the law."

He was answered with boos from the shouting, jeering crowd.

Representative Edwin E. Willis, Louisiana Democrat and chairman of the subcommittee called it "very unfortunate, very regrettable . . . probably the worst incident in the history of the committee."

Several reputable organizations had protested the committee's scheduled hearings here, claiming they were designed to harass teachers in the area.

NEW YORK CUBANS RIOT FOR, AGAINST CASTRO

NEW YORK (AP)—Pro and anti-Castro Cubans clashed in street fighting today in front of the Cuban consulate-general. Clubs, umbrellas, pieces of board and a gun was wielded during the battle.

Some injuries were reported and at least 15 persons were taken into custody by police.

SHOPPERS' PARADISE

Ottawa's Mall Opens Tonight

OTTAWA (CP)—Traffic on Sparks Street today gives way to painted pavement and tulips.

At 6 p.m. the barricades go up and for the first time in Ottawa history, pedestrians will muscle out machines.

National capital commission workmen will transplant 10,000 tulips and 55 trees.

Under these trees, shoppers will find sidewalk cafes, canopies, tourist information booths, a special events platform for fashion shows, a fountain and lounging benches.

The city and merchant co-sponsors of the pedestrian thoroughfare are hoping to create a holiday atmosphere that may prove a profitable and colorful answer to suburban shopping centres.

Paris Tension High On Eve of Summit

Doubt Cast On North Rail Plan

Opposition political party leaders today expressed mistrust and doubts regarding the scheme announced Friday by Premier Bennett whereby five companies will participate equally in a proposed 700-mile railway to the Yukon border.

It will be a part of the development of the Rocky Mountain Trench area by Wenner-Gren interests.

Liberal party leader Ray Perrault said here the Wenner-Gren story has had so many twists and turns it is hard to be sure whether this development is something to "give real hope to the people, or to win support for another election."

"Our party is fully in favor with development of northern B.C.," he said. "We are concerned about unemployment, and such a project would help. We are going to refrain from comment until we see statements of the companies involved, and they look impressive."

"But we want to know when it is going to start, what concessions there must be to induce a group of investors to build a railroad through a wilderness, and whether it will be a link with Alaska."

MANY QUESTIONS

"There are many unanswered questions," he said.

CCF leader Robert Strachan said bluntly the company will expect federal subsidies for the road from Canada and the United States, and suggested it will not stop at the Yukon border.

"They have never denied that they will ask for a subsidy," he said at his home in Nanaimo. "This is essentially the railway to Alaska, and we are giving a private company the franchise.

"The railroad will have to connect with publicly-owned roads, either CNR or PGE, and I feel any northern development should be continued by a publicly-owned organization.

FEDERAL MATTER

"While the premier says there will be no subsidies and no help for the road, once it passes over the B.C. boundary it becomes of federal concern."

The premier said in a press conference in Vancouver Friday the Pacific Northern Railway will extend west and northwest from Summit Lake,

SOUTH AFRICA PROTEST

Children Want Parents Freed

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Police here arrested more than 20 children, white and Negro, who demonstrated outside city hall today against the detention of their parents under emergency regulations imposed March 30.

The children were released after being questioned for about a half-hour by police in a locked room.

The children delivered an appeal to Mayor Alec Corshel asking him to use all the powers at his disposal to secure the release of their mothers and fathers.

"We cannot manage without them," the letter of appeal said, adding that the younger children could not understand what had happened to their parents.

JEER POLICE

The arrested children were driven in police cars to headquarters for questioning. As police led them to the cars a big crowd gathered in the road jeering at the police, who ordered them to disperse.

The children entered the patrol cars quietly but just before the doors closed on them a 16-year-old girl waved at the crowd and then raised her thumb in the "Africa" salute.

The thumbs-up salute was originated by the now-banned African National Congress, the country's largest Negro political organization, but has since spread to general use.

At Harrismith, Natal, police Friday night arrested 120 persons in a raid on a Negro settlement.

LUSAKA, Northern Rhodesia (AP)—Negroes stoned a white woman working in her garden, stoned a car driven by a white man and stopped and assaulted a white boy cyclist as sporadic racial violence persisted today in Northern Rhodesia's copper belt, despite reinforced police patrols and virtual martial law.

More violence is feared during the weekend, and civilian reserves are standing by to assist police.

Eisenhower Due Sunday

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

PARIS (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev flew into Paris today for a summit showdown with President Eisenhower on the spy plane crisis in American-Soviet relations.

His Ilyushin-18 airliner set down at Orly Field four hours and 45 minutes after he took off into the cloudy skies over Moscow in an extraordinarily silent mood.

The weather here was sunny and brisk, but the attitude of the Western summit delegations was as gloomy as Moscow skies.

Khrushchev, however, was smiling as he stepped down from the plane. A 100-piece band and a company of troops paid the Soviet premier formal military honors.

WESTERN SUMMIT

Khrushchev got here almost 24 hours ahead of Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan. West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer had arrived an hour before Khrushchev. Adenauer will join U.S., British and French leaders in one-day Western summit consultations Sunoday.

Khrushchev holds the initiative and, to a great degree, the key to the success of the conference. French and American diplomats say that if he confronts Eisenhower in a hostile manner, the first summit conference in five years could be wrecked in five minutes.

Minutes after his arrival, Khrushchev made an obvious slap at the United States when he told the airport crowd that "certain military interests" are trying to continue the cold war.

"We hope they will not be successful."

He listed as the primary objectives of the summit disarmament and "liquidation of the remnants of the last war." He wanted to see a treaty of peace with both Germanys and improvement of relations between East and West.

The Soviet chief took off from Moscow in an atmosphere that was hardly optimistic for success of the top-level talks.

DENOUNCE 'AGGRESSION'

Front pages of Moscow newspapers were covered with stories and pictures denouncing "American aggression" by the U-2 spy plane downed over Sverdlovsk on May Day.

Khrushchev made no speech on leaving Moscow's airport despite an impressive turnout of the entire Soviet Praesidium and diplomatic corps to see him off.

President Eisenhower will reach Paris early Sunday. He apparently is no less determined in his support of spy planes beyond the Iron Curtain than Khrushchev is in denouncing them as aggressive acts against the Soviet Union.

MAC TO SEE KHRUSHCHEV IN PRIVATE

PARIS (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan and Premier Khrushchev were reported today to have arranged to meet for private talks Sunday.

French President Charles de Gaulle and Khrushchev previously had scheduled such a meeting. There were reports that President Eisenhower and the Soviet leader also might get together before the opening of the summit conference Monday.

Diplomatic sources have indicated that Britain and France were anxious to try to head off a squabble over the U.S. intelligence plane shot down over the Soviet Union.

Russia Warns Canada About 'Spy' Planes

LONDON (AP) — Moscow Radio today cautioned Canada against permitting United States spy planes to fly from Canadian bases.

A broadcast to North America said Canada "willingly and unquestionably" had put its territory at the disposal of the U.S. air force and "the gentlemen of the U.S. defence department and the intelligence agency" were making themselves at home there.

"What happens next is a matter for the Canadian government's conscience to decide," said the English-language broadcast.

"As everybody knows, Canada has not yet dared to disobey its partner. . ."

This was the first direct mention of Canada in Russian blasts in the last week about the American spy plane.

External Affairs Minister Green, commenting on the Moscow broadcast, reiterated that no U.S. spy planes have flown from Canadian bases.

AND WE, TOO, SAY 'HAPPY ANNIVERSARY'

COATESVILLE, Pa. (AP) — The Coatesville Record, under a front-page headline reading "to the Simpsons our apologies every 10 years," reports:

"Here's a correction that has to be made by The Record every 10 years.

"The '40 years ago today column' on Wednesday stated Harvey B. Simpson of Birdsboro and Miss Anna E. Slaymaker of Parkesburg were married. he item should have read Miss Anna Shoemaker, not Slaymaker. The local couple are today observing their anniversary.

"The original account of the Simpson-Shoemaker wedding had to be rerun in 1920 because Miss Shoemaker was called Miss Slaymaker. In 1930 the person who compiled the '10 years ago today' column used the name found in the original wedding account, not the rerun.

"When the '10 years ago today' column became the '20 years ago today' item in 1940 the mistake was repeated. And the error was repeated in 1950 and 1960 . . .

"Confused? Happy anniversary anyhow, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson."

TASK TO 'LOCATE . . . ROCKET-LAUNCHING SITES'

'I Plead Guilty'—Powers

LONDON (Reuters)—Moscow Radio today broadcast a transcript of the alleged interrogation of Francis Powers, the American pilot of the U-2 plane shot down over Russia May 1, in which he was quoted as admitting collecting "intelligence information about the Soviet Union."

Powers was quoted as saying that planes which he had flown over and along the borders of the Soviet Union took bearings with the aim of locating radio and radar stations and rocket-launching sites.

He was quoted as saying that since 1956, when he left the United States Air Force, he had worked for "an American office."

"What is the name of the office?" he was asked.

"This is a combination of civil aviation and air force service," Powers was quoted as saying. "All this is disguised and coded under the name of Unit 10-10."

"What are the tasks of this unit?" he was asked.

"The main task of this unit is to locate the radio stations in action and the rocket-launching sites."

The radio also quoted the following extracts from the interrogation:

Q. "Is the accusation brought against you clear?"

A. "Yes."

Q. "Do you plead guilty?"

A. "I plead guilty to the fact that I have flown over Soviet territory, over points indicated on the chart, turned on and off the necessary controls of the special apparatus mounted on my plane and I considered it was being done with the aim of collecting intelligence about the Soviet Union."

Q. "At what altitude did you fly when your plane was shot down?"

A. "At the altitude of 68,000 feet."

Q. "What reward were you supposed to receive for today's (May 1) flight?"

A. "None. I receive a salary of about $2,400 per month for carrying out these tasks which I have to fulfill. My task today was to fly from Pakistan to Norway."

about 50 miles north of Prince George. The provincially-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway will connect with it at the lake.

He said the five companies each will hold 25 per cent of the stock of the PNR, now being registered as the company to build the northern railway promised by the interests of Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren in an agreement signed with the province three years ago.

PARTICIPANTS

The new participants in Pacific Northern Railway will be:

(1) A. V. Roe Canada Ltd., Toronto, designer and builder of the controversial Arrow military aircraft, and a subsidiary of the huge Hawker Siddeley Group Ltd., of England. One of A. V. Roe's subsidiaries is Canadian Car Co. Ltd., a manufacturer of railway rolling stock.

(2) Associated Electrical Industries Ltd., of London, Eng., part of the Lord Chandos group of companies which is among the world's largest engineering and electrical groups. AEI also is a shareholder in Peace River Power Development.

(3) Perini Ltd. of Toronto, one of Canada's biggest construction companies and a subsidiary of Perini Corp. in the U.S. Two associated Vancouver companies are Perini Pacific Ltd. and Perini (B.C.) Ltd.

(4) Cleveland Bridge and Engineering Co. Ltd., of Darlington, Eng., a major company that specializes in bridges.

The Wenner-Gren B.C. company will be the fifth participant.

Each company will appoint two directors and in addition Sir Roy H. Dobson and Lord Tweedsmuir of England have accepted appointment to the board.

FILE SOON

Mr. Bennett quoted from a letter from Bernard Gore of Wenner-Gren Development which said the PNR will file the necessary documents with the provincial registrar of companies within a few days.

The premier declined to estimate the cost of construction of the railway or when construction would begin.

He said once the company is registered it must abide by the provincial Railways Act and the comnay will have to ask Transport Minister Wicks and the Public Utilities Commission for necessary permits to go ahead.

He was asked if the company will carry out the commitment to begin construction by June 30 as stated in the Wenner-Gren-provincial agreement.

He replied: "They've done more than they ever said they'd do. They've spent $9,500,000 already and that was more than they ever said they would do. They've kept all their agreements with us."

He said the $9,500,000 was spent by Wenner-Gren interests, including Peace River Power Development, on exploration and surveys of power resources, railway route and other resources in the area.

for a television speech in advance of his departure from Washington tonight. The White House simply said the president had changed his mind, but there is speculation here that he found the summit conference outlook too uncertain to discuss constructively. He also might want to avoid further intensifying the dispute with Khrushchev.

PRIVATE TALKS?

Allied diplomats speculated that Khrushchev and Eisenhower might have a private talk prior to the Monday morning opening of the Big Four summit sessions. French leaders are reported to favor a meeting between the two.

President de Gaulle was reported planning an attempt to get Khrushchev to soft-pedal the spy plane row. De Gaulle is anxious for the Big Four to go ahead, as originally planned, with negotiations on disarmament, a nuclear test treaty, the Berlin dispute and other outstanding East-West issues.

Khrushchev and de Gaulle will meet at the Elysee Palace, the French presidential residence, shortly before noon Sunday. Khrushchev asked for the meeting, but associates said de Gaulle welcomed the chance to clear the diplomatic air.

Meanwhile, United States and French officials are conferring in a bid to overcome a Western rift on disarmament, a diplomatic source said.

Efforts to achieve Allied unity on disarmament at the NATO foreign ministers' conference in Istanbul early this month were hampered by the inability of the French and Americans to agree over the priority of controlling the means of launching nuclear missiles, the source added.

The French believe this control should be introduced at the start of East-West disarmament. But the Americans are reported regarding it impracticable to put supervisors right away on the thousands of air fields, missile-launching sites, military depots and ships that would be affected.

TO AID TRAINING PROGRAM

Dentist Subsidy Sought

DR. H. R. HENDERSON
. . . heads dental group

Dr. H. R. Henderson, newly-elected president of the B.C. Dental Association, believes "some kind of subsidy" is needed to train more dentists in British Columbia.

"If we cannot provide a dental faculty at the University of British Columbia, we should devise some way of assisting B.C. dentists to take their training outside the province, "Dr. Henderson told The Times.

The young Kelowna dentist was elected president at the annual meeting of the B.C. Dental Association in the Empress Hotel Friday afternoon.

He succeeded Dr. C. B. Jameson of Victoria who has been presiding at the association's three-day convention.

"Many more young men would train as dentists if we had a dental faculty at UBC," Dr. Henderson said. "As we have not, it means training outside the province and that involves considerable extra expense.

"To offset that expense some kind of subsidy seems to be needed."

Asked if he meant a government subsidy, Dr. Henderson replied:

"No, I would not say that."

He said the difficulty of providing a dental faculty at UBC is that the kind of personal tuition necessary involves tremendous expense.

"Fortunately Toronto University has helped to remedy the shortage of dentists across Canada by enlarging and extending its dental faculty.

"It is also the only university in Canada now offering regular instruction for dental assistants and there is a shortage of assistants as well as dentists."

Dr. Henderson has been a dental practitioner in Kelowna for the past 10 years, and like most B.C. dentists today he has a long waiting list.

He points out that a dentist dare not work "overtime" to catch up with his patients because of the great nervous strain involved in his work.

"A dentist who works for too many hours without rest cannot give the high standard of dental service that is expected today," he said.

"I personally have to rest after both morning and afternoon surgery."

Dr. Henderson trained as a dental mechanic with the Canadian Army during the war. Afterwards he studied at UBC and trained as a dentist at Toronto University.

"The increase in population in British Columbia is way ahead of the number of new dentists coming into the field," he said.

"I feel that we, as an association, should be able to encourage young men to take up dentistry as a profession."

The dentists' three-day convention winds up this afternoon with table clinics in the Georgian lounge and a reception this evening.

Mayor Percy Scurrah, city manager Cecil Wyatt and one alderman yet to be chosen will attend the annual meeting of the association of Vancouver Island Municipalities, Wednesday, June 15, at Courtenay.

The one-day meeting will consider resolutions sponsored by member municipalities.

Income Tax Makes Liars Out of Honest Citizens

VANCOUVER (CP)—A business consultant said Friday the Income Tax Act is an evil instrument that has made liars out of men who would like to have been honest.

In a speech to a seminar of the Canadian Tax Foundation, William M. Mercer of Vancouver said Canada can no longer be served within the letter and intent of the Act.

"I'll wager that there is not one of us here who is not engaged in some form of tax evasion," he said.

As an example, he said many businessmen cheat the tax department when they have their personal letters typed by company secretaries. Legally, they should add the cost of the secretaries' services to their income for tax purposes.

Mr. Mercer said many Canadians sincerely believe that their income is being diverted through high and progressive taxation to support a defence effort and philosophy which is worse than useless and to build a welfare state designed to help more people who don't need help than those that do.

He said leaders, business or otherwise, must be rewarded or they will vanish. He added: "If the Income Tax Act doesn't allow it by the old-fashioned and honest method of paying salaries, we must find other ways."

Members Walk Out On CCF Divorce Move

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—Only 81 members of the 265-seat Commons were present at 5.20 p.m. Friday for a recorded vote.

Just before the 6 p.m. adjournment, attendance fell to 19—one below the quorum of 20.

The vote was on a motion by Frank Howard (CCF, Skeena) to refer a divorce bill back to committee for further study. The motion was defeated by a vote of 72 to 9. Six CCF members and three Liberals voted for the motion, 70 Progressive Conservatives and two Liberals against.

In the last six weeks, a CCF filibuster by Mr. Howard and Arnold Peters (Timiskaming) has permitted passage of only five divorce bills in 14 debating hours. There now is a backlog of nearly 300 divorce bills.

The CCF objects to the handling of Newfoundland and Quebec divorce applications by Parliament. All other provinces have their own divorce courts.

After the vote, the CCF filibuster continued.

Quorum Made Up

A few minutes before 6 p.m., Edwin W. Brunsden (PC, Medicine Hat) questioned whether the House—then attended by only 19 members, including chairman Charles E. Rea (PC, Spadina) was legally constituted.

Three members scurried into the chamber from behind the curtains separating it from the lobbies to raise attendance to 22. Meanwhile, other members chorused "Call it 6 o'clock"—in other words, adjourn for the day. By the time the Commons recovered from this temporary embarrassment it was 6 p.m. anyway and the House adjourned.

B.C. Tomatoes Hit

Why has California outstripped the lush Okanagan Valley of British Columbia in growing tomatoes?

This and similar questions troubled the minds of Canada's lawmakers.

Debate centred on a $30,000,000 appropriation for the Dominion experimental farms and research service of the agriculture department.

Stuart Fleming (PC-Okanagan-Revelstoke) said the government should find new tomato varieties particularly suited for the Okanagan Valley. Production in California had doubled.

Mr. Fleming's political neighbor, David Pugh (PC-Okanagan - Boundary), seconded the suggestion, and said the Summerland, B.C., experimental farm is doing good work. For one thing, it had found ways to produce very good apple cider.

Harold Winch (CCF-Vancouver East) said B.C. tomato producers are paid well and are highly mechanized.

Too Expensive

The trouble, said Agriculture Minister Harkness, is that they can't produce tomatoes cheaply enough. Moreover, Okanagan Valley soil wasn't rich enough for good tomatoes. As previously announced, the government's subsidy for canning tomatoes would be stopped next year.

W. Harold Hicks (PC-Fraser Valley), who worked for 39 years in experimental farm work, said higher salaries must be paid to keep Canada's top farm scientists in this country—even if it meant reducing the junior staff.

Noting that pork prices have declined along with reduced sales, Samuel Boulanger (L-Drummond - Athabaska) charged that government policy is not to protect the farmer but to reduce surpluses.

During consideration of 1960-61 agriculture department spending estimates, the Liberal farm critic said the deficiency payment system for hogs is not in line with Progressive Conservative promises to give the farmer a fair share of the national income.

Agriculture Minister Harkness replied that hog production so far this year is down about 12 per cent. It probably would be about 16 per cent lower than last year by the end of 1960.

Canada plans to contribute $37,830,000 to a new international fund that will help underdeveloped countries through a $1,000,000,000 loan pool.

Finance Minister Fleming gave the notice Friday of government legislation to approve Canadian membership in the new body, called the International Development Association.

NEW YORK (UPI) Lucrezia Bori, 72, the Spanish-born soprano who once had the opera world at her feet, died early today of a brain hemorrhage.

She was one of the last of the great divas of opera's "golden age." She was a reigning favorite at the Metropolitan Opera House here from 1912 to 1915 and from 1921 until her retirement in 1936.

She retired in 1936 to devote herself to the Metropolitan Opera Association and the Metropolitan Opera Guild.

U.S. Sub Fired On By Cubans

HAVANA (AP) Fidel Castro says a Cuban coast guard boat fired on a United States submarine 65 miles northeast of Havana eight days ago.

He accused American warships of operating without lights near the coast in violation of international agreements.

In a midnight television speech Castro disclosed that the coast guard vessel opened up on the sub with machine-guns about 10 p.m., May 6, in waters off Mananzas.

A Cuban Navy ship joined in, he said, and pursued the submarine for about 30 miles but the latter "sped north swiftly with her lights out."

(In Washington, a defence department spokesman said Castro "apparently is referring to the submarine Sea Poacher, SS406, which reported it met a Cuban patrol vessel in international waters between Cuba and Key West, Fla., last week.)

Castro began his speech with another anti-American tirade and declared it was up to Washington to explain the latest case of an American plane brought down and its pilot killed in Cuba on Thursday.

TITAN MISSILE SCORES DIRECT HIT ON TARGET

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—Six sound receivers on a remote section of ocean floor in the South Atlantic gave the air force the first word Friday that the Titan intercontinental ballistic missile had made another successful test flight.

The receivers, forming an electronic "splash net," picked up the sound of a new Titan nose cone slamming into the water 5,000 miles from its launching less than 30 minutes after the missile was fired here.

Develop Own Nation Says UBC President

SASKATOON (CP) — The president of the University of British Columbia Friday called on young Canadians to strive for a separate and distinct Canadian nation and to avoid drifting into the "role of satellite or subordinate" to the United States.

Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie, speaking at the University of Saskatchewan's 49th convocation, said Canada could contribute to other nations only if she has the imagination, courage and determination to become a nation "in the full sense of that word."

Whether Canadians like it or not, he said, they are "permanently and irrevocably" under the shadow of the United States and are, with them, creating a North American culture different from that of Europe or Saia.

"In view of this we face the supremely difficult question: Can we in these circumstances become and remain a different and separate people and nation, or will we in due course gradually merge with the United States?"

Father Attacks Son

TORONTO (CP)—John Lane was convicted Thursday of assault causing bodily harm to his five-year-old son, Douglas. His wife, Isabel, said she saw him holding the boy by the legs and dropping him on his head on the sidewalk. She said he also kicked the boy. Lane, who is separated from his wife, was remanded to May 18 for sentence.

138 Feared Drowned As Ferry Capsizes

HYDERABAD, India (UPI) About 138 persons were feared to have drowned when an overloaded ferry boat capsized in the Kirshna River near Guntur Friday, police said today.

Police said only 12 of the 150 persons believed to have been on the boat swam to safety. Sixty bodies were recovered up to midnight and the search for more bodies continued today.

Officials said the river boat had a capacity to carry only 40 persons safely.

They said men, women and children jammed on the boat insisting they be carried to a temple on the other side of the river on the day of the full moon.

U-R-E-A SPELLS GROWTH

By mid 1960 Cominco's new 5 million dollar plant in Calgary will be converting Alberta natural gas into urea. Urea is a chemical used chiefly as a fertilizer — one reason "U-R-E-A spells growth".

Urea will be a valuable addition to Cominco's wide range of chemical fertilizers, and thus the new Calgary Plant represents an important expansion for Cominco — another reason "U-R-E-A spells growth".

Urea is used as a fertilizer, an animal feed supplement and an ingredient in plastics manufacture and other chemical processes.

Cominco's plant is a "first" in Western Canada for this chemical. Initially the product will serve agricultural needs, but it stands ready to enter into industrial fields as the West diversifies and grows. Yes, in many ways "U-R-E-A" spells growth.

South Africa Must Choose

MANY FOREIGNERS PROBably will see, after the mountainous labors of the Commonwealth conference, the emergence of a very small mouse. The communique issued yesterday at London at first sight seems to say little, as its writers undoubtedly intended. But, between the lines, it may well have said something of historic importance, the real meaning of which will not appear for some time yet.

The evil of apartheid in South Africa is studiously avoided in words, with the rather bland assertion that the internal affairs of all Commonwealth nations are exclusively their own individual business.

Then comes the cool, factual announcement that if South Africa decides to make itself a republic it cannot remain in the Commonwealth without the consent of the other members.

Since the South African Government has announced that if it tends to establish a republic—even if the white people vote against it in the forthcoming plebiscite—it follows that South Africa must apply, later on, for continued membership in the Commonwealth.

How is this decision to be determined? The communique says South Africa's application will be considered either at a meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers or by "correspondence." It does not say, however, whether South Africa's application must have the majority or unanimous consent of the other members.

How many members must cast a black ball to exclude the projected South African republic? And is it likely that non-white nations like India, Pakistan, Ghana, Malaya and Ceylon will approve a South African republic if the present apartheid policy is maintained? It is most unlikely.

The London conference revealed finally that every nation in the Commonwealth, except South Africa, is opposed to apartheid, and that every attempt failed to modify South Africa's policy in the least. The formula finally adopted after this failure seems to say that if South Africa maintains that policy under a republic it may well be refused membership in the Commonwealth.

Here there is no attempt to conciliate South Africa but, instead, a clear warning that its policy, unless modified, may make its Commonwealth membership impossible.

We must wait to see whether South Africa thus interprets the London formula but it is difficult to believe that the head-strong, racialist and republican Government of Mr. Verwoerd will interpret this historic statement as anything but a humiliating ultimatum.

Will such a Government accept an ultimatum, modify its policy and then plead for Commonwealth membership on sufferance? It would seem to be altogether improbable.

As the Commonwealth prime ministers must have known in writing their statement, it is more probable that a minority of the white South African minority will follow its course to the logical end, establishing a republic, risking or even inviting rejection from the Commonwealth.

This would be a unique and shaking event in the Commonwealth, its first defection. But when four-fifths of its people are colored the Commonwealth may well be stronger without South Africa's membership. At any rate, the London formula plainly foresees and does not shirk that possibility.

Secrecy at City Hall

IT IS UNFORTUNATE THAT Mayor Percy Scurrah was out of town on city business when two of his aldermen—the Rev. Dr. Lewis McLean and Hugh Ramsay—introduced their secrecy by-law to city council. The Mayor, after long experience in civic affairs, knows that it will not work. He is satisfied with the present system, under which reporters are permitted to attend committee meetings, and protect the civic interest by agreeing to go "off the record" when such delicate matters as property negotiations are being discussed.

Under the proposed by-law, reporters could only attend committee meetings at the invitation of members. In other words, they could be effectively barred from all such meetings and public business could be done in private.

Dr. McLean, in attempting to justify his proposal, says that "press conferences" would be held after the meeting. This explanation will not wash. It means, simply, that the interviewees would give to the press only what they decreed fit for public consumption. It is a form of censorship which would exclude the byplay, the free comment, the interchange of ideas which illuminate debate.

In due course, Dr. McLean, Mr. Ramsay, and others who voted for the bill will discover that they are wrong—as the council of Medicine Hat found out last year, and felt the wrath of the public at the polls. And, in the fullness of time, they will begin to understand the wisdom of Macaulay's famous phrase:

"Men are never so likely to settle a question rightly as when they discuss it freely."

Becoming a Victoria Tradition

FOR THE THIRD CONSECUTIVE year a Victoria student has won the Governor-General's Gold Medal—symbolic of top scholarship in the faculty of arts and science. In the past fifteen years nine Victoria students have won the province-wide award.

In winning this year, then, Michael Gerry is ably sustaining a scholastic reputation not only for himself but for the city, and has proved himself a worthy successor to such students as Marlene Hunt, Gael Stott, Peter Smith and others.

His predecessors have distinguished themselves in advanced study, and there is every indication that Michael Gerry will go on to win further honors too.

To him, and to his contemporaries who have done outstanding work even though not attaining the top prize, The Times extends congratulations and best wishes for further success.

Bailing Out the Government

IT IS DISTURBING TO LEARN that the budget of the Provincial Archives does not permit purchase of the valuable diaries and maps of early Vancouver Island explorers which have been offered for $2,000—reportedly a very modest sum for such historical treasures.

If the Archives are to perform their proper function, there should be provision in the estimates to permit the very able provincial Archivist to take advantage of such opportunities as they are presented from time to time. The provincial collections are obviously the proper place for such documents; far too many treasures have been lost to the province as it is.

The Victoria Branch of the B.C. Historical Society is to be congratulated on its initiative and sense of responsibility in bailing the province out on this occasion. The branch will raise a fund to purchase the documents and present them to the Archives, and the thanks of the people are in order.

This is another case where private initiative has had to take over when the proper public agency failed.

Democracy Without Elections

IN CUBA REVOLUTION IS MOVING by its historic laws. Dr. Fidel Castro, chief architect of the revolution, said in February, 1959, that Cuba must have "free elections as soon as possible." But in the great May Day celebration recently, he postponed elections indefinitely and argued that democracy is fully established without them. Elections, in fact, would be the denial of democracy in Dr. Castro's latest revelation.

But there is nothing new or surprising in his change of mind. We have only to remember the great revolutions of history—in France, Russia and China, for example—to realize that the so-called democrats, winning power by violence, usually maintain it by the same means.

That fact of history is often forgotten in North America whose only great revolution, of 1776, was an exception to the rule, seldom repeated and obviously not to be repeated in Castro's Cuba.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

A LEISURELY ramble around the lake trail at Thetis Park will prove very interesting to those who take time to observe. As you enter the park you will see the Garry oak (Quarous garranana) which is now showing its clusters of greenish blossoms.

Intermingled with them you can see the crabapple (Malus fuscia pyrus diversifolia) with its clusters of apple blossoms, and its short, sharp spurs that often mislead one to think that it's one of the hawthorns. This tree likes the damp places and takes many shapes.

Along the trail will be seen the balsam root (Balsamorhiza sagittala), this plant is not common to this area, but in the dry interior is seen on the open mountain slopes.

The bright yellow flowers are from three to four inches across. The seeds of this plant were eaten by the Indians who made a ceremony when roasting them in pits.

The vanilla leaf (Achlys triphylla) has put forth its long stemmed flower up from the roots between the three-winged "butterfly" leaves. This plant has a faint odor of vanilla and when dried in a bundle will help to repel flies.

If you look amongst the stone crop you will find the cancer root (Orbanche uniflora) with its thin stem without leaves, but with several scales on the lower part of the stem. This plant is a parasite and lives on the roots of the stone crop.

The Indian paint brush (Castilleja spp.) has bright leaf-like braces which hide the tiny flower. This plant takes on many shades, from red to a bright orange.

Silence: Only a Rough, Primative Man Can Endure It

Hutchison

THE venturesome spirit who moves prematurely into any Canadian summer resort these days will confront a dreadful phenomenon. At first he will hardly recognize it, since we have largely eliminated this evil in modern civilization, but the phenomenon is silence. Or, if not quite complete silence, a sufficient absence of sound to make any civilized man nervous and jumpy, to drive him into his cold, neglected summer cabin where, at least, he can turn on a radio and assure himself that civilization, though far away, is still in business. This dismal, soundless season of spring fortunately will not last long.

A FEW weeks from now the most remote resort will be normal again with the happy sounds and immemorial music of summer, the cheerful sputter of speedboats, the clank of chain saws, the reverberation of the human voice, the chatter of television, the clink of tall, icy glasses.

But in the meantime the man who opens his lakeside cottage too soon must put up with nature's gutteral accents as best he may, and in the dark coastal woods where I spent last weekend it is pretty depressing. Only a rough and primitive sort of man could endure it.

Worst of all is the silence of the woods themselves, the silence of contempt. The woods pay no attention to man. He can make his voice heard across the oceans and the poles, the clamor of his riots penetrates the dictator's palace from Korea to Turkey and South Africa. Why, even Mr. Khrushchev is compelled to listen to the regnant verdict of humanity, but the woods won't listen.

THEIR contempt for their superiors is shattering. Beside these giant vegetables, mindless, towering and serene, a man actually feels small in the gloomy springtime—man, the master of all things, who, if he takes the notion, can instantly destroy the entire life of this planet by pushing a few buttons. It is definitely humiliating.

At first the ear atfuned to the purer sounds of civilization can hear nothing in the woods except the ugly gurgle of running brooks, the shredded wind in the pine needles or the creak of a dead branch, but after an hour or two the sensitive membrance may catch a repulsive croaking, and if it is an old man's organ, not too civilized, it may recognize the presence of a creature known to old-fashioned scientists as a frog. Merely a frog and beneath one's notice.

THAT hooting sound is a grouse, that distant drumming is a woodpecker and that harrowing cry from the lake is a loon, as man calls the Great Northern Diver of Canada. But don't worry. The frogs will stop croaking when the human swarm of summer arrives, the birds will move elsewhere, the feathered loons will be replaced by another variety, in speedboats and bathing suits.

Our lake, like most lakes outside any Canadian city, is improving every year. It used to be infested by loons but this spring there is only one pair, who swim about, with an anxious look, searching out some secluded, uncivilized spot where they may raise a family. They won't find it. Advancing civilization leaves no space for loons, if they wear feathers.

THIS married couple, the male in shiny black and white, the female in sober brown as befits the humbler sex, seemed to realize that they were unworthy of a modern summer resort, they uttered no cry all day long and toward nightfall they flew off to the north where, alas, progress has yet to penetrate.

Instead of their old, familiar call, we now heard the first joyful omen of summer. A youth had launched his speedboat and came churning down the lake in a brave froth. Presently a chain saw began its merry pulsation nearby and from a distant cottage there floated the clatter of gunfire, originating in a television studio thousands of miles away. I can tell you it was comforting after all this unnatural silence. A man could breathe freely again, knowing that civilization was on its way to his rescue.

AND so, after all the other humans had left for town and the dreadful hush fell again, we took a last look at these appalling woods against the night sky, we listened to the sudden boom of frogs, retreated into the cabin and turned on the radio to make sure that all was still right with the world.

It was. The radio announcer recounted the latest riots, revolutions and explosions in a dozen progressive countries and in our isolated, lonely habitation, surrounded by nothing but silence, we realized with a new glow of confidence that as spring follows winter, the hosts of summer could not be far behind.

Unsatisfactory, But Better Than Shooting It Out

Gould

BACK in 1911, fishermen in Canada's maritime provinces found themselves threatened from a new quarter. They had learned to live with the elements, and the fickleness of the fish, but the steam trawler posed new problems. The trawler, dragging its heavy gear close in-shore, ripped up trap nets and lobster pots in its search for fish. The inshore fishermen protested to Ottawa, and a new law was put in force. It required that all the large boats stay outside of an arbitrary 12-mile limit, and leave the inshore waters to the small boats and individual fishermen

The law is still in force, but today it is a constant embarrassment to the Canadian government. United States, British, Portugese and Russian trawlers, with impunity, can move freely up to the three-mile territorial limit, while Canadian trawlers, under Canadian maritime law, have to sit 12 miles out, angry and frustrated.

On the West Coast, big U.S. seiners can move into Hecate Strait, or off the West Coast of Vancouver Island, in search of salmon, halibut and herring, while Canadian fishermen gnash their teeth miles out.

This was the situation when delegates from 88 nations met at Geneva last month to attempt to arrive at a universally recognized Law of the Sea. Canada had made its preparations months in advance, in what External Affairs Minister Howard Green has described as one of the biggest diplomatic campaigns ever undertaken by a Canadian government.

Canada and the U.S. had prepared a compromise agreement, that would extend the territorial limit of all maritime nations to six miles. (Most of them now claim jurisdiction over a three mile territorial limit, but there is nothing in international law to prevent any state from claiming jurisdiction up to a 12-mile limit).

The Canadian-U.S. proposal would have provided each nation with fisheries rights over another six miles. Nations such as the U.S. and Portugal, would have been given ten years to terminate fishing within this six-mile area; that is, between the six-mile territorial limit, and the 12-mile fishing limit.

Everyone knows what happened at the conference, which was held under the auspices of the United Nations. The proposal required a two-thirds majority, and it failed by a single vote. Fifty-four nations voted in favor, 28 against. Five abstained, and one, Lebanon, wasn't there.

The question now is: where do we go from here?

Some people, notably the fishing unions and companies in B.C. and some parts of the Maritimes, think Canada should arbitrarily declare a 12-mile territorial limit, a step that would involve sending the Royal Canadian Navy out to enforce it.

Iceland, Russia, Chile and Ecuador have already posted a 12-mile territorial limit, and the world is familiar with the clashes between trawlers from Great Britain and the gunboats of the Icelandic navy.

Such a unilateral decision by Canada would lead to a serious conflict with the United States. U.S. trawlers dip their nets up to the three mile limit off Cape Breton Island, off Anticosti; and up and down the B.C. coast.

The International Law Commission says a state that claims jurisdiction over a three-mile territorial limit doesn't have to recognize any more than a three-mile limit posted by other states, and U.S. fishermen would demand protection from their government when they move inshore.

At the same time, Canadian fishermen cannot be asked to stand offshore while the ships of a dozen nationalities move in to follow the fish.

Canada has bi-lateral fishing agreements with the U.S. now. One of them involves the sockeye and pink salmon of the Fraser River—an agreement whereby both countries abide by conservation measures, and divide the catch.

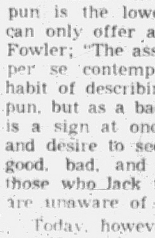
Now an attempt will be made to negotiate a 12-mile fishing limit with all the countries that cast covetous eyes on Canadian inshore banks, with the U.S., Russia, Portugal, the U.K. and a dozen others.

It's not a very satisfactory way of doing business, but as one official said recently: "It's better than trying to shoot it out."

THE NATIONAL FILM BOARD

BY TONY EMERY

Few Fields More Fraught With Snags and Obstacles



Emery

IT serves me right. It has rained puns since last Saturday—as well as rain—until I thought it would never end. I serve notice now that the next pundit to punish my ears will get a punch in the punkin, no matter how ingenious the play on words, but I will just close out the discussion by awarding the Septennial prize to my colleague Brian Tobin. In nearly seven years in Canada I have not seen a wittier pun than was enshrined in his remark about the late Emily Carr, whom he described as a painter who "cast her swirls before pine."

To those who still maintain that the pun is the lowest form of humor, I can only offer a word from the great Fowler; "The assumption that puns are per se contemptible betrayed by the habit of describing every pun not as a pun, but as a bad pun or a feeble pun, is a sign at once of sheepish docility and desire to seem superior. Puns are good, bad, and indifferent, and only those who lack the wit to make them are unaware of the fact."

Today, however, I wish to address myself sternly to the task of praising an institution that is nothing more nor less than a frill, supported by money exported annually from the taxpayer.

It takes a lot of nerve to praise a Canadian institution in Canada, as I have discovered when from time to time I have thrown out a congratulatory crumb in the direction of the CBC, but I feel that we should occasionally face the fact that Canadians can win world renown in other arenas than that devoted to ice-hockey.

Top Prizes

There are few fields of creativity more demanding on the energy and talent of the creator, or more fraught with snags and obstacles than the relatively new art of the film; and in Canada the attempt to make fine movies under Government sponsorship only comes of age this year; but in a short time the National Film Board has put Canada on the cultural map of the world with a choice handful of films that have carried off the top prizes at international film festivals such as those held at Cannes every year.

It was only in 1939 that John Grierson and a select group of other British devotees of the new faith in the "creative interpretation of reality" by means of documentary films arrived in Canada to take over the Federal Motion Picture Bureau.

In an old sawmill on the banks of the Ottawa river this skilled cadre trained a band of young Canadians to a point where they were able to strike out for themselves at the end of the war.

How well they learned the gospel preached by Grierson and Basil Wright, Paul Rotha and Arthur Elton, Flaherty and Anstey and Watt, can be gauged by the excellence of the films that the NFB began to produce after the departure of the British contingent.

In spite of the temptation to err on the side of caution which is usually a feature of Government-sponsored activities, I think it is true to say that no commercial companies have even tried to produce films as objective or outspoken as some that have come from the Film Board.

In Norman McLaren the Film Board has a film artist who has made an international reputation for himself and for his country with a series of brilliantly designed and executed cartoons which have opened the eyes of many people in other lands to the possibilities of the animated cartoon as an art form.

Witty Combination

When I saw my first McLaren cartoon on English television ten years ago it made an ineradicable impression: the witty combination of sound and color and movement stretched my eyes and ears to produce a genuine enlargement of experience.

Of the films made by the Board, or commissioned by them from Crawley Films, or freelances like Christopher Chapman, I have not space to treat, but I do want to call attention to the local branch office of the Board which is tucked away in the new Post Office Building.

It is run with immense energy and enthusiasm by Don Buchanan, who will certainly get into trouble with the Civil Servants' International if he continues to throw himself into his job with such all-consuming zeal. If you are a program chairman in search of a program for your group, sept, chapter, sect or cult, call Don and get hold of some of this stimulating and provocative material.

Three Comparisons

Try, for instance, the three films of a series called "Comparisons." The first, "The Age of Dissent," compares the opinions of young Canadians with those of a group of young Britons; the second, "Britain and Canada Debate," is a contrast in debating styles of university students; the third, "Four Families," puts the family relationship in four different countries under the spotlight.

I hope you feel, as I do, that the Government Film Commissioner (at present Guy Roberge, QC) and his board, which controls a production and distribution staff of about 600, deserve our warm congratulations. For an annual outlay of a whisker over a quarter of a million dollars we in British Columbia get a library full of excellent film; at fourteen cents a head this is no bad bargain. The Emery family has certainly had its six bits' worth.

BEFORE THE JUDGE By SILENUS

Clouds at the Summit

SILENUS

THERE was a terrible hooroosh at the Samwich Bay Council meeting last week when the news was brought in that an airplane, which had taken off from an airfield in the neighboring municipality of North Samwich Bay, had crash-landed in Councillor Wart's pasture.

Council was in the middle of going through the Police Commission budget before a record crowd of ratepayers and policemen; reporters noticed at least seven new faces in the crowd, and the regular attenders were out in force. The Reeve, as representative of the Commission on the Municipal Council, was explaining the advantages which would accrue to the public interest if modified Sidewinder heat-homing missiles were fitted to prowler cars, and was being interrupted continuously by Councillor Pointless. The Councillor, in private life, is, as everyone knows, a prominent sports car enthusiast who is proud of his record. Seven arrests for having no muffler, and no convictions.

The Reeve was just about to rule Councillor Pointless out of order for the third time, when a small boy pushed his breathless way through the police and stood panting before the Reeve.

"'Sa plane down over to Wart's!" he puffed. "Ma's got the pilot locked up in t'woodshed. He's kickin' the' door and she won't last much longer!"

"Why did you not phone for the police, little boy?" asked the kindly chief magistrate, dropping his gavel and switching on his high beam.

"Did! No answer. Guess they're all in here. 'Sa little plane! With a red tail! You better come over!"

At a signal from the Clerk, two policemen slipped out. Within ten minutes they returned, one carrying a sack of lumpy objects, and the other leading a young man by a short length of chain.

Prolonged questioning by the Reeve and Councillor Wart elicited little from the young man except that he was the pilot of the aircraft which had indeed crashed in the Wart pasture. The objects in the sack proved to be a collection of instruments, watches, cameras, spanners and an oil can, together with assorted pieces of crumpled metal. There was also a roll of film, which when hastily developed by the police laboratory, proved to be a number of double exposures of the Samwich Bay beauty queen for 1958 in a bathing suit.

The pilot is still in custody; and the intermunicipal atmosphere is tense. Before adjourning the meeting the Reeve indicated that he would consider carefully, in the light of the occurrence, his invitation to the Reeve of North Samwich Bay to attend the Corporation's Strawberry Tea next month.

But Councillor Wart's motion to sever all ties with North Samwich Bay was ruled out of order, on the ground of personal interest.

LONDON LETTER By WALLACE REYBURN

Boating on the Broads

Reyburn

LONDON—One of the favorite ways for the English to spend their annual holidays is boating on the 2,600 acres of lakes in Norfolk, on what are called the Broads up there on the East Coast.

Few families own their own boats, so there is a big summer industry in the area providing cabin cruisers which are rented out for Mom and Dad and the kids to climb aboard and meander around the beautiful waterways for their fortnight's break.

It now comes as news to those who have returned from such a holiday raving about it that the Norfolk Broads aren't natural lakes at all.

A woman botanist, Dr. J. M. Lambert, has published a book which explains how they are man-made—plus a bit of help from some heavy storms on the North Sea.

With the help of gentlemen known as psysiographers, she did over 2,000 borings in the Broads and found that they all had steep and obviously man-made sides. Then some historical geographers were called in and it was established beyond doubt that the Broads are flooded peat diggings.

It seems it all goes back to the Middle Ages. Around 900, settlers in that treeless area, which had no signs of a lake in those days, had to dig for peat as fuel.

Things were doing fine until the 13th Century, when a series of hectic storms on the North Sea not only flooded the Zuider Zee over in Holland but also inundated what by then were vast peat-pits in Norfolk.

The peat-diggers did their best to carry on, working out new methods of excavating the peat under water, but by the middle of the 15th Century the sea had won and Norfolk got its now famous Broads.

INTELLECTUALS ADVISE IKE

Tackle Problems Internationally

CHICAGO (UPI)—Leading Western intellectuals today forwarded to President Eisenhower their recommendations for easing tensions and strife in a jittery world.

Most recommendations centred around an international—rather than national — approach to such problems as economic aid, disarmament and world law.

The leaders sharply criticized the flight of America's U-2 jet spy plane over Russia and urged that the United States change its approach to foreign aid, disarmament controls and the world court.

The report capped three days of debate by more than 100 educators, statesmen, businessmen and students attending the conference on world tensions at the University of Chicago.

The report was flown to Washington by Charles H. Percy, conference delegate and chairman of the Republican national convention platform committee. Percy was to give the report to Eisenhower before the president left for the summit conference in Paris.

Don't Wait for Inspection System

The conference report urged that:

—Flights over nations should be internationally controlled to prevent world crisis.

—The U.S. should not demand a foolproof inspection system before agreeing to disarmament.

—The Connelly Amendment should be repealed. The amendment gives the U.S. the right to decide what matters are strictly domestic, thereby vetoing cases before the World Court.

—The U.S. and Russia should join in giving aid to underdeveloped nations.

—More aid should come from multinational agencies, such as the United Nations, instead of individual countries such as the U.S.

The conference urged the President to propose such multilateral trade at next week's summit conference.

Wealthier western nations should increase their trade and aid to small nations by three billion dollars a year, the report said.

ALSBURY SAYS CITIES MUST ACT

Small Handouts Not Enough

CHICAGO (CP) — Mayor Tom Alsbury of Vancouver, in a fighting policy speech, said Friday senior governments must give municipalities more money or cut their responsibilities.

In an address to the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, Mayor Alsbury said municipalities "now are a large family—there are 4,000 of us."

"We are grown up and have adult responsibilities. Yet we are still kept like a child on a small weekly allowance.

"Handouts, patching and improvising and making-do no longer work.

"What is needed is a complete overhaul and revision of our inter-governmental relationship."

He said the municipalities of Canada must make certain their position is set forth at the Dominion-provincial conference set for Ottawa next July.

In one of the best-received speeches so far at the four-day convention which ends today, Alsbury said:

"The prime minister, at last year's convention in North Bay, expressed hope — almost promised—that municipalities would be represented on the provincial delegations to the July conference."

Municipalities were going broke trying to provide essential services. "But it is not sufficient to diagnose the disease, we must prescribe a cure.

"We need complete reassessment, perhaps some reallocation of responsibilities to be borne by each level of government.

"Assign to each the proper taxing powers or just a proper share of tax dollars to enable each to stand on its own feet.

"Take the municipalities off the dole," he said. "Tax resources should be assigned as a right, not as a concession."

HANDLING OF METROS AS ONE UNIT ADVISED

CHICAGO (CP)—F. G. Gardiner, Metropolitan Toronto chairman, told a joint meeting of Canadian and United States mayors Friday that every metropolitan area is one geographical, social and economic unit.

"It is obvious that, all the synthetic and artificial boundaries to the contrary, every metropolitan area is one geographical, one economic and one social unit and will have to be dealt with on that basis," he said.

ONE OF FEW 15-year-old artists to be "hung" in Britain's august Royal Academy is Paul Riley, whose painting of old houses was accepted for this year's RA summer exhibition. Thus, Paul joins a select band that includes the great Landseer, who arrived there at age 12. Paul's father, an art teacher at the young artist's grammar school, submitted pictures of his own which were rejected.

A WRITER'S DIARY

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

Biographies of actors are not everybody's meat. The tale of mounting success, of growing fortune, of public adulation and private virtue or dissipation offers little to attract readers who are not devoted to the stage. But now and then an actor's biography is written which illustrates something more significant than one man's absorption in an essentially fleeting art; the life of Henry Irving, which was written by his grandson Laurence and published in 1951 was one such book, and "Edwin Forrest," by Richard Moody (McClelland and Stewart in Canada, Knopf in U.S.), which has appeared within the past few weeks, is another.

What this life of Forrest illustrates is the fearful hatred and violence which could be aroused by the dying spirit of colonialism in the United States. In the first half of the last century the political maturity of the U.S. was not in question, but its artistic maturity was gravely doubted by its own people; in this respect it resembled Canada now. In the theatre of nineteenth century America—a theatre which was everything that theatre, movies and television now include—English acting was admired, because of its supposed superior subtlety and polish. Edwin Forrest, the finest American actor of his time, challenged that supremacy, and did much to destroy it. The methods he chose were characteristic of the man and his time.

Personal Feud Induced Tragic Riot

To summarize the matter, Forrest visited England in 1836 and 1845, and although he was admired he was also criticized for the coarseness and flamboyance of his performances. He believed, with partial justification, that some of this criticism was fanned by William Macready, the leading English actor of the day. When Macready came to the States in 1849, Forrest was ready for him, and the upshot of their quarrel was a riot on May 10 in Astor Place, New York, outside the Astor theatre, where Macready was attempting to act 'Macbeth'; appeals to patriotism were made in such terms as 'Workingmen, shall Americans or English rule in this city?'; rioters stoned the police, the military was called, the crowd was fired upon, thirty-one people were killed, and forty-eight were badly hurt. Forrest was never openly accused of stirring up the riot, but it was widely believed that he had done so, and he never troubled to deny it.

It was not American patriotism which drove Forrest onward, so much as megalomania and a nagging sense of inferiority which made him protest against oppression when nobody was oppressing him. He delighted in plays where he could portray a humble man triumphing over aristocratic and powerful tyrants. One of his favorites was a drama called "Metamora," in which he played a noble Indian, who put to shame the inferior white invader. He turned Bulwer's "Richelieu" into a duel between an all-powerful king, and a fril old saint with no power at all—except that of sending the king to hell. It will surprise nobody to learn that this champion of the oppressed built himself a magnificent castle on the Hudson and was a tyrant in the theatre.

His Favorite Actress Was an Amazon

As an artist, he must have been extraordinary. He possessed remarkable power of voice, and the physique of a Hercules. 'He flung actors about like sacks of flour. But he also had a feeling for psychological truth which gave immense range to parts like King Lear, in which both maximum strength and fine shadings were required. Unfortunately he despised actresses, and rarely had a leading lady of adequate quality. His favorite, Josephine Clifton, seems to have impressed him by her approximation to his own vast bulk; she was almost six feet tall and weighed over two hundred pounds, while her mind was described by a friendly critic as 'of a masculine turn.'

Mr. Moody's book is frankly partisan, but it is a fine picture of the coming-of-age of the American theatre. The forty-four years of Forrest's fame were great days for his country and its artists. The Forrest whom William Winter called "utterly selfish," and consumed with 'vanity, pride, self-assertion and avarice of power, praise and wealth' is shown at his best. But even his best does not make us like Forrest, though we pity him. The story of his gradual subjection by rheumatism, and the loss of that physical strength in which he delighted is terribly sad — sadder even than the dissolution of the marriage into which he entered with a romantic idealism which is both noble and ludicrous.

Forrest was, in his realm, one of those American giants of the nineteenth century who made the literature and art of their country the possession of its people, rather than an import. We feel it in every page of this excellent book. If we cannot like the man, we are equally unable to diminish his achievement in the popular art to which he gave his life.

Pictures From Life

Kathleen Norris, author of eighty novels, has now finished her engaging, informal autobiography entitled "Family Gathering." It is an autobiography charmingly her own.

She fills her pages with affectionate anecdotes drawn both from the sparkling and vivacious family life with which she has always surrounded herself, and from her life as a reporter, novelist and wife of another distinguished novelist.

The early part of the book is an interesting picture of other young American writers before they became famous—Edna Ferber, Alice Duer Miller, William Rose Benet among them.

The book is published in England by John Murray.

ART IN REVIEW

By MONCRIEFF WILLIAMSON

Critics Shocked as RA 'Hangs' Disputive Gear

Well, I have just had a suprise and I don't know whether or not my words will be sufficient unto the event. Mr. William Gear, one of England's most controversial non-objectivist (sometimes) and abstract expressionist (at other times) artist, has just had two large canvases hung in the 1960 Royal Academy.

Williamson

Nine years ago, almost to the day, Mr. Gear was being verbally castigated from one end of the old country to the other for his impertinence, his cheek, in daring to carry off the 500 guineas Festival of Britain award for painting. It was, to all intents, the top award as far as serious painting was concerned, and in picking Gear for the honor, the Arts Council of Great Britain thrust into an unwanted blaze of publicity a straightforward, serious and dedicated painter.

The press was almost unanimously unkind in a rather boorish, "welfare state austerity" manner and when the Tate Gallery made matters worse, by hanging a Gear painting upside down, the chase was on!

Vindicated

How long ago it all seems—yet only nine years; nine years in which Gear has carried off one award after another throughout the world and the Arts Council's wisdom aforethought has been vindicated.

A good, though often very uneven painter, Gear can paint with brilliance when he is in the mood; and even in his more ordinary canvasses and graphics, there is still to be traced a clearly individual, tempestuous undercurrent which keeps him well out in front of some of his contemporaries who have neither the staying power nor consistent output, come high come low, to equal him.

Naturally the Royal Academicians have not been too friendly towards Gear and his abstractionist colleagues. Naturally, also, leading critics and authorities have been his supporters and when they have flung their darts and called him to painterly order, their criticism has been justified, because they knew he could do better.

And now this. The 1960 Academy!

An Idea!

It is as if we were to open our Times and read that Mr. Herbert Siebner had been commissioned by Premier Bennett to redecorate the rotunda of the Legislative Buildings with a giant mural — incidentally, not such a bad idea.

In Canada, fortunately, we do not support any body of exhibitors who wield quite such power as the Academicians of Burlington House; and say what you will, their influence is too often underestimated by their opponents.

Their greatest asset (hidden) is their close association with the establishment, coupled with the fact that, operating their annual summer exhibitions at the height of the tourist season, they remain, even after all these years, the shopkeepers of British art.

As a matter of convenience, the Academy crowds into its vast exhibition rooms all varieties of "acceptable art" and if you make one trip to London a year, as many people do, you are able to keep away from all other galleries during the next 12 months, for you have seen "all that is best."

And the atmosphere of the Academy has to be sampled to be appreciated. I am not referring to the overcrowded private view day, nor the almost equally crowded other days, but press day.

Heart-Wrenching

On two or three occasions I used to nip in on a Times of India pass, and believe you me, I felt quite a fellow. To see one's brother scribes slouching around with airs of almost total abandonment and hardly daring to look at walls, knowing that sooner or later they would have to write about what they saw, could wrench the toughest heart.

Then the best part of the day. Almost totally exhausted, mesmerized and suffering from stupendous visual jag, a few brave fellows would adjourn to the delightful little pub at the corner of Burlington Arcade, and after two drinks, usually downed in silence, the words would flow with the beer sops. But those were the spoken words between colleagues — words which, alas, very few would have the courage to put in print.

Even at this distance I can imagine what was being said this year among the wise ones who guard their Academy passes so tenaciously.

Death Knell

Is this the death knell for non-objective art in Britain? By bringing Gear and his fellows into the Academy do they hope to silence them forever? Is non-objective art so dead that it can now be considered as respectable?

Since 1951 the Royal Academy has become both more tolerant and realistic in its attitude toward younger artists. It has shown, on the whole, magnanimity, even though its official expression has been, at times, rather pained.

One could even accuse it of being over eager to accept what goes against its grain, for the sake of dollar gain during the tourist months — though the majority of its sales are for home consumption as no other race could stomach some of the fare offered.

What would be particularly interesting to know is whether this is the first time William Gear has troubled to submit his work, and why he did so? The Academy continues to move with the times, though the time lag might be anywhere from nine to 20 years.

These remarks will prove, I think, that this year has been no exception. Mr. Gear arrived, but a long time ago.

Money Not First For Writer O'Hara

By HAL BOYLE

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Because of high taxes and a fear of wearing out their welcome with the public, some major novelists now feel it pays to produce a book only every five years.

But author John O'Hara, with one novel Ourselves to Know now high on the best-seller list, has already completed another—and is planning a third which he feels will be the best of his life.

"I'm working harder than I ever did, and producing more," he said. "I'm 55, and I want to write what's in me.

MORE THAN MONEY

"I want to get it done, even though financially it's better to put one out every five years. The dough isn't the main consideration with me, and never has been."

Anyone who knows O'Hara knows this is true. Although he once was one of the greatest literary playboys of his day, he always also was recognized as one of its most earnest craftsmen. He ranks with his own writing heroes — Hemingway, Faulkner, Fitzgerald, and Steinbeck.

"I've been dry now for nearly seven years," remarked O'Hara, a big fellow who earlier was a quart-a-day athlete. He now fuels his creative efforts with 20 demitasses of coffee daily.

Despite a painful back ailment he hammers four or five hours nightly at his 1940 typewriter, turning out 2,000 words or more. A rollcall of 17 books is one testament to his industry.

PREFERS OFF-HOURS

O'Hara and his second wife live quietly in a 10-room white brick home on a 2½-acre plot about three miles from the Princeton University campus.

As in his newspaper days, he still likes to write in the late night or early morning hours.

O'Hara is ruggedly honest about his purpose and his goal.

"My goal is to depict life as straight as I can," he said. "It is to tell the truth. I don't want to change the world."

He feels the great dangers to creative writers are "procrastination, special pleading, and going off on a political kick."

"I'm against any of these big brother things — whether big brother is science, government, business or labor," he said.

'Bantus Want To Be Treated As Children'

Mrs. G. P. M. Payne, who spent 11 years in South Africa during which time she was headmistress of a girls' school, Thursday addressed the public affairs and world service education committee of the YWCA.

She pointed out to 25 listeners that despite recent developments in South Africa, it was "not a land of cruel whites ruling blacks."

The Bantus themselves, comprising the largest negro majority, "wanted" to be treated as children, she said.

Factors not apparent from this distance influence the policies of the South African government, she said.

Choral Society To Perform Masterpiece

Final major concert program of the current season will take place next Friday at Christ Church Cathedral when Victoria Choral Society will perform, under the direction of Stanley Hoban, Johannes Brahms' great and beautiful masterpiece, the German Requiem.

Brahms began this work as a personal expression of his grief over the death of his friend, Robert Schumann, and concluded it under the still more deeply personal sorrow of his mother's death four years later.

It is not cast in the traditional mold, being a completely Protestant work with a German instead of Latin text based on the Lutheran Bible.

Its seven movements encompass emotions ranging from the depths of despair, through a tender and wonderful consolation, exultant triumph of the spirit and ultimate tranquility.

Soloists in next Friday evening's presentation are soprano Margaret Abbott and bass-baritone Stanley Martin.

Richard Proudman will accompany at the organ, assisted by harpist Lorna Langley and tympanist F. Morris.

Mr. Proudman will open the program with a major organ work by Johann Sebastian Bach. This will be followed by the choir singing a Bach Chorale and Mr. Proudman playing Brahms' Variation on the Bach theme, so leading into the opening of the Requiem.

The concert starts at 8 p.m. There will be a collection.

Prisoners' Tribute For First Woman MP

By The Canadian Press

Canada's first woman member of Parliament was an outspoken champion of the needy and those in trouble and a fighter for many unpopular causes.

These were dominant characteristics of Agnes Macphail, a dynamic figure on Canada's political stage for almost 30 years, as set forth in Ask No Quarter, a biography by Margaret Stewart and Doris French (Longmans, Green and Company).

Her Canadian biographers divided their task. Mrs. French concentrated on Miss Macphail's years at Ottawa and Mrs. Stewart covered her Ontario legislature term.

Born in 1890 in rural Grey County in Ontario, Miss Macphail was first elected to the Commons in 1921 as a Progressive, representing Grey South-East and later Grey-Bruce. She remained in the House, an outspoken, often angry but always hard-working and conscientious member, until 1940.

Subsequently she sat for two terms in the Ontario legislature as CCF member for York East. But party labels mattered little to her; she was primarily interested in the problems facing her constituents.

PENAL REFORM

Under her relentless prodding, the spotlight became focussed on penitentiary conditions. A royal commission was set up in 1936 to investigate the situation.

Its report in 1938 disclosed shocking conditions: the criminally insane were kept in penitentiaries because the provincial governments would not accept them in mental hospitals; discipline was brutal; virtually no trades were taught and prisoners spent 17 hours daily alone in their locked cells.

It took years for improvements to be effected. But the report was a major step forward.

She died in February, 1954, shortly before the then Liberal government in Ottawa had planned to appoint her to the Senate.

Perhaps the recognition she would have cherished most came from the prisoners at Kingston penitentiary.

An article in the K. P. Telescope, referring to improved conditions, said: "The changes wrought within these cold grey walls were her handiwork; to her must go our tribute."

Lusty Yarn

The Devil and Cal McCabe, by Thomas Saunders (Ryerson Press), makes no pretence of being an historical piece. The poem is a lusty yarn about a cowboy with sensitive corns whose determination to win a challenge carries him through an historic bronco ride, a bout with demon rum and a midnight encounter with the devil himself.

TWO for the SHOW

(A PLUS) "HOME FROM THE HILL" (Royal) — The only "bore" in MGM's "Home From the Hill" is the four-legged variety. Otherwise there is no sign of the beast in the picture's entire two-and-a-half hour running time.

The adaptation of William Humphrey's novel by Harriet Frank Jr., and Irving Ravetch is a double-pronged affair, one prong journeying into the masculine world of hunting and the other into what is alleged to be the world of the female, that of family cupboard cleaning and the airing of dirty linen. Be that as it may, the two combined make for rattling good drama filmed in Metrocolor that is especially effective in the outdoor scenes.

The plot, in brief:

Wealthy Robert Mitchum has been locked out of his wife's bedroom since they returned from their honeymoon. Therefore he has looked elsewhere for affection and thusly built up a reputation that would be envied by the average alley cat. This is made quite clear in the opening scene when an irked husband guns him down.

When he recovers sufficiently Mitchum one day has a good look at son, George Hamilton, and realizes that he needs a man's attention and immediatly has him throw away the toys of his youth and indoctrinates him into his world of dogs firearms and hunting lore. He puts him under the tutelage of George Peppard, a youth who lives on Mitchum's land but unrecognized by him as a son although he is, the result of a boyish lark.

One thing emerges clear and startling in this film—Mitchum is learning to act. I can't remember him to such good advantage. He is ably assisted by Eleanor Parker as his bitter wife; Peppard, Hamilton and Luana Patten as Hamilton's sweetheart. Indeed it is good to see the emergence of three new young faces that bear such promise of even better things to come.

Direction by Vincente Minnelli can be credited with the skilful manner in which "Home From the Hill" is kept on the move towards its logical conclusion.

(BB PLUS) "CASH McCALL" (Capitol)—Those who have difficulty keeping abreast of mortgage payments, their milk bills and squeezing enough out of a badly battered budget for a movie doubtless will squirm with admiration as they watch big businessman Cash McCall (Maverick's James Garner) manipulating millions with the twist of a telephone dial.

There will be others, however, who will pause to wonder if Warner's adaptation of Cameron ("Executive Suite") Hawley's novel doesn't oversimplify the complexities of stock transactions which allow one man to move in on a faltering company, discover its main weaknesses, buy it for less than its worth, put a representative of his own in to build it (and the stock) up and sell it quickly for a staggering profit.

In "Executive Suite" there was a certain coin-ringing hardness and clarity about it all but somehow "Cash McCall" emerges on celluloid as a cross between Callous in Wonderland, made up of amplified telephones, gold-plated penthouses, private planes and Technicolor, and a Wizard of Odds with sex.

NATALIE WOOD
. . . maturing

This latter ingredient is supplied nicely by Natalie Wood who proves that not only is she maturing as a woman but actress as well as she plays the babe in the woods who turns into a bare when she meets McCall. However the meeting doesn't end as she would have it, only in embarrassment. Therefore when Cash comes around later to buy out daddy's (Dean Jagger) plastic company for a couple of million she offers him a shoulder much colder than in the first instance of the first part.

All—Garner, Jagger, Henry Jones, E. G. Marshall, Nina Foch, and the others — are competent in their respective roles. The weakness of the film lies mostly in the shallowness of the play itself, written by Lenore Coffee and Marion Hargrove.

Don Hudson, CBC-TV's variety impressario who was just appointed associate producer to Jack Arthur on the Canadian National Exhibition Grandstand Show is certainly one of Canada's top showmen.

Legend has it, Hudson was so young when he started in the business that he had to be changed as often as the scenery.

His curriculum vitae includes such talents as magician, dancer, choreographer, stage-manager, producer, director, movie theatre manager, TV executive, and teller of showbusiness yarns.

His favorite goes back to his movie days and concerns a man who was seen leading a large brown bear into a movie theatre.

The doorman backed away and let the bear and his master in as did the petrified ushers, but the manager made of sterner stuff, came down the aisle to the pair. "Alright," he roared. "Why did you bring that big brown bear into this movie?"

"Well, I didn't want to," replied the man meekly. "But he liked the book so much!"

CULTURAL STANDARDS EXCELLENT

We Needn't Leave Canada To Find 'The Real Thing'

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — "The Voice of Denmark," which rang in a lyric tenor for the resistance during the Nazi occupation, today speaks in a quiet baritone from a small practice room in downtown Toronto.

Aksel Schiotz (pronounced Shoots) is teaching oratorio and German leader in a room dominated by a grand piano in the old-fashioned Royal Conservatory of Music building.

"There was an enormous need for hearing Danish folk music during the occupation," he said in a heavy accent. "They told me I was too well-known to join the resistance movement—that I could do a better job singing the songs they needed to hear. I sang openly and it was a strange thing but the Germans left me alone."

He was dubbed "The Voice of Denmark" and after the war the late King Christian X decorated him with the Order of Dannebrog.

Aksel Schiotz was born in Roskilde, Denmark, in 1906. He was 24 when he graduated from the University of Copenhagen in languages and became a high school teacher.

He joined the famous Danish Students' Choir and stayed with it until 1938 when he gave up teaching and became a professional singer.

AT GLYNDEBOURNE

Denmark was occupied in 1940 and from then until the end of the war he built up an extensive repertoire of oratorio, lieder and light lyrical opera parts. He launched his international career in London in 1945. The next year he sang the leading tenor part at the first post-war Glyndebourne Festival.

Illness forced him into retirement at the end of that season and, when he returned to music in the 1948-49 season, it was as a baritone.

His return was marked by Copenhagen University students, who chose him "Artist of Honor" that year. Through to 1955 he specialized in lieder, appearing in concerts in Edinburgh, Copenhagen, Canada, Europe and North Africa.

He taught at the Royal Conservatory summer school in 1955. In 1956-57-58 he taught at the University of British Columbia summer school. He sang in the Vancouver Festival in 1957-58.

After a short time on the faculty of Macalester College and the University of Minnesota, he accepted an invitation to join the Royal Conservatory's voice faculty in 1958.

DANISH VISIT

This summer he will take a weekend break from summer school duties in Boston to fly home to Copenhagen at the invitation of the Danish-Canadian Association.

"They have invited me to sing at their Canadian Dominion Day celebrations in Denmark."

He just returned from a Bach festival in London, Ont., and was preparing to leave for Ottawa to adjudicate a music festival there. One of his Ottawa functions was a reception in his honor given by the Danish ambassador.

The man who twice built himself an international reputation in music had wanted to move to North America for 20 years, ever since he first came to sing in a San Francisco festival.

"I admire Canada's vitality and determination to progress. I like the vigor with which money is raised and given away in all parts of Canada to encourage education and the arts. In Europe, people take their cultural life for granted and tend to be lazy.

"I find students here more eager to learn than they are in my country.

" . . . Why do Canadians feel they must leave the country to get 'the real thing?' Canadian cultural standards are excellent. . . . With the CBC, all the music festivals and the orchestras, there are more opportunities here than there are in the United States."

"BRIGADOON," the lovely Scottish musical by Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe (the "My Fair Lady" team), will be seen at the Royal Theatre May 23, 24 and 25, as produced by Victoria Gilbert and Sullivan Operatic Society. The show stars several city singers and dancers, among them ballerina Sharon Kirk and baritone John Goult. Sharon was recently a multiple award winner at the Spokane dance festival. John Goult has appeared in two recent G and S shows, is also society's president.

Former City Pianist Pleases N.Z. Critics

A former Victorian played an international role last month as a Canadian making the New Zealand debut of a Polish piano work written in Vancouver.

MAX EDWARDS
". . . impressive technique"

Max Edwards, who lived here until 1950, performed at the University of Otago in the beautiful city of Dunedin, in a piano recital including the unpublished Prelude and Fugue by Tadeusz Talpert-Scanderbeg, of North Vancouver, now a Polish lecturer at University of B.C.

Dunedin newspaper critics referred to the recitalist as an "accomplished pianist" and "gifted amateur," "a distinct asset to musical circles in Dunedin."

He is a linguist and doctor of history and went to New Zealand to join the University of Otago's department of modern languages about 18 months ago.

Before leaving Victoria for study in New York and Philadelphia and work at UBC, Mr. Edwards was known to local musical circles as a recitalist.

'LABOR OF LOVE'

Halpert-Scanderbeg, who knew Paderewski well, adapted his Prelude and Fugue for piano for his friend Dr. Edwards, using an earlier work entitled Allegro and Fugue for orchestra.

Of its performance by Dr. Edwards, one newspaper writer said, ". . . this was clearly a labor of love," ". . . a fine performance."

The same writer said:

"Dr. Edwards is an accomplished pianist with a special flair for cantabile playing. His technique, while not impeccable, is impressive, especially in the cleanness of his pedal work, and his interpretations were always intelligent and stylish though occasionally understated."

Enjoying his new home, where he took his invalid mother, Dr. Edwards writes that work is "more hectic than it has ever been for me before, and I hardly get enough time to sleep or eat nowadays. I'll be glad when summer comes around in November, with a holiday again."

Canada's Defence Role

By TOM GOULD

OTTAWA—A number of Canadian MPs recently visited Strategic Air Command headquarters to find out what lies behind the West's policy of massive retaliation.

They found a keyed-up organization, an air of tenseness and impending climax, a fantastic communications network, and a top SAC general who told them: "We of SAC say it is better to be dead than Red."

SAC is a very belligerent organization. Its aircrews are indoctrinated with but a single thought. When the balloon goes up, they are expendable, and they must get through to drop their cargoes of devastation.

The bombers of SAC are the keystone of the Grand Strategy of the Western Allies.

When the U.S. perfects its ICBMs, they will replace the bombers, and enough progress has been made in that perfection for the U.S. to cancel some of its proposed new supersonic jet weapons carriers.

Evolved Slowly

Whatever the carrier, bomber or missile, massive retaliation today is the dominant factor in Western strategy. It evolved slowly after the Second World War, until the bloodbath in Korea, when it hardened and solidified.

The U.S. informed the world that any attack against the U.S. or her allies would be met by an all-out nuclear assault. At the time of the Berlin crisis, President Eisenhower gave full play to the policy, when he informed the world the U.S. would not fight another ground war in Europe.

Thus has been formed the balance of terror, the nuclear standoff. How much of it is bluff may never be known. But it has created an umbrella of shelter to North Americans, who, with a forlorn hope, believe the U.S. and Russia cannot go to war, because to do so would result in mutual destruction.

It is within the framework of this policy that Canadian defence policy must be viewed.

Here a major question arises: Why does Canada have forces stationed in Europe (the 5,000-man brigade group, and the 12-squadron air division) if our entire policy is predicated on the strategic concept there will never again be a ground war in Europe?

I asked one of Canada's senior defence planners recently if these forces, and the U.S. troops on the Continent, are mere hostages, to ensure North American participation in any future European conflict.

"I wouldn't use that term; but that's the general idea," he replied. "Of course we don't expect they will have to fight."

Viscount Montgomery, on his recent visit to Canada, said Canadian and U.S. troops should be sent home, because if the European political leaders don't trust their NATO allies, he said, NATO has failed.

The money Canada spends on her European forces would equip and maintain several divisions of French or German troops.

Most Perplexing

Several military men I approached said this issue is the most perplexing NATO faces today. Although strategy says they will never fight, Canadian and U.S. forces in Europe are a physical manifestation of the Western partnership, and European politicians, still suspicious of the U.S. after her belated entry into the last two great wars, would strenuously oppose any move to ship them home.

So far, Canada hasn't made any new proposals on its European committments. We have been content to follow along, accepting the financial burden with good grace, doing as we are told to do by NATO military headquarters.

Common sense determines our European forces are a complete waste in the military sense, but the political considerations, so far, have kept them in Germany and France.

Now a new trial is approaching that could dictate an entirely new policy on the part of the Canadian government.

Fewer Men

The massive retaliation concept has resulted in a reduced requirement for men in the armed forces. One missile today can accomplish more damage than armies could in the second world war.

Military men, particularly in the U.S., are countering these reductions with a shrill-clamoring for a build-up in conventional land forces.

An off-shoot of this highly-vocal faction has succeeded in convincing the U.S. Congress of the need for so-called "tactical" nuclear weapons.

Soon, most U.S. forces in Europe will be equipped with these baby A-bombs, in a variety of shapes and sizes, with an ascending scale of destructive capacity.

(Next article, Monday.)

FILL-IN PLAN

Bus Depot, Heliport At Rock Bay?

City council Thursday recommended fill-in of "useful land" in Rock Bay, off Government.

Ald. Hugh Ramsay envisaged the site as a "multiple transportion centre" which would include bus terminuses and a helicopter landing site."

Council will investigate reasons for and against erection of "high" buildings along the Gorge.

Feeling was that erection of such structures would be detrimental to the beauty of the area.

Commercial construction allowances had been asked here.

Complaints of elderly citizens against the noise they expect to hear from Gayland Shows, here May 16-23 in connection with the Jaycees industrial and business fair, was given a sympathetic hearing by council.

They will ask the chief of police, and the Junior Chamber, to try and keep the noise from loudspeakers down in the Memorial Arena area where the show will be held.

Contract has been let, work expected to start in August, for renewal of the Memorial Arena floor, at a cost of $31,406.

City council has approved the expenditure.

J. & E. Hall and Co., Vancouver, will do the work.

Only "our children's children" will likely see completion of Gonzales Bay breakwater, according to Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

Cost could be $1,000,000," so it should be long-range planning."

It took more than 50 years of thinking to get the present Oak Bay breakwater started, he pointed out.

* * *

Please, said Ald. Edgelow, if you attend the Victoria Day parade, don't leave papers strewn around!

It makes merchants unhappy. They must clean up.

Dump newspapers in curb garbage containers, he asked.

BEASTALL ADVISES

May 23 Will Be Big Day For District Gardeners

By JACK BEASTALL

May 24 has long been the gardeners holiday in Victoria, the day when gardening starts in earnest.

That was when May 24 came on the 24, but since it became Empire Day on some calendars and Victoria Day on others, and can fall on half a dozen different dates, the poor gardener has no day to call his own.

This year the holiday will be on the 23rd, next week-end, and it is near enough to the 24th for us to stay with our regular schedule, providing nothing serious in the way of weather upsets our careful plans.

This weekend, and through the coming week, there is some preparatory work to be done.

First will be the final decision on the seeds to sow and where they will be sown.

Next will be checking through the seed packets on hand and preparing a list of those to be purchased before next weekend.

A job which will extend over several evenings for some gardeners is the preparing of the soil where the seeds are to be sown.

TOP INCH

A fine tilth is essential for good results when seeds are sown outdoors. It need be only the top inch or so excepting where root crops, such as carrots, are to be grown. For the latter the soil should be free of lumps for a depth of six to eight inches in order to obtain straight roots. Lumps of either soil or manure will cause the roots to fork.

The tilth needed for seed sowing is obtained by prolonged working of the soil with a steel rake, first removing or breaking the larger lumps, and then going lengthways and crossways over the area.

Spending a few minutes each evening on this work will give wonderful results without becoming wearisome and causing aching muscles.

CLOSE CONTACT

One benefit of a fine seed bed is better germination because the tiny seeds can be pressed into close contact with the soil and therefore are not in an air pocket which remains dry.

Another is that weeding and thinning out the seedlings can be done with less disturbance than in a soil which has a surface of dried lumps.

The garden line should be checked to make sure the string is not rotted. Ordinary light wrapping string will do for a temporary line, or carpenters' chalk line for something more permanent, providing it is not left outside in all weathers.

The fortified peat products, such as blue whale, can be used to advantage. A small amount incorporated into the surface two inches of soil where the seed drill will be made tends to hold more moisture and give faster germination.

Straight peat moss, without additives, should be used with care in the vegetable section of the garden. It is beneficial for making heavy soils more open, and for holding moisture in light soils which tend to dry rapidly.

TOO ACID

There have been instances where heavy and frequent applications have resulted in the soil becoming too acid in reaction for vegetable plants. A soil slightly on the acid side of neutral is ideal. Check the quantity on hand and replenish early in the week.

A good supply of labels, manufactured or home-made, will be needed, and some stakes suitable for row markers.

If a general balanced fertilizer has not been added, apply about one-and-one-half pounds to 100 square feet and rake it well into the surface.

Any complete fertilizer will do, such as a 6-8-6, 4-12-4, or 5-10-5.

All the main crop vegetables can be sown now, including those to be grown to maturity for winter storage. Also the annual flowers listed in the Work for Week column.

Dwarf and runner beans may be included in most areas, excepting where late May frosts are usually experienced. A June sowing in colder districts will be just as far ahead. Place poles or netting for runner beans before the seed is sown.

BEWARE CHILL

Tomato plants and the tender vine plants such as marrow, squash and cucumbers, are set out in districts normally frost free at this time of year.

It pays to have protective covers handy, and to check outdoor conditions each night just before bedtime. A clear sky, sparkling stars, and a distinct chill in the air, usually means a low temperature by sunrise.

Covering with cardboard cartons, clay flower pots, sacking or plastic sheets over stakes, or three thicknesses of newspaper, will give protection from several degrees of frost.

Sweet pepper and egg-plants are best kept indoors until June unless coldframe or cloche protection is used.

As mentioned last week, sow a few seeds at ten-day intervals rather than the entire garden on one day.

Sow thinly to save labor in thinning out and to give the seedlings a better start. Cover the seeds with soil but do not smother them. They need warmth, air, and moisture to germinate. Soil can be sifted over the rows after germination, if necessary.

Keep the surface soil moist until germination is complete. Should the weather turn hot it may be necessary to provide shade to prevent excessive drying out.

WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

If earwigs are found to be present around cold frames or newly set out young plants, use a commercial bran bait be sure it is one which is freshly mixed), or spray the plants with chlordane (zerodane). The bran bait may be put into small tins laid on their sides with a trail of soil leading to the heap of bran.

Continue planting of small evergreen and flowering shrubs while weather is suitable.

Sow seed outdoors of asters, zinnias, stocks, marigolds, viscaria, alyssum, cosmos. Soil must be fine, level and contain enough humus to hold moisture. When the seed germinates, protect the seedlings from earwigs.

Wood ashes and pieces of charcoal act as tonic to all members of dianthus genus (pinks, carnations, sweet williams).

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

By JACK BEASTALL

Q. Is it safe to put out tuberous begonias which have started flowering? Mrs. J. T., Gordon Head.

A. This is the trickiest two weeks of the whole gardening year. Your district may now be free enough from cool nights to put out begonias in flower. Be prepared to cover them, however, if a night threatens to be cool and clear, for there may be a drop in temperature just at dawn. Newspapers laid over plants and anchored with stones will conserve several degrees of warmth.

Q. We have a large ornamental cherry on which the bark has split, and the trunk is also becoming split. What can we do? H. R. O., Sidney, B.C.

A. The split in the bark and trunk was probably started in November '55. If the tree is large enough and valuable enough to be essential to your lanscape plan, would advise seeking the aid of a tree surgeon. The damaged tissues can, in many cases, be removed and the cavity filled with a compatible material—much as a decayed tooth is cleaned out and filled.

Q. What varieties of sweet corn do you advise? J. M. S., Uplands.

A. Try at least two varieties to decide which suits your taste. We found Marcross and Spancross are fine flavored. Dorinny—in an early, dwarf growing small-cob variety said to be good for freezing.

CROWN COMPANY?

Ottawa Seeks Way to Boost Home Loans

By JAMES NELSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal experts are looking for new ways to raise money for housing loans without putting the government into competition with municipal and provincial governments in the bond market, an authoritative source says.

British and American government practices are being reviewed with the possibility that some of them might be adopted here.

One idea is the creation of a new Crown company which would sell shares, debentures or bonds to the general public at a moderately attractive rate of interest and put the money into National Housing Act mortgages.

The maximum rate of interest on government-insured NHA mortgages now is 6¾ per cent. The interest which might be paid to investors would be just enough below that figure to cover the cost of administration.

LOW-INCOME LOANS

Earlier this session, the government obtained parliamentary approval for an additional investment of $500,000,000 in direct loans to house builders this year. It is letting the money out, however, on a limited scale, basically to individuals with an annual income of $5,000 or less.

Canadians with higher incomes wanting to buy houses must go either to the banks for a mortgage, the interest rate of which is limited to six per cent under the Bank Act, or to the insurance companies and other approved lenders for a 6¾-per-cent NHA mortgage, or pay the commercial mortgage rate, now 7¼ per cent or higher.

While the government has the authority to lend $500,000,000 in new direct mortgages this year, the money is not in the treasury for the purpose. It must raise the money either on the commercial bond market, or in some other way.

Officials now are preparing advice for the cabinet on possible other ways of raising the money.

MORTGAGE BANK

One is the creation of a mortgage bank by which depositors could be guaranteed a good return on their long-term savings, and the money deposited used to finance home mortgages.

Another is the creation of a commercial mortgage market, which would not raise new housing money but would make it easier for individuals to buy and sell mortgages.

Business Notes

Canadian businessmen were urged Friday to forget the old notion of national self-sufficiency and go out and hunt for customers.

Speaking in Vancouver Attorney-General Robert Bonner told a management conference at UBC that an air of detachment is no longer justifiable.

The A-G said Canada must establish a broader trade relationship and sell on a freer basis.

Recent decline in value of Canadian dollar in foreign exchange deals in New York has been welcomed in Canada, especially by large exporters dependent on U.S. markets.

A government spokesman in Ottawa says the approach of the Canadian dollar to parity with the U.S. dollar reflects on increase in the availability of capital in Canada.

A Vancouver newspaper says the huge copper-iron deposits of Craigmont Mines Ltd., will be brought into production. The decision will be made this summer, a year before it is required under development contract.

The property is near Merritt in the Nicola mining division.

On the basis of current proven ore reserves, Craigmont is within sight and shooting distance of a 6,000-ton-a-day mill, the paper says.

Clarkson Co. Ltd. of Toronto, trustee in bankruptcy of Stanrock Uranium Mines Ltd., announced Friday it has accepted an offer by Rio Tinto Mining Co. of Canada for the assets of the big Blind River, Ont., mine. The offer price was not disclosed.

From Detroit comes word of a "new" Chrysler Corp. Chrysler chairman L. L. Colbert announced that a 10-year rebuilding program was virtually completed. The new set-up has set as its goal—sale of more than one million new cars and trucks a year in the future.

. . . LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON

"Carry On, Son," was the greeting given by Major Cuthbert Holmes, left, to his son, P. D. P. "Pip" Holmes, this week when the younger Holmes was installed president of the Real Estate Board of Victoria. Major Holmes, president of Pemberton Holmes Realty, held the office of president in 1928. The Holmes made real estate history in Victoria by becoming the first father-son team to hold the office of president of the board.

Compulsory Car Insurance No Key to Traffic Safety

Compulsory auto insurance is a flop.

It hasn't saved one life.

It doesn't protect the victim of a hit-and-run driver.

It doesn't protect the victim of a stolen car.

It increases the cost of insurance.

And in the few isolated areas where it has been tried, the accident rate of uninsured drivers is as much as four times greater than in B.C. This happens because regardless of compulsory car insurance legislation, there is always a small, hard core of motorists who contrive to evade it.

B.C. doesn't have compulsory insurance as such but its insurance laws are a model of good legislation.

These statements were made to Victoria Rotary Club this week by J. B. "Jack" Humphrey, vice-president, American Insurance Co., Toronto.

A director of All Canada Insurance Federation, Mr. Humphrey said that in New York in 1958, 10 per cent of the accidents recorded involved uninsured cars—"despite the fact that the state has literally hundreds of people doing nothing else but trying to find the uninsured."

In B.C. the same year only 2.7 per cent of all cars involved in accidents were uninsured—"a startling comparison."

He told Rotarians leading traffic authorities in Massachusetts say compulsory car insurance is not promoting traffic safety.

HIGHEST RATE

Massachusetts has had compulsory car insurance since 1925. Boston motorists pay the highest rate of any city of comparable size in North America, he said.

The experience has been, said Mr. Humphrey, that compulsory insurance is actually increasing the hazards on the highways.

Mr. Humphrey also said:

1. The general confidence the public has in the stability of auto insurance companies is such that "we have been able to weather a five-year period when the companies operating in Canada lost nearly $90,000,000 in cold cash without losing the faith of the Canadian people."

2. Compulsory car insurance is a very different thing in England where there is one central traffic and highway authority to Canada and the U.S. where there are "0 authorities. Even with strict control and fewer autos English newspapers are full of stories about uninsured drivers who have been involved in accidents.

3. The main issue in the argument over compulsory insurance is that it does not guarantee the injured innocent third party will be compensated. In many parts of the U.S. these parties are protected by a claims fund; B.C. and other provinces have an unsatisfied judgment fund paid for by insurance companies.

4. B.C. and other provinces have gone a step further in reducing the possibility of accidents caused by bad-record drivers with the assigned risk plan.

5. B.C. has been still more progressive with its extreme vigilance of chronically poor drivers and traffic offenders.

"I don't have to read B.C. newspaper to find out that this plan (of recording driver performance and licence suspension) is being administered fairly and fearlessly. I understand there is a gentleman affectionately known as 'Flying Phil' (highways minister P. A. Gagliardi) who has felt the affects of such disciplinary measures."

SERIOUS OFFENCE

In reading B.C. press accounts of traffic court hearings, Mr. Humphrey said he would "venture a cautious question as to whether or not the magistrates are being too easy on people who are caught driving while their licence is suspended. This is a most serious offence. It is a deliberate one in most cases."

Mr. Humphrey said there can be no doubt that the combination of a strictly enforced safety responsibility law — "you call it the pink slip law" — ; an efficient unsatisfied judgment fund, an equitable assigned risk plan and "above all" an awareness of the need for safety by provincial authorities accomplishes far more than any so-called compulsory insurance measure in existence today."

PRESIDENT of the 11,000-member Life Underwriters' Association of Canada, Roger Martel of Montreal, will speak on "My Job and Yours" at a meeting of Victoria Life Underwriters' Association in the Monterey at noon Monday.

'Maintain Independent Economy'

HAMILTON (CP)—Rapidly growing foreign debt must lead Canadians ultimately to loss of any capacity to be masters in their own house, James E. Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada, said in an address to the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

"To my mind," Mr. Coyne said, "We could not leave this problem to solve itself without giving up the attempt to maintain an independent economy and an independent nation north of the American border."

He called for correction of Canada's adverse balance of payments in its dealings with other countries; for correction of its adverse merchandise trading balances; for development of Canadian secondary industry; for sharing by all Canadians of the cost of unemployment and its cure; and for adequate development of all Canada's economic areas.

BUSINESS VIEWS

New B.C. Industry Registers Hit

BY HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

Malone

A new British Columbia industry, located hard by Victoria, has hit what might be called a small slam in sales and acceptance.

Philip D. Graham, president of B.C. Lightweight Aggregates Ltd., says his company's light weight aggregate which is mixed with cement to yield high-strength, lightweight concrete has been approved for use in B.C. and Washington.

B.C. Highways department is using it in bridge projects. Schools are being built with it in Vancouver, North Vancouver, West Vancouver and Burnaby. University of B.C. is using it. Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation has approved it.

An 11-storey apartment building in Seattle is being constructed with it. The material is also used on construction of floats for Seattle yacht harbor.

Not a bad record for a product which came into production on Saturna Island last October.

Mr. Graham, whose family holds the major interest in B.C. Lightweight Aggregates, enlightened us on the venture.

The company open-pit mines a Saturna shale deposit, crushes it, heats the shale in a kiln which causes it to bloat. The product is then used as an aggregate with cement.

Its primary contributions to construction, says Mr. Graham, are its light weight, high strength, insulating qualities, extremely low absorption and shinkage characteristics.

Marketed under the name "Saturnalite" it reduces the weight of concrete by 35 to 40 per cent.

The road to success of new building products is often long and difficult. Acceptance of architects and engineers must be won. Teaching an elderly poodle new tricks is rarely done overnight.

Saturnalite has not only burst the barrier of opposition. It has cut into sales of pumice blocks made in Oregon. Graham expects his product will soon go into canopies for service stations. Discarded by oil companies some time ago, canopies are coming back.

Mr. Graham concedes his aggregate is more expensive than standard aggregate. But used from the ground up, it allows builders to pare overall costs by reducing the amount of steel and labor on the job, he says.

ODD LOTS . . . Initial step in B.C. Forest Products' $850,000 improvement program at its Crofton Mill is the announcement by John Grieve, general manager, pulp division, of the awarding of a contract to D. Robinson Construction (1952) Ltd., Nanaimo. Work will start immediately on foundation and building extension at Crofton.

Overwhelmed after being presented with a $633.23 "bonus" cheque from his many friends, ex-commissioner (Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau) George I. Warren told Victoria Rotarians Thursday he and Mrs. Warren leave May 21 for their first holiday in 40 years . . . The Warrens fly to London via Montreal, courtesy of the Warren testimonial dinner air tickets . . . They plan to spend a month in the British Isles; another month touring Switzerland, Spain, Germany, Italy, Holland and Denmark.

Securities Act Needs Revision

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Securities Act needs revision, says A. G. Osburn, retiring chairman of the Pacific district, Investment Dealers' Association of Canada.

He told the group's annual meeting here that investment dealers and the Vancouver Stock Exchange now are discussing the subject with the superintendent of brokers.

Canada's production of hops in 1959—all in British Columbia — was 1,455,000 pounds, from 1,071 acres.

Immigration Act Criticized

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canada's Immigration Act was criticized Friday as attempting to bar recourse to the courts to foreign visitors.

Mr. Justice T. G. Norris of the B.C. Supreme Court described it as out of line with the ideal of "one world" and of the British Commonwealth.

He also said that Immigration Minister Fairclough apparently has failed to realize that the Immigration Act gives her no power to waive provisions of the act to permit unqualified persons to become immigrants to Canada.

Mr. Justice Norris made these comments in a 22-page written judgment in which he upheld a deportation order against Irene Rebrin. He said they had no direct bearing on the application for writs quashing the order but "It is important that I draw attention to them."

Certain statements made by Mrs. Fairclough in Parliament had created a great deal of misunderstanding.

She had said the case was reviewed to "see whether the strict application of the law should be waived by the exercise of the discretion vested in the minister under the Immigration Act."

Minister Fails to See Limitation

Mr. Justice Norris said the minister has no such discretion under the act.

"There has been throughout a failure not only on the part of persons interested but apparently also on the part of the minister herself to realize that sitting as a statutory appeal body . . . the minister had no discretion to waive any of the provisions of the act."

He said the act gives little room for exercise of any discretion by the governor-in-council or by the minister.

He referred to Section 39 of the act, which states the courts can not interfere with immigration department decisions unless the person involved is a Canadian citizen or has permanent residence in Canada.

He said it may be that the existence of a so-called cold war and the loose-knit nature of the Commonwealth relationship make it important that such provisions be retained.

OFFICIAL PLANS COMPLETED

Over 10,000 Expected To See Governor-General

One of the biggest Victoria crowds of the summer season is expected to mass on the lawns of the Legislative Buildings Tuesday for B.C.'s official welcome to Governor-General George P. Vanier.

Flags, flowers, bunting and all the trimmings are being rolled out on the red carpet for the governor-general's first official visit to the city.

Because the ceremony is a "package deal" including traditional Victoria Day celebrations there could be more than 10,000 people, it's estimated.

Gen. Vanier arrives in Victoria on the navy destroyer escort HMCS Fraser at 6 p.m. Monday in the Inner Harbor. He and Mme. Vanier will spend the night at Government House after being met by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and Mrs. Ross.

There will be an RCN sailpast of 15 ships on the governor-general's arrival.

Reviews Guard

He will review an honor guard when he steps off the Fraser.

A "sneak preview" of the sail-past was presented Friday and Neptune bombers of 407 Squadron, RCAF, roared overhead.

Participating in the "show" Monday will be three destroyer escorts, seven frigates, four minesweepers and the Fraser itself.

The sailpast will be seen at 5.25 p.m., from the Dallas Road waterfront.

A 21-gun royal salute by the 5th Battery Royal Canadian Artillery will herald the landing of the vice-regal party. Commanded by Capt. T. A. Dalzell, the gunners will fire their salvo from the Belleville Street causeway.

The big show is Tuesday morning when the governor's personal standard will flutter from a special flagpole installed Friday in a balcony over the main entrance to the Legislative Buildings.

The occasion will also mark celebration of a Victoria Day service by the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire and Greater Victoria School District.

The accent will be on youth.

A 1,000-strong choir of grade 6 students from each Greater Victoria elementary school will sing a hymn and an anthem.

The Naden Navy Band will play. So will Victoria High School Band and the Greater Victoria Schools Pipe Band.

Official Welcome

When Gen. Vanier's party drives to a specially-constructed platform at 10.30 a.m., Premier W. A. C. Bennett will give B.C.'s address of welcome. Governor-General Vanier will reply.

The grade 3 girl whose name was picked from a hat—lucky Brenda Quinn of Strawberry Vale elementary school—will then present a bouquet to Mme. Vanier.

Each Greater Victoria elementary school submitted the name of one grade 3 girl to the school board this week. The bouquet-girl's name was drawn by lot.

Gov.-Gen. Vanier will also inspect a 100-man guard of honor provided by Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

The big crowd expected Tuesday will include:

The 1,000 choristers; 2,000 scouts, guides and cadets from all three services, and St. John Ambulance Brigade cadets. Provincial government civil servants — there are about 1,400 of them — will be given a two-hour break to join the welcoming crowd. Members of the public should swell the throng to well over 10,000.

May 24 Service

The traditional May 24 service—usually held the Friday before the holiday, but this year advanced for the Governor-General's visit — will be directed by Maj. F. J. Watson, of the Salvation Army Citadel here, and president of the Victoria Ministerial Association.

More presentations, including an illuminated scroll will be made at City Hall.

Rest of the visit will be "quiet" for the Vaniers, and is expected to include unscheduled drives and sight-seeing in the Greater Victoria area.

The vice-regal party will leave for Vancouver at 3.30 p.m. Wednesday aboard HMCS Fraser.

Build or Buy?

We've shown already that a new Vickery home is better, costs less, and is easier to finance than an old home. Now, what about the lot you build on? Right now, you would be foolish to consider buying an unsewered lot, because there are too many problems attached to it. Will your family remain healthy? Will you be able to get an NHA loan? Can you even get a building permit? These are all questions which have to be answered, and the answers are either not available or possibly unsatisfactory. Sewered lots, on the other hand, are hard to get, and in most cases are the unwanted "left-over" lots in fully developed areas, with sewerage about their only advantage.

In most cases, we said . . . There's an exception to every rule, and in this case the exception is Montclaire Park. An all-sewered development in the beautiful country surroundings of Gordon Head, Montclaire Park offers you everything you can desire in a homesite. Everything about Montclaire Park is right—and that's no idle boast, because it is NHA-accepted—in other words, approved 100% by government experts (the only NHA-accepted development in Saanich, incidentally).

With all this, you'd expect these lots to be expensive. Here's the surprise—as little at $400 down can reserve you a lot in this favored locality—full price is as low as $1,575. Better buy now, for these are the only sewered lots in Gordon Head.

YOUTH HOSTELS PROGRAM EXTENDED

Hiking, Canoe Trips Added

By CHARLES MORROW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A new slant on the "See Canada First" idea is offered by the Canadian Youth Hostels Association.

The Canadian branch of the world-wide movement for years has sent bicycle groups to tour such picturesque parts of the country as the South Shore of Nova Scotia, the Gaspe Peninsula and Alberta's Banff-Jasper Highway.

Now it has branched into hiking tours and canoe trips in the waterways of northern Ontario.

For $95, CYH offers an all-expense two-week camping and canoe trip in Timagami provincial park. A similar trip in the wilds of Quetico Park on the Ontario-Minnesoto border is labelled "for experts only."

Leisurely Pace

Bicycle trips remain the mainstay of the program with groups of up to 15 persons travelling at a leisurely pace, covering 10 to 20 miles a day, and generally stopping for the night at hostels.

There they find simple dormitory accommodation, a wood stove to cook on and perhaps a fireplace to gather around after the dishes are done.

For those who want to get off the beaten track altogether, there are hiking and camping trips in the Rockies near Banff and the White Mountains of New Hampshire.

The domestic trips are on top of a full program of European hostel tours by bicycle, station wagon and on foot.

Real Cheap Trip

Throughout the summer, the CYH headquarters in Toronto echoes to shouts of greetings and farewell as groups of young people pass through.

By using hostels for overnight stays and having members prepare most of their own meals, the CYH can offer a full summer's tour of Europe for $700.

The hostel movement was founded in Germany shortly before the Second World War with the object of encouraging young people to travel and meet youth from other lands.

The idea has spread to more than 30 countries. In Canada, local groups in most large centres maintain about 50 hostels—most of them built by members themselves, and offering simple overnight accommodation at less than $1 a night.

Ottawa Tulip Festival

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa's love affair with the tulips is more ardent than ever this spring.

It began with a gift of gratitude from a Dutch princess to the city that sheltered her during the Second World War.

Now it's an annual amour that reduces such formal attractions as the Parliament Buildings or the National Gallery to passing flirtations.

The ninth Canadian Tulip Festival, sponsored by the Ottawa board of trade, runs from May 15 to 31 with the official opening Friday, May 20, presided over by Ann Heggtveit, Ottawa's Olympic ski champion.

The festival is credited with lengthening the Ottawa tourist season to 3½ months from two, and helping to make the city the second most popular tourist attraction after Niagara Falls.

Last year some 216,000 visitors with cameras and walking shoes took in the two-week show along the 45 miles of federal parkways.

Hawaii's Kilauea volcano, largest active one in the world, has been erupting for 1,500 years. A 1790 eruption killed part of an army on the march nearby. Prints of bare feet, made in a layer of wet volcanic ash, still may be seen.

Edinburgh Festival In August

Late August and early September promise to be busy weeks for Edinburgh this year. The prestige of its International Festival has brought Scotland's impressive capital ever-increasing importance since its first festival shortly after the Second World War. Now ranking with the great music and drama festivals of the world, its magic has caught the fancy of travellers from the world over.

The British Overseas Airways Corporation's increased summer schedule and new economical fares to London and Glasgow have placed the beauty of the Edinburgh International Festival within the reach of the Canadian vacationer.

The Edinburgh Festival, which takes place August 21 through September 10, features the finest orchestras and ballets, theatrical and operatic companies not only of Britain but of Europe and America as well.

OF ALL PLACES

By HORACE SUTTON

MOSCOW—Comes the revolution and we'll all have caviar for breakfast. That's what they're serving on board the Red Arrow, the crack express that plies nightly between Moscow and Leningrad. The Soviet streamliner is only part of the red carpet which the Russians are unrolling for western tourists this summer. Coming too, are drive-yourself cars and an airplane with a built-in dining room.

The rental cars will be ready for the vanguard of the 20,000 tourists who are expected in the land of the Soviets this summer. Five-passenger Volga cars will be used for the people's drive-yourself program, and international driving licences will be honored. Driving in the Soviet Union may present certain difficulties since signs are printed in the Cyrillic alphabet which to a Westerner looks as if the sign-painter had been tasting the turpentine. Since drive-yourself patrons will not be required to take along Russian-speaking interpreters, road signs using international symbols will be put up in May.

Quicker Visas

Visa requests will henceforth be met within five to seven days, and landing formalities will be greatly eased, Vladimir Ankudinov, head of Intourist, the Soviet government travel bureau, has told me. As things stand now a uniformed Soviet official stands in the door of each arriving plane, scrutinizes each passport and compares the face of the passenger with his passport picture. Then the passports are collected on the spot and are usually not returned until the tourist is ready to move on to the next city. Under the new system passengers will fill out landing cards and retain their passports and presumably their good humor.

The most startling improvement in Soviet travel, however, is the new TU-114, the giant turbo-prop which carried Khrushchev to the U.S. It is running to Khabarovsk in Siberia, but if an agreement now in the talking stages goes through, the Russians will begin sending the TU-114 to New York while an American flag carrier will start the Moscow run. At present the closest thing to direct service between Manhattan and Moscow is Sabena's regular Wednesday Boeing service which makes a stop in Brussels, takes about 12 hours including the short pause in Belgium.

Fast Traveling

Using the TU-114 the Russians say they can make New York nonstop carrying 170 people in 10 hours. Since the prevailing winds are easterly, the trip from here to there will be even less. What makes it all so awesome is the plane itself which is an enormous piece of equipment powered by four turbo-prop engines each of which has two counter-rotating propellers. Behind the flight deck, where the navigator sits alone in a glass bubble in the nose, is a normal cabin with seats for 41. Behind that compartment, however, is a full-sized restaurant with room for 48 diners sitting at tables for six. The galley, lighted by a skylight, is two decks high with a stairway between.

The Russian state airline, which is called Aeroflot, offers two classes on most of its runs. But the airline of the classless society goes one better on the new TU-114. It has a de luxe section as well as tourist and first class.

Bassinets Provided

Four private staterooms have been built into the new ship, each of them decorated with curtains, tables and lamps and seating room for six. Each will make up into a lower and upper berth at night. Mothers and squalling infants, a bother and an embarrassment to all parties on most flights, have been given their own separate neighborhood between the compartments. Three regular reclining chairs have been set aside for mothers, and bassinets have been provided, hung from the bulkhead. The caboose cabin in the rear of the plane has room for 54 comrades in the traditional three-abreast elbows-in-your-neighbors-ribs flying steerage.

There is an indication that the Russians have spiffed up their air service during the last year. On a flight the other day between Leningrad and Moscow, Aeroflot used a new TU-104, its twin engine pure jet, which in its simple decor was an improvement over last year's model, which sported Victorian lamps and tables, a dank first-class cabin, and cheerless grey walls. And it was a considerable improvement over my first Russian flight from Helsinki to Leningrad in 1955 in a twin-engine piston plane when there were no seat belts and the hostess wore her own fur-trimmed coat.

Now the stewardesses are uniformed, they pass out candy on the take-off, and they even make flight announcements in a brand of English.

Some 35,000 Chinese in Taipei, Formosa, make their living by pulling pedicabs. There's a move on to replace the pedicabs with taxis, but it probably will take five years.

Record Season Seen

VANCOUVER — Canadian National Steamships luxury steamer Prince George, which, since 1948, has carried nearly 40,000 tourists from all parts of the world on summer cruises between B.C. and Alaska, will enjoy a record season this year, CNSS officials predict.

The 5,800-ton ship begins its regular cruise schedule May 24 and will include an extra end-of-season voyage, leaving Vancouver Sept. 10, to cope with the increasingly heavy demand for space.

Most of the vessel's 13 scheduled cruises are booked to capacity.

Route of the Prince George through the historic "Inside Passage" takes the tourist along one of the world's most impressive coastlines. Fiords, waterfalls, majestic peaks, glaciers and innumerable picturesque islands compete for the attention of the voyager.

JAMES ENJOYS SOLARIUM DERBY CHORES

BELIEVES WE SHOULD ALL GIVE, TOO

It's Work That Makes You Come Back for More

One year has stretched into five for Dick James.

Five years ago James decided he should do something to help other people. The method he chose was working with the Solarium Salmon Derby.

"I have always thought that everybody, at some time, should do something for those who are having a tougher time in life," says Dick. "We shouldn't go along just taking the good things that come our way. We should all give, too."

"I realized that I had been using all my spare time for my own benefit, so I looked around for a way in which I could use some of it to help somebody else."

James, a chief petty officer in the RCN, picked the Solarium Derby because "I don't have enough money to make any worthwhile donations, but I can work. I figured I could spend one summer helping the youngsters at the Solarium by selling derby tickets."

That was five years ago and Dick is still working with the derby. "I thought I would only try it for one year," he says, "but there's a lot of satisfaction when you see how much the derby donations help the kids at the Solarium. It's the kind of work that makes you want to come back for more."

There is no doubt that the derby has played a considerable part in developing the crippled children's hospital into one of the finest institutions of its kind in the country. Since it was started on a modest scale in 1946, the annual one-day fishing competition at Saanich Inlet has raised a total of $73,499 for the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Co-sponsored by the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association and the Daily Times, the derby has grown into Vanvouver Island's most famous one-day angling event.

This year's contest is scheduled for Sunday, July 24, and the anglers hope to boost the total of derby donations past the $80,000 mark.

Success of the derby has always depended on the support of residents on the southern portion of Vancouver Island and the efforts of the men who spend many hours each summer working with the derby committee.

Derby tickets will go on sale next week and for the price of a one-dollar ducat, the purchaser gets a chance at derby prizes plus the satisfaction knowing he, or she, has assisted in the important work going on at the hospital at Gordon Head.

After assisting on the committee in his first year with the derby, James was named derby chairman in 1957 and retained the post the following year, when a record total of $13,949 was raised for the Solarium.

At sea a good part of the time last year, he still found time to make a big contribution to the derby effort and this year he has been named president of the VSIAA and is again at the helm of the Solarium Derby.

An eager angler since he was a youngster chasing trout and salmon in the great fishing area at Alice Arm, north of Prince Rupert, James is one of Vancouver Island's best-known sportsmen.

He has won two major salmon derbies and his hat is adorned with buttons from most of the Island's fishing clubs that he has earned by landing big salmon. But this summer James again expects to have little time for trolling until after July 24.

Most of the fishing will again have to wait until he has finished his chores, but Dick won't mind if the derby is again able to make a healthy contribution to the Solarium.

One of his biggest chores is arranging for the selling of derby tickets and he believes there are many sportsmen in Victoria who would like to help the Solarium youngsters, but who only have a limited amount of spare time.

"I think a lot of people would like to do something for the Solarium," says James, "but they feel they don't have enough time. But many of them would be able to sell a few tickets to the derby, and every ticket sold means an extra dollar for the kids." It takes a lot of work to sell several hundred tickets as some of the boys do, but it isn't hard to handle 10 or 20.

"If anybody would like to help us with a few tickets, I'd be pleased to hear from them. I'll deliver tickets to the home of anybody who would like to raise a few dollars for the Solarium. All people have to do is call me at home."

For those who may want to help the patients at the crippled children's hospital, Dick may be reached at GR 7-6816.

ANOTHER SHUTOUT

All Those Eggs Rate a Cackle

By United Press International

Pardon those San Francisco Giants for cackling, but you would too if you could produce such a startling string of golden goose eggs.

"This is the best pitching I've seen since I took over this club," beamed manager Bill Rigney after Southpaw Mike McCormick beat Los Angeles Dodgers, 3-0, Friday night.

Rigney can say that again—real loud.

The Giants have now won seven in a row and lead the National League by two games. That's only half the story though. San Francisco's pitchers have hurled three straight shutouts and not a single run has been scored against them in 29 consecutive innings.

STEAL AT $60,000

McCormick, a 21-year-old southpaw who was paid a $60,000 bonus five years ago and is proving a steal at the price, leads the club in firing blanks. His six-hit victory over Los Angeles was his fifth straight without a defeat and those five wins include three shutouts.

Orlando Cepeda singled home Willie Mays with the first run of the game in the fourth and then doubled in a two-run rally during the eighth as Don Drysdale suffered his fourth defeat in seven decisions.

The second-place Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Milwaukee Braves, 8-2; Cincinnati Reds won their ninth straight by downing the Phillies, 1-0, and Chicago Cubs defeated St. Louis Cardinals, 4-1, in other NL games.

In the American League, Chicago White Sox widened their lead to a full game with a 4-2 victory over Cleveland Indians; Detroit Tigers beat Kansas City Athletics, 4-3, in 14 innings, and New York Yankees snapped a three-game losing streak with a 7-3 decision over the Senators. Rain caused postponement of the Baltimore-Boston game.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

NEW YORK—After the last game Rocky Colavito played for the Indians, the ball park in Memphis burned down.

"But the trade didn't start the fire," said Frank Lane, general manager of the Cleveland Indians. "The deal was made, but I didn't want to disappoint the 11,000 people in the stands. So I let him play for us in the exhibition game even though he belonged to Detroit."

Drinking coffee at a room-service table was Joe Gordon, the Cleveland manager, who was fired by Lane for finishing second last year and then rehired after Leo Durocher had been promised the job.

"I took Rocky out after his second time at bat," explained Gordon. "I shook hands with him in the dugout and said, 'That's the last time you'll bat for us. You've been traded to Detroit for Harvey Kuenn.' All Rocky said was, 'Kuenn—and who else'?"

"One thing you must say about Rocky," said Lane. "He's not modest. He asked me the same thing—'Kuenn and who else'? Who else, I told him, I had a tough time getting Detroit to take you. It was a hard deal to make."

"What I think Rocky meant," said Gordon, "is he thought that Herbie Score was going to Detroit with him. I talked to Jimmy Dykes about Herbie, but Jimmy Dykes didn't want him. Dykes said if he can't pitch for you, how can he pitch for me?"

"The way Rocky's been going lately," said Lane, "I should have gotten someone else at that. That Rocky, nothing fazes him. He'll go up 20 times and they'll get him out. He'll come back ot the bench and say he had a good cut. A good cut! He thinks a good cut is the same as a hit."

"He'll say," said Gordon, "I feel good up there. I used to say I'm sure you feel good, but you don't look good."

In interviews, Colavito has described Lane and Gordon as bad men.

"I've often told Rocky either he has the perfect temperament for a ballplayer or he settles for mediocrity," Lane said. "So he said Lane was a bad man. Joe Gordon doesn't like him. I'm a bad man, I guess, because I said I got 23 ballplayers and Colavito and Score. That makes me a bad man?"

Score Improved the Day He Packed

It is Gordon's theory that Score improved the day he left Cleveland for Chicago.

"There was too much pressure on him in Cleveland," said Gordon. "Too much was expected of him. The psychological edge was against him. I told Frank last season that if we won the pennant, I'd have to have Herbie pitching good at the end of the year. Our pitching was thin and I started him four times and he never got by the first inning."

"Rocky hit .244 in July," said Lane. "He hit .238 in August. He hit .207 in September. It's good he didn't have to play in October. We're not chargng Rocky with the loss of the pennant. But he was one of our big men and he fell down with men on base."

"Remember, he was our fourth hitter," said Gordon. "He was supposed to get in the runs."

"I saw them pass Tito Francona to get at Rocky," Lane said. "How about passing your third hitter for the cleanup man? They had a point because Rocky doesn't move up men on bases."

"He never would give you the home run with a man on third," asid Lane. "He wouldn't even give you the fly ball. He hit three sacrifice flies all last year. Johnny Temple hit 13 last season leading off for Cincinnati."

"I've never seen a ball club fight for one another," said Lane. "Temple is a southerner and an established star, but he took up the cudgel for Walter Bond.

"Bond looked like a donkey last year," Gordon said. "I know it's early to judge, but Bond has driven in more runs than Colavito right now and has hit just as many home runs. We didn't deal Colavito because we thought Bond would pick up his slack."

"I was trying to get rid of Colavito last winter," said Lane, "before we knew Bond had a chance to make the club."

"Bad men," said Lane. "Joe, we're bad men because we dealt Rocky for a ballplayer."

Schedule Still Problem As WHL Session Closes

CALGARY (CP)—Directors of the Western Hockey League are still without a final answer to a knotty scheduling problem for the circuit's 1960-61 season after completing their annual meeting Friday evening.

But league president Al Leader said it was definite the Vancouver Canucks would join Edmonton Flyers, Calgary Stampeders and Winnipeg Warriors in one of two four-team sections. Entry of the Portland Buckaroos has raised league strength to eight clubs, making the division possible.

The other section will comprise Portland, Seattle Totems, Spokane Comets and Victoria Cougars.

With as few as 40 arena dates open to some coast clubs, who must play 35 of the season's 70 games at home, Leader said scheduling may not be finalized for some time.

Leader said no rule changes had been approved during Friday's sessions. The controversial icing-the-puck rule was untouched, with the promise of one or two unidentified clubs to "insist on players eliminating the infraction."

ALL-STAR PROBLEM

Another problem still to be decided is the make-up of the league's all-star team, but Leader said a formula similar to that used by the National League probably will be adopted, votes being taken twice during the season to produce a team from each section. An all-star game would be held between the teams early in January.

Leader said he will continue to take every opportunity to press the National League for WHL protection from the NHL's Saturday night Dominion-wide CBC telecasts. He said he has been turned down cold on several proposals to have either a Saturday night blackout in areas where WHL games are being played, or a share of the TV receipts for the clubs competing for hockey fans with the NHL.

OBLIGATIONS FLAUNTED

HARTACK FINED

Errors on Both Sides

BALTIMORE (AP)—Jockey Bill Hartack, who plays it hard to win them all, had to settle for half a victory Friday in his joust with Pimlico officials.

He was fined $200 for meddling in business that should have been handled by his agent, Howard Pestano. At the same time he was restored to good standing by stewards of the Maryland Racing Commission and will be aboard Our Jody in the $25,000 Betsy Ross Stakes at Garden State today.

The controversy flared up when Bert Williams, trainer of Airman's Guide, insisted he had an agreement that the 27-year-old star would ride his filly in the $20,000 Blackeyed Susan Stakes at Pimlico. Hartack was also scheduled to ride in New Jersey.

There was much more at stake than today's races.

Hartack rode Venetian Way to victory in the Kentucky Derby and is scheduled to be aboard him in the $150,000-added Preakness at Pimlico next Saturday.

Flaunting his riding obligations could have cost him the opportunity of trying for the second test in the triple crown of racing.

When Pimlico stewards announced the suspension Friday, it appeared Hartack wouldn't get a hearing until Tuesday. But Hartack asked for one immediately and a night session was arranged. He flew here with his agent and lawyer.

When the closed meeting was over, steward Joseph F. Flanagan announced: "It seems that all parties were in error. Since there were so many errors on both sides, Hartack is restored to good standing but is fined $200 for conducting business which should have been conducted by his agent."

Flanagan said there was confusion among Hartack, Williams and Pestano over whether the jockey was to ride Aurmans Guide or Our Jody.

Valiant, Dickie Take High School Crowns

By IAN SMITH

"Wait till the inter-high meet!"

That was the word from both sides of the fence Friday as Oak Bay and Victoria High Schools wrapped up their inter-house track and field meets.

Athletes from both schools were expressing their optimism about their chances in the annual inter-high show, which this year starts with field events on Tuesday, May 24, and winds up Friday, May 27, with track finals.

Mount View, Mount Douglas and Esquimalt High Schools will all stage their inter-house meets next week. The best cinder stars from each school will enter inter-high competition.

If the two Friday meets were any criterion, the inter-school meet should be bristling with action. There will be at least two feature attractions.

First, attention will be focused on Doug Dickie, the new Oak Bay senior boy's aggregate champion, who last year was competing for Vic High—but who will now try to help Oak Bay win the Victoria championship.

Second, the inter-high meet is expected to provide a chance for John Cliff and John Valiant to resume their personal battle for supremacy in distance races.

Their duel featured Friday's events at Vic High. Both claimed a measure of victory.

It really started on Tuesday, when Valiant had to set a new B.C. high school record of 9.58 to beat Cliff by a tenth of a second in the two-mile race.

Then on Friday Valiant, hanging on Cliff's heels and then sprinting a fraction harder at the finish, again edged Cliff by maybe a deep breath in the senior 880. He had to set a record to do it that time, too, clipping .6 of a second off Cliff's old mark.

But in the one-mile race Cliff was not to be denied. He stayed in the pack through three slow laps, and then set off on a rather incredible sprint that lasted the last quarter mile. Valiant finished a well-beaten second. Despite the slow first three laps, Cliff wiped 1.3 seconds off his former mark of 4.38.5.

Three Records Broken at Oak Bay

But it was Valiant's turn to smile when the aggregate totals were announced. His two earlier victories, combined with a first in the hop, step and jump and a second in the high jump, totalled up to 21 points—enough for the senior boys' aggregate crown.

Gail Archibald won the Vic High senior girls' title with a total of 18¼ points, gained on firsts in the shotput, discus throw and high jump as well as a third in the 220 and a fourth in the broad jump.

John Warrington claimed the junior boys' aggregate championship with 27 points, more than any other competitor, boy or girl.

Junior girls' champion is Robin Regan, who compiled 21½ points.

Valiant, Warrington and Miss Regan are all members of House IV, which walked away from all opposition with a total of 183¾ points.

House II was second with 133, House I was third at 116¾ and House III trailed with an even 100.

At Oak Bay, meanwhile, three records were broken as competitors battled for titles and spots on the inter-high squad.

Dickie clipped 1.3 seconds off the former 440 mark of 53.8 on his way to the senior aggregate title.

Criss Morgen won the junior boys' mile in a record 5.07.7, but it was Gordon Detwiller who claimed the junior boys' aggregate title. Kent Chauvin set a record of 24.4 in the 220.

The battle for the junior girls' championship resolved itself into a sprint contest between Wendy Williams and Judy Humber. Miss Williams led Miss Humber to the wire in both the 60 and 100-yard dashes to grab the championship.

Diane Kersey won the senior girls' championship.

House I claimed a narrow victory with 198½ points, only 1½ more than House IV. House III was third with 162 while House II finished fourth with 140½.

Saanich Records Tumble

Mike Nunn is what is tritely referred to as an "all-around athlete."

Nunn cleaned up in the intermediate division of the annual North Saanich Junior-Senior High School track and field meet Friday, winning every event he entered.

After winning the high jump, broad jump, 100 and 220-yard dashes and the discus throw, Nunn went on to lead his house relay team to a new school record.

It was one of 30 records broken in the meet.

Nunn, of course, won the intermediate boys' aggregate championship.

Other champions named were Sue Kelly (junior girls); Marc Jacobson (junior boys); Ruby Hartshorne (intermediate girls); Linda McDonald (senior girls), and Doug Jordan and Bill Brain, who tied for the senior boys' title.

Sigma House won with 244 points, followed by Omega with 135 and Triep with 83.

ECONOMY SIZE

Indulging in phsychological warfare? Pacific Coast League baseball fans suspect Rainiers are doing just that to visiting teams in Seattle's Sick Stadium, but the giant-sized hands belong to an advertisement on the centre-field wall. That's Seattle catcher Camilo Carreon waiting for pitch to San Diego's Francisco Obregon. (NEA).

Salt Lake Cools Dominican Dandy

By The Canadian Press

Young Juan Marichal, the Dominican dandy of Tacoma's Pacific Coast League aggregation, dodged defeat for five straight games. It finally caught up with him on Friday the 13th.

Marichal, a peppery right-hander, and the Giants were both looking to extend their victory skein to six games. Salt Lake City torpedoed their hopes 11-5, with Juan taking his first loss of the 1960 campaign.

With the defeat, Tacoma skidded another full game behind Sacramento Solons, who drubbed San Diego Padres 10-6. Tacoma now is 2½ games off the pace, in second place.

LOP-SIDED VICTORIES

In the league's other two tussles, Seattle Rainiers waxed Spokane's Indians 11-6 and Portland Beavers tapped Vancouver deeper into the cellar, belting the Mounties 11-3.

The Giants outhit Salt Lake City 13-10, but tough for Marichal, they left 13 men stranded during the game. Dusty Rhodes got four singles for the Giants in five trips.

The veteran Lou Skizas blasted a three-run homer for the Rainiers in the second inning, when the Suds struck for six runs. Roy Smalley and Earl Robinson both got solo four-plys for the Injuns.

The hapless Mounties outhit Portland 15-11 but couldn't get the safeties when they counted. Beavers broke for four runs in the first, bombed out seven in the second, then eased up.

Spokane Eyes Amateur Loop

TRAIL (CP)—The possible re-entry of teams from Kimberley and Spokane in the Western International Hockey League will be discussed today at the league's annual meeting here.

Kimberley dropped out of the circuit three years ago when its arena was condemned while Spokane pulled out two years ago when promoter Roy McBride decided to enter the professional Western Hockey League.

Clarence Tubbs and associates from Spokane have assured league president Don Adams of Rossland they will be present for today's meeting, as will players Kenny McTeer an Don McNiven of the Kimberley Dynamiters.

Fans, Sluggers Fared the Best In Rowdy Night

Fans got their money's worth in the Heywood Avenue Park Senior Softball League game Friday night, even if many of them did miss the finish of the game between Pro Pats and MacNutts due to darkness.

The game, finished under cover of night, was won by MacNutts, 22-12, despite the fact that they trailed 8-0 after 2½ innings.

The Grocers gave Googie Manhas, Ted Penston and Bill Urlacker a bad case of shell-shock by banging out a total of 19 hits. None could shackle the fired-up MacNutts, who banged out three homers.

The losers also connected for three home runs, including two by Charlie Bennett.

But that was only half the action.

PLAYERS BOUNCED

Umpire Gord Perkins helped provide additional action as he threw manager Herb Brown and shortstop Clint Shambrook of MacNutts out of the game in the seventh inning.

Despite the protests of several players, Perkins ordered the teams to complete their regulation nine innings in semi-darkness.

Things were a lot quieter at the Central Park League, although pitchers fared just as badly.

Gorge Hotel rapped out 15 hits in clobbering Duncan Domans, 21-1.

NEW TRACK FINISHED

Karting Enthusiasts Can Really Go Now

The rapidly-expanding Greater Victoria Go-Kart Association is ready to start another season. And to help the go-karters on their way, a new track has been constructed at Dewdney Flats, on the Sooke Road.

The track, a crescent-shaped concrete circuit 560 feet long and 20 feet wide, is expected to attract entries from up-Island and lower mainland points.

It is the first racing track to be completed on the Island, although other tracks are planned or actually under construction at Nanaimo, Alberni and Courtenay.

START MAY 23

The track will be officially opened May 23 at 2 p.m., with karters from Port Alberni, Nanaimo, Duncan and Vancouver expected to race against the host Victoria club.

However, members of the Victoria club will try out the track on Sunday.

The club boasts a membership of 72 but new members are welcome. Anyone interested should contact Joe Christie, vice-president of the club.

"It's supposed to be an added incentive . . . hit .300 on this club and you get air-conditioned luxury in the dugout!"

BRITONS COULD PROFIT WITH SUBSTITUTE RULE

TORONTO (CP)—Tommy Walker, manager of the 1960 champion Scottish soccer team, Heart of Midlothian, says that soccer in Britain would profit from the use of substitutes.

"I would like to see substitutes because I feel it would speed up the game and give the fans a run for their money," he told reporters when his team arrived here for today's game against Manchester United.

The problem of substitution came to a head at last Saturday's Football Association Cup final in London, when Blackburn Rovers were forced to play most of the 90 minutes with only 10 players after one of their stars was injured.

City's Best Set For Times Event

With the Times Vancouver Island fivepin bowling championships still a week away, 26 top-flight entries have been received—and the upper-Island contingent has as yet hardly been heard from.

Entries received for the tourney, which will run over the Victoria Day weekend at Esquimalt Bowladrome, include most of Victoria's big-name trundlers.

Included in the list are Reg Waggoner, Emile Liska and Al Nelthorpe, who last week walked off with the Esquimalt trio championship.

For consistently good bowling, they will be hard to beat.

FOUR EVENTS

Like most entrants, they plan to compete in all four events — scratch and handicap singles, doubles and aggregate.

All competitors will bowl five games in singles and three in doubles, making an aggregate total of eight games. No entrant may enter singles more than once, but, providing he changes his partners each time, he may bowl doubles as often as he wishes. Only the first doubles series will count toward his aggregate score.

Among the other entries that manager Bert Nelson of the Esquimalt establishment has received are Gary Roskamp, Cy and Mae Wallis, Bob MacLeod, Frank Morgan, Harry Cove, Arni Gibson, Ron Chamberlain and W. and Dollie Gregory of Nanaimo.

When entering, competitors should state their preference as to times in which they wish to bowl over the three-day period.

Nelson has announced that the first shift will be on Saturday, May 21, at 2 p.m. Bowling will wind up May 23 at midnight.

Lou Revamps Cub Infield; Trades Taylor

CHICAGO (AP) — The last-place Chicago Cubs have traded Tony Taylor and Cal Neeman to Philadelphia Phillies for Don Cardwell and Ed Bouchee as new Cub manager Lou Boudreau almost entirely revamped his infield.

The struggling Cubs got what they needed desperately in right-handed Cardwell, a first-line pitcher. The Phils obtained a good second sacker in Taylor and potential regular catcher in Neeman.

Bouchee, a .280 hitter, takes over first base in a Cub infield which Boudreau just about turned inside out.

City Swimmers Well Represented At Championships

A team of 25 swimmers, all under 16 years of age, will compete under the Victoria Amateur Swim Club banner in the Pacific Northwest championships at Vancouver's Percy Norman Memorial Pool this weekend.

The team will be coached by Dave Burnett.

Boys making the trip will be Monty Holding, Colin McTavish, Marten Schaddelee, Grant Carrier, Paul Pacquin, Kees Schaddelee, Richard Hobday and Kib Johaneson.

Girls will be Susan Davidson, Heather Forbes, Nurdene Nurdoch, Janice Olsen, Karen McKenzie, Wendy McCague, Ruth Jorgenson, Vickie Holding, Anne Kidd, Nancy Robson, Pixie Thorburn, Diane Hobday, Mary Helen Johaneson, Donna Bishop, Robin Olsen, Jane Allix and Quinda Nikkelson.

BRISBANE, Australia — Auburn Copeland, 129¾, Flint, Mich., knocked out Wally Taylor, 127¼, Australia, 10.

Nagle Steps Up As Leaders Falter

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Kel Nagle, a big, talkative Australian who can give the boys lessons in chipping and putting, was in position today to become the first foreigner to win a United States golf tournament in two years.

Nagle, 39-year-old veteran from Sydney, took the lead by two strokes in the $30,000 Colonial National Invitation Friday. His two-under-par 68 gave him 137 for 36 holes.

Nagle also is in position to win twice as much money as he has taken in 12 previous tournaments here since 1951. He has earned a mere $2,297.

Playing his 13th American tournament on Friday the 13th, Nagle had the answer to the high winds that swept the 7,041-yard Colonial course.

Gene Littler and Doug Sanders each shot par 70 for 139 and a tie for second place in the 72-hole event. The first-round leaders, Billy Maxwell with a 67, and Jerry Barber with a 68, faltered. Maxwell had a 76 for 143 and fell to a tie for ninth place. Barber fashioned a 72. It dropped him to fourth place at 140.

The last foreigner to win an American tournament was Stan Leonard of Vancouver, who took the tournament of Champions at Las Vegas in mid-1958. Leonard fired a 73 Friday for 147.

Two Youngsters Hurt on Malahat

Two teen-agers are in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital today after the car in which they rode with four others was wrecked against a stone wall on the Malahat Friday night.

The driver, Douglas Wedman, 17, of 600 Moss, with forehead abrasion and shoulder injury, and Rita Hodges, 14, of 204 Government, with suspected broken leg and other injuries, were admitted to St. Joseph's.

Vicki Axhorne, and Lorraine Robinson, both 13, were treated at Jubilee Hospital, for bruises and abrasions and released.

Robert Sigler, 2211 Ida, and Victor Normandeau, 1001 North Park, escaped injury.

Police said the car, driven south on Peden Hill curve, went out of control, leaped a ditch and crashed against the rock abutment.

It was reported the auto swerved to avoid an oncoming car.

Canadians Must Know Immigrants' Needs

EDMONTON (CP)—Immigration Minister Fairclough said Friday night that Canada will be split into a nation of ethnic islands unless Canadians are neighborly with immigrants.

She told the Edmonton Citizenship Council that Canada has so many newcomers "that we cannot afford to remain indifferent to their needs, their hopes or their skills."

"We sometimes deplore the fact that some immigrants prefer to live closely unto their own social ethnic groups. I wonder to what degree we are to blame for segregating ourselves into our own ethnic and national groupings."

USE OWN SATELLITES JODRELL HEAD ADVISES

JODRELL BANK, Eng. (Reuters)—Prof Bernard Lovell, director of the Jodrell Bank radio observatory, Friday night urged Britain to launch its own communications satellites following the failure of the United States attempt Friday.

Lovell said the future possibilities of communications satellites for advertisements and propaganda are enormous, and it is "inconceivable that Great Britain should leave these entirely in the hands of the United States or Russia."

'JAM SESSION' AGAINST PAIN

'Open Wide' to Hi-Fi Latest Dental Panacea

By MICHAEL ROSE

Hi-Fi has come to dentistry and you need feel pain no more.

A new machine, developed recently in Cambridge, Mass., allows a patient to don earphones and tune in music to tune out the anxiety-producing sound of buzzing drills.

Dr. George M. Ling, a researcher on the staff of the department of pharmaecology at University of B.C., explained the functions of the machine to B.C. Dental Association delegates at the Empress Hotel this morning.

He said the machine is actually a stereo-tape reproduction system that superimposes varying sound frequencies on top of music of the patient's choice.

"Personalized volume controls," he said, "permit the patient to adjust earphones to the intensity of sound necessary to dampen the grating monotony of the drill.

"Primary perception of pain is in no way altered but the diversion of attention tends to modify and in some cases eliminate anxiety and apprehension."

The sound, controlled by the patient, he said, has the effect of "jamming" pain producing fear impulses in the brain and local anaesthetics take care of the physical pain.

The system also produces a feeling of confidence in the patient who, through the control box on his lap, feels he is participating in the work rather than being operated on.

Dr. Ling said this technique is a refinement of the phenomenon seen on the gridiron or battlefield where a player or soldier may be badly injured but not feel the pain since he is involved in something more compelling.

Other applications of the system are possible, he said, in surgery where reduced apprehension will mean lower blood pressure, less bleeding to complicate the operation and a speedier post-operative recovery.

MONTE ROBERTS

An Esquimalt constituent has been kind enough to send me a poem containing a play on words.

The poem deals with a couple of characters called Ike and Mr. K., and at the risk of offending the kindly Esquimalt constituent, I will fail to reproduce it here.

But I will go along with the play on words embodied in the poem, which links the now-famous U.S. "weather" plane U-2 with the words of a dying Caesar:

"You, too."

In case you think the above indicates I take a dim view of the incident involving the U.S. "weather" plane which crashed in U.S.S.R. territory, I hasten to correct the impression.

I am all in favor of spies spying, whether it be U.S. spies spying from airplanes or U.S.S.R. spies spying from submarines.

There is nothing more pitiful than an unemployed spy, because he can't even draw unemployment insurance.

Now that the powers that be have decided, long in advance of the coming war, who the opponents are to be, why not scout them?

It is no more heinous an offence than scouting the opposing football or hockey team you're going to meet next Saturday.

The stakes are higher, but the ethics are not necessarily lower.

Whether it's football, hockey, or war, the only important rule is "don't get caught."

This is one reason I feel some segments of the Canadian population are becoming unrealistic and slightly hysterical when they suggest the U-2 incident should persuade we Canadians to divorce ourselves from the "bumblings" of the United States, dissolve our armed forces, junk our weapons, and assume a neutral role.

It is a dandy theory, but what I would like to know is, who are we going to be neutral for?

'Most Wanted' Man Adjudged Mentally Ill

An order-in-council has authorized the transfer of Daniel William O'Connor, once one of Canada's 10 most-wanted men, from Oakalla Prison to Essondale Mental Hospital.

The order, approved earlier this week, states that O'Connor is mentally ill. He is charged with attempted murder in connection with the assault and pistol whipping of an RCMP corporal near Keremeos, B.C., in 1953.

O'Connor, who was expected to face trial on the charge this spring at Penticton, was returned to Canada from the United States late last year. He was arrested in San Diego, Calif., on a bogus cheque charge.

GEORGE I. IS RETIRED—MORE OR LESS

Girls from travel bureaus throughout Pacific Northwest visited here today, to be unofficially greeted by retired commissioner of Publicity Bureau, George I. Warren, now manager of Victoria Automobile Club. They came here this morning on Black Ball sightseeing tour. Mr. Warren, one week from today, will also be a tourist—two months in Europe, which will include one month in England and one month on the Continent. Trip was made possible by city businessmen who presented veteran tourist chief with cheques totalling $1,900, plus tickets to London and return for "George" and wife. (Halkett Photo.)

SUMMIT AGREEMENT URGED BY CITY GROUP

A group promoting "success at the summit" gathered at Yates and Douglas at 10 a.m. today, hoping by 6 p.m. to have a sizeable crowd protesting world armament.

Four persons handed out B.C. Peace Council pamphlets, but said they represented "no one in particular."

The pamphlets urge that success at the summit meeting is "up to us"; that there must be agreement on world disarmament—"are we to live or die?"—and that the wishes of the people should be known to those at the summit.

Citizens were invited to write directly to the secretary of the summit conference, Paris.

FAIR OPENS MONDAY

Jaycees Aim For 100,000

The 14th annual Victoria Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition opens Monday and sponsoring Junior Chamber of Commerce officials expect this to be the biggest year yet.

"If the people of Victoria are as interested in the exhibition as we think they are," said fair chairman Bill Hughes," we will probably go over the 100,000 attendance mark."

The exhibition has 20 per cent more space and exhibits than ever before.

Mayor Percy Scurrah will open the week-long affair Monday at 8 p.m, although it will have been open to the public since 2 p.m.

The exhibition was first held in 1947 when 5,000 people attended. Last year's attendance was 75,000 and officials have predicted if the weather holds more than 100,000 people will have come through the gate.

Visitors to the exhibition this year will not enter through the Memorial Arena as in previous years but through a specially constructed gate at the corner of Quadra and Caledonia.

Nightly Spectacle

Impressive enough in daylight, the fall of night will turn the midway into kaleidoscope of color illuminated by a brand new fluorescent lighting system.

One of the biggest improvements in the fair will be an increased representation by agricultural groups throughout Vancouver Island.

Wednesday will be 4-H Day and eleven clubs of the South Malahat District are entered and will be competing for the Junior Chamber of Commerce Challenge Shield.

Included in the agricultural section will be the cattle pen on the hill behind Memorial Arena with some 150 head entered by breeders throughout the Island, and the rabbit show at the Curling Rink with a similar number of prize animals.

Biggest single exhibit of the fair will be the huge "Medical 60" display in the Curling Rink comprising entries by nearly every Victoria health organization and city hospitals.

Success at PNE

In addition there will be the section devoted to demonstrating the development of a child from conception to birth that was the hit of the 1959 PNE.

For those who want fun there will be more this year.

More rides have been set up than before on each side of the Curling Rink and the midway is bigger.

Each afternoon and evening professional entertainment will be provided in the Arena and candidates for the Miss Victoria title will demonstrate their talents.

Final selection of the queen will take place Saturday by a panel of five judges and the winner will be announced at 11 that night.

Information, Please

Jaycee officials will be on hand everywhere to provide information and experienced chamber members will be in charge of the special young children's rides and games on the midway.

The fair will be open daily Monday through Saturday from 2 p.m. to midnight except Saturday when the doors open at 10 a.m.

ONLY remaining Boer War nursing sister living in Canada, Mrs. Rose A. Maclennan, 85, 857 McClure, is leaving next week to attend the 60th annual reunion of the Boer War veterans in Toronto, May 21 to 24. Mrs. Maclennan was trained in St. Thomas' Hospital in London, England.

Newsmen To Talk Shop At City Parley

Some 70 daily newspapers from Newfoundland to British Columbia will be represented when the Canadian Managing Editors' Conference holds its 14th annual gathering in Victoria next week.

It is the first time the conference has been held west of Winnipeg and officials in charge say the attendance may be the largest in recent years.

Delegates will gather Thursday evening at a reception in the Empress Hotel and will hold meetings and attend social affairs through to the end of the week.

FEATURE

Business meetings will cover various technical aspects of handling and displaying news in a modern daily. One of the features will be a full afternoon clinic devoted to newspaper design, led by Edmund C. Arnold of the Mergenthaler Linotype Co., New York.

Other subjects to be discussed will include a panel on sports pages, use of newsphoto color in modern papers, reporting of crime news, staff problems and foreign correspondence.

A full social program has been arranged for delegates, including a dinner tendered by the province of B.C., a civic luncheon and a reception by His Honor Frank Ross and Mrs. Ross at B.C.'s new Government House next Saturday afternoon.

ISLAND FLAVOR

An event with a distinct Island flavor will be a beef and salmon barbecue at Sooke Saturday evening, along the lines developed by the All-Sooke Day organization.

Heading the contingent of visiting editors is Larry N. Smith, St. Catharines (Ont.) Standard, president; Emery LeBlanc, L'Evangeline, Moncton, N.B., first vice-president; Peter M. Preston, Brantford (Ont.) Expositor, second vice-president; and William Thomson, Regina Leader-Post, secretary-treasurer.

$2.3 Million Expansion For Hospital

St. Joseph Program To Start Next Year

St. Joseph's Hospital officials today revealed full details of their big expansion program.

Here are the main points:

1. Estimated cost for a new 130-bed wing, extensions and renovations to present hospital facilities will be $2,320,000.
2. Construction is expected to start in 1961.
3. There will be no major fund drive to assist the building program, but the public will be asked to make voluntary subscriptions amounting to at least $200,000.

In disclosing the hospital expansion program, Sister Mary Ann Celesta, administrator, said as a result of grants from all levels of government and from the Sisters of St. Ann, most of the financing of the project is now assured.

But, she added, because of somewhat higher cost requirement than was originally anticipated, a balance of $200,000 must still be obtained.

"We are looking to voluntary subscriptions to provide this amount," she said.

Estimate of costs are broken down as follows: new construction, $1,810,000; renovations, $270,000; equipment, $240,000. This totals to $2,320,000.

NEW WING

This is what the money will pay for:

A new five-storey wing to be located at the corner of Rupert and Humboldt Streets. It will be devoted largely to patient accommodations.

A basement to contain a completely new and modern laundry designed to meet the increasing requirements of the hospital.

A new Humboldt Street entrance. It is proposed to replace the sunrooms on the Humboldt Street side of the hospital with a new four-storey tower which will provide a new entrance at street level for visitors.

ELEVATOR

The tower will contain an elevator to facilitate the transport of visitors and in addition will provide new and modern sunrooms on each of the patent floors.

A new fifth floor on the Humboldt Street wing. This area will house new accommodation for the Sisters. Accommodations now used by them will be converted into office space.

Sister Celesta said it is also proposed to extend the wing which houses the emergency department to three times its present size.

The basement under this extension will permit enlargement of the cafeteria and food service areas. This will facilitate the development of a centralized food service which will result in labor savings.

With regard to the new wing, the major hospital project, Sister Celesta said the first, second, third and fourth floor, will contain a total of 130 beds.

The fifth floor will contain a new modern case room and labor room suite.

"It is considered desirable to locate as much patient accommodations in the new wing in order to provide the patient with modern and pleasant surroundings," Sister Celesta said. "The number of beds will enable us to vacate other areas of the hospital which will then be used for necessary expansion of essential departments."

NEW TRENDS

She said the new wing will do a lot to permit alteration and renovations in many of the existing areas of the hospital which require improvements to keep up with newer trends in hospital care.

Power Talks United Front Predicted

Justice Minister Davie Fulton here today expressed confidence in outcome of talks with the U.S. on Columbia River hydro development.

The Canadian team will meet with its Washington counterpart in Washington May 19.

Mr. Fulton and Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton were here today to meet B.C. Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston and Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Today's meeting was expected to be the final B.C.-federal discussion on the project.

Mr. Fulton said the meeting here will prepare a "united front" on Columbia development.

"One thing is certain," he said. "We are not going to give the Americans anything for nothing."

Talks concern downstream benefits which could accrue in damming of the Columbia and U.S. participation in the mooted project.

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

St. Matthias Little Theatre Society played to a full and enthusiastic audience Friday night with two contrasting one-act plays and a short but lively variety program.

The entertainment, marking the close of their first season as a dramatic group, suggests that the society has entered on a promising career in amateur theatricals.

It will be repeated in St. Matthias Hall tonight at 8.15.

The two plays strike an effective balance—the first building up through tension and suspicion to an unsuspected climax; the second creating and sustaining a farcical theme.

Jennefer Allen directed the short mystery play "Dark Brown" by Philip Johnson and contrived with the seven players to produce a macabre atmosphere surrounding the absences of a Victorian husband suspected of being a strangler.

Sandra Piggott was excellent as the demure little wife of the "strangler," ably played by Frank Allen. Dorothy Harhis almost convinced us she was insane in the role of the "mad aunt" and Susan Styles nearly turned herself into a horrid young woman—but not quite.

RAISE VOICES

They were well supported by Doris Exton, Edna McCulloch, Edward Piggott. But I hope some will raise their voices a little tonight, just for those at the back of the hall.

In the Canadian comedy, "Rise and Shine," by Elsa Cadogan; David Shearer, Marilyn Norman, John Porteous and Mabel Sadler had the difficult task of making the Resurrection Day come to life.

It is a lively farce set in a lively churchyard where lively bodies leap out of their graves at the sound of Gabriel's horn—and Vera Trueman, as director, must have worked hard to get her cast into the mood of the piece.

They all did a surprisingly good job.

INTERLUDE

The variety program directed by Bert Binny formed an effective interlude between the plays. Contributing to it were Risha Golby and Barbara Dunn; accordionist Richard Parkinson; dancers Ceredwyn Richards, Nadine Stewart and Beverly Peters, Marilyn Britt, Frances Scott and Heather Pope.

Stage manager for the show was Florence Cameron, Jack Trueman handled the lighting, Dorothea House the make-up, Katherine Malcolm the costumes and David Shearer the sound effects.

FATHER McNAMARA . . . $150,000 pledged

Work Begins Monday on New Church

The efforts of only 600 families in the parish of the Roman Catholic Church of Our Lady of Lourdes has resulted in $150,000 being pledged for a new church.

Construction is due to start Monday on the Roman brick structure designed by John Di Castri and to be constructed by Don McGinnis.

Parish priest Father M. J. McNamara said that in addition to the church building fund the parishioners raised $330,000 less than two years ago for St. Patrick's School.

This represents a total of $480,000, or about $800 per family.

Work is scheduled to be completed in time for the Christmas services on the site which is located a few hundred feet from the present church which will be taken over by the Poor Clare Sisters.

Royal Wedding

PARIS (Reuters)—The marriage of Princess Diane of France, daughter of the pretender to the French throne, and Prince Karl of Wurttemberg will be held July 21, the princess' family announced Thursday. FOR AUDIENCE, JUDGES

Festival Lesson In Bilingualism

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Dominion Drama Festival which opens here Monday night will be a rigorous lesson in Canada's bilingualism for audience and adjudicator alike.

The eight amateur theatre groups from Halifax to Vancouver have chosen plays from four countries and given the series a twist by using translations of half of them.

Of the three predominantly French-speaking groups, one will be performing a Canadian play in English, one an American television drama in a French translation and only one a French drama in the original.

USE TRANSLATIONS

The five English-speaking groups have been only slightly more consistent. Three will present Canadian or American plays in English while the others are using translations of French and Italian works respectively.

Adjudicator Philip Hope-Wallace said all this "should mean a highly interesting festival."

Mr. Hope-Wallace, drama and music critic for The Guardian, of Manchester, is fluent in French and a frequent adjudicator at European drama festivals. He adjudicated the Dominion festivals in 1949 at Toronto and 1958 at Halifax.

The festival, which ends next Saturday night with presentation of awards by Governor-General Vanier, is the climax of the amateur theatre season.

The entrants from Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, London, Sudbury, Medicine Hat and Vancouver represent some of the top non-professional talent, having survived regional festivals in 14 districts.

VAST THEATRE

The scene will be the two-year-old 2,800-seat Queen Elizabeth theatre, which is expected to challenge many of the contesting groups with its vast stage and auditorium. Performances will be held every night, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

Between presentations, the festival committee has lined up a series of day-time public conferences by noted Canadian theatre personalities.

The bilingual nature of the festival was stressed in an interview by Lt.-Col. Yves Bourassa of Montreal, president of the Dominion Festival, who is here with his wife, actress Nicole Germain.

CUTS DOWN BARRIERS

"All of the participants will have a chance for thorough discussion of something they love that overrides complications of language — the theatre.

"This is the type of thing that brings about unity, real unity."

In addition to the regular trophies, the most promising actor here will be given an apprentice engagement at the Stratford, Ont., Shakespearean Festival. The series itself will be the subject of a National Film Board study, the first time the festival has been filmed.

Lord's Day Act Conviction Killed

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—Judge J. R. MacDonald of Melfort Friday quashed a conviction of violating the federal Lord's Day Act which had been registered against Oliva Dupiront Dit Lavertu of Prince Albert.

Lavertu is manager of a Modern Independent Grocers' Alliance Foodliner just south of Prince Albert.

Judge MacDonald ruled the prosecution had failed to establish evidence that Lavertu was "owner and operator" of the supermarket and thus could not be charged with selling, or allowing employees to sell, goods on Sunday.

Prairies Shiver, Swelter In Spell of Crazy Weather

EDMONTON (CP) — Residents of the western Prairies got their wish Friday for a quick end to the heat wave, but the alternative wasn't much of a bargain.

Arctic air plunged south, sent temperatures plummeting by up to 40 degrees down from Thursday's record highs and stirred up 70-mile-an-hour dust storms over southern Saskatchewan.

Edmonton got mixed snow and rain.

Manitoba continued to bask in unseasonable warmth, although mid-afternoon temperatures in the low-80s were up to 10 degrees cooler than Thursday.

Hottest spot on the Prairies Thursday was Moose Jaw at 99, one degree below the highest temperature ever recorded in the city in May.

The Arctic breakthrough hit northern Alberta with most force, cutting the mid-afternoon temperature in Edmonton to 34. Almost an inch of rain and some snow accompanied the storm.

Power and telephone lines were blown down at Chaplin, 50 miles west of Moose Jaw. Sheds and small buildings were damaged.

The winds lifted great clouds of topsoil over southern Saskatchewan.

The four young sons of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Paterson have gone to bed after a busy day and Audrey gives a last touch to an arrangement of tulips before guests arrive. Audrey's lovely dress in blue and white print has a full overskirt of clear blue silk organza.

For shopping at the supermarket, Mrs. Gerald Emery wears a simply-styled maternity dress which she made herself. Turquoise blue uncrushable linen was Betty's fabric choice. Fourteen-month-old son, Bobby, in his yellow outfit will share mother's attention with a new baby in July.

As fresh and sparkling as the laundry she has just taken from the clothesline is Mrs. Marvin Karst. Glenna favors the full-skirted printed cotton shirtwaist style for daily household chores and has made three dresses in various colors from this same pattern. Two little girls keep Glenna on the go every moment.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

It Pays to Look Your Best Around the Clock

By Nona Damaske
Times Fashion Editor

Do you occasionally look through your wardrobe and decide that a dress, or a pair of shoes, have seen better days and now must only be used "around the house?"

If you do, you've adopted a pretty careless attitude toward your home life and your family.

When a garment is too shabby to be seen by your friends and neighbors, it certainly isn't fair to inflict it upon those who love you most.

Being a homemaker means holding down a many-sided job and calls for a special wardrobe. Nothing is more damaging to the morale than looking and feeling like a household drudge in castoff clothes from one's own clothes closet.

If you look well-groomed and attractive while you are doing the housework, even so menial a task as scrubbing the kitchen floor will not seem like drudgery.

With the new easy-to-care-for miracle fabrics you can look neat and smart at home at all times without too much trouble or expense.

Because they are designed for comfort, play clothes are particularly well suited for housework. You can choose from a variety of plaid, striped or solid-toned blouses and combine with shorts, slacks or matching skirts.

You'll enjoy your chores if you look attractive. You'll never get that sinking feeling when an unexpected caller arrives for a cup of coffee.

The knowledge that you look neat and pretty at all times is the most effective morale booster in the world.

Mopping the floor is a fine way to practice good posture. Keep your back straight, your abdomen flat, and work in small strokes from right to left.

Unwanted bulges disappear with stretching exercises, and what better stretching exercise than wiping smudges from overhead cabinets.

When you hear your young son or daughter tell the little chum next door "My Mommy is pretty" you will reap the full reward of the extra care you have taken to look attractive.

The three busy mothers in today's pictures are all active members of Queen Alexandra Junior League.

Nail Files of Diamonds Newest Thing in Town!

By PENNY SAVER

Smart women use diamonds to beautify their nails as well as flatter their fingers! Newest thing to arrive in town this week is a nail file made of millions of tiny diamonds and sapphire crystals, permanently bonded to nickel silver.

To use one is sheer luxury. Smooth abrasive surface eliminates ugly, ragged split nails. No rasping tugs or sandy scratches when you use one of these. Although price is a little higher than that of conventional files or emery boards, these will last much longer and do a better job.

Starting with four-inch files that sell at $1.25, you can also buy a six-inch one at $1.60 or pay $1.95 for an eight-inch nail file. Once you've tried these newcomers you'll never want to be without one!

Many winter perfumes become too heavy once spring and warm weather appears. If you are looking for a new fragrance I suggest you try some of the summer colognes that are on sale right now. Formerly $1.25, colognes are priced down to 79 cents and come in pink clover, lilac and one marked "Fragrant Showers."

Also on sale are packages of handy moist towels. These provide all you need for a refreshing wash when travelling, being your soap, water and towel all rolled into one.

Not only will they come in handy on family trips, you'll find them wonderful for quick "clean-up" jobs on small children, ideal to slip into an office desk and just right for a hot-weather pick-up. Convalescents, too, will appreciate having one of these packages placed in a convenient spot by their bed.

Packages of eight are now selling at 49 cents while packages of 18 are priced at 98 cents.

For information on any of these items phone Penny at Ev 2-3131.

DEAR ABBY

The Tall and Short of It!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Why do short fellows ask tall girls for dates? Sometimes a girl just doesn't know how to say no.

I am a tall girl and it seems that every shrimp I know wants to date me. Not wishing to hurt his feelings, I accept. Then I feel so foolish when we dance. Other people point at us, nudge each other and snicker.

Please print this, Abby, and tell short boys not to ask a girl who is taller than he is for a date. Thank you.

LONG TALL SALL.

DEAR LONG TALL SALL: Not all tall girls share your point of view. Furthermore, a short fellow (please not a "shrimp") who asks a taller girl for a date is paying her a compliment. He assumes that she has the intelligence to measure a man for what he is—not how much of him there appears to be.

DEAR ABBY: Is there no justice for an innocent widow? I am 32 and have two children, 10 and 11. About six months ago I met a man who told me he was divorced. I fell for him hard. We started to make plans for marriage. Then one night he came over here with his suitcase. He said his wife had kicked him out of the house and he was moving in with me. I was stunned to learn that he was still married. I told him, Oh, no, he wasn't, because although I loved him, I wouldn't live that way before my children. He left and his wife called me. I got in my car and went over there. Her story and his didn't jibe. She doesn't believe me, and if she names me, I will lose my job, and maybe my children. Can you help me, Abby? DESPERATE.

DEAR DESPERATE: Get in touch with your lawyer. And the next man who tells you he is divorced, ask to see legal proof. If he's on the up and up, he'll respect you for your good sense. And if he isn't, the sooner you know it—the better.

DEAR ABBY: Our 24-year-old son has recently returned from the service. I realize that he is no longer a child but a grown man and what he does is none of my business. Yet while he is under my roof, isn't it my business where he goes, what he does, and what time he comes home?

I have other children (younger) and he is setting a very poor example by his conduct. He has gotten to be the talk of the town because of an affair he has been carrying on with a woman 15 years his senior.

Don't tell me to have his father talk to him. His father says he is a man and can do as he pleases. How can I keep him in line? Or can I? HELPLESS.

DEAR HELPLESS: While your son is under your roof (at any age) it is your business how he conducts himself. If he is not willing to live more discreetly, you should ask him to headquarter elsewhere.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JENNIE: Of course the "circumstances" are important, but I would say that a man who had been married and divorced four times was a very, very, very, very poor risk for marriage.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Don't Twitch and Turn, Scratch or Swing Feet!

Josephine

Many women have nervous mannerisms. This is always aging since we think of these in connection with later years. However we often see them in women who are in the prime of life.

Such women twitch and turn this way and that. They may drum on the arms of the chair with their fingers. They may rub their noses or scratch their heads, swing their feet back and forth violently, lift their eyebrows and change positions constantly. It makes us feel jumpy just to watch them!

The picture I have painted above is an extreme one but not an unusual one. Practically all women are guilty of some of these characteristics at some time from middle age on unless they check themselves periodically.

Jumpy mannerisms and movements and choppy conversation detract from charm. One can be animated and at the same time calm. A restful, relaxed approach is always attractive. It makes others feel that we are in control of ourselves and of the situation in which we find ourselves.

Usually the person who is very nervous in physical mannerisms is the same way in conversation. She shuttles between thoughts, never pursuing one for more than a few moments but leaving small pieces of many thoughts scattered between sentences.

There are definite mannerisms which many women develop as they grow older. These add years to one's appearance. Sometimes women imitate these without realizing it.

If you would like to check yourself to see if you have developed any aging mannerisms, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet "Mannerisms Which Denote Age," No. 67. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Jones conducted the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Landon, of Victoria, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clement, of Montreal.

Seed pearls and sequins trimmed the neckline of the full-length gown of white silk tulle and Chantilly lace worn by the bride. Lace edged her chapel veil and she wore culture pearl jewelry, gift of the groom. Red rosebuds and freesia were in the bridal bouquet.

The bride's father gave her in marriage.

Exquisite Wedding Gown Worn By Miriam Tripp This Afternoon

Sparkling iridescent sequins highlighted floor-length gown of nylon sheer worn by Miss Miriam Frances Tripp for her marriage to Albert Merlyn Hafer in Centennial United Church today. Appliques of lace and sequins edged portrait collar of the basque bodice, accented the lowered waistline and were scattered on the full hooped skirt. Sleeves were lily point. Her finger-tip veil of illusion net was held by a dainty cap of nylon and net, trimmed with rhinestones and sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and lily-of-the-valley.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Tripp of Blackwood Street. Groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. Hafer of East Saanich Road.

Spring flowers decorated the church for the ceremony at which Rev. S. J. Parsons officiated. Organist was Mrs. M. Wilmshurst. Julian A. White sang "O Perfect Love."

Shades of shell pink, aqua, blue and daffodil yellow were in identical gowns of maid of honor, Miss Lynda Tripp, sister of the bride, and three bridesmaids, the Misses Jerene Hafer, Irene Mearns and Dana Thompson. Tiny flower girl, Noni James, wore a gown of pale blue taffeta with dotted Swiss overskirt. All wore flowered headbands to match their gowns and carried colonial bouquets of stephanotis and carnations en tone.

George Preston was best man and ushers were Richard Tripp, Brian Wharf and Wilmer Michell.

Pink roses and lily-of-the-valley flanked three-tier wedding cake that centred head table at a reception in St. Alban's parish hall. Toast to the bride was given by Wilbert Jeeves.

Sheath dress and matching chanel jacket in grey pincheck wool was chosen by new Mrs. Hafer for a honeymoon trip to California. Willow green duster in silk boucle topped her ensemble. Accessories were in bone shade. Her corsage was of yellow roses. On their return, newlyweds will make their home in Victoria.

Returns After Successful Six-Week Buying Trip to the Continent and British Isles

Mr. Roy reports that:

England is enjoying a very prosperious period of business at present, with very little unemployment. This also applies to Scotland, especially in the knitwear and textile trades. The heavy industries, such as ship-building for example in Glasgow are suffering somewhat of a slump.

In Italy, Mr. Roy found Rome to be a hive of industry, especially in the building trades. Huge, modern apartments are being constructed in a new section known as Olympic City. These new apartments are being built to take care of the expected influx of people attending the Olympic Games. The games are to take place around the end of August.

It is also interesting to note that the Italian people intend to use the new apartments to house their own civic employees after the games are over. Road-building is also going forward on a round-the-clock schedule.

Mr. Roy also observed that Milan appears to be enjoying a very prosperious period; especially in the knitwear trade, where early deliveries from the mills are almost impossible.

Some of Mr. Roy's recent purchases are already arriving, and are now on view at Roy Imports. These items are listed below:

New and Exclusive Travel Tweed and Sporting COATS. made in London. From $59^50

Birth of 19 babies, staff illness and a rash of logging accidents were among causes for the situation.

Mr. Ramsay, retiring president of the Mortgage and Trust Companies Association of B.C., told the annual meeting here that supply of conventional funds available for the next six months should be sufficient to cover all normal requirements.

He noted mortgage loan approvals for Canada by member companies in 1959 totalled $575,000,000 on residential properties—only four per cent below the 1958 all-time high.

Elected new president was J. D. Wilson, assistant general manager, Canada Trust Company, and Huron and Erie Mortgage Corporation.

End-Loading Ferry Wharf For Ganges

DR. GORDON W. STEAD
. . . impressed

GANGES—A bid for construction of an end-loading ferry wharf here was received favorably this week by Dr. Gordon W. Stead, director-general of marine services for the transport department.

He and other officials of the department visited here aboard the icebreaker and buoy tender Camsell while making a tour of docking facilities on this coast.

They met with Gavin C. Mouat of Gulf Islands Ferry Co. (1951) Ltd., and Lt.-Col. D. G. Crofton, newly-elected president of the Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce, to discuss the ferry and wharf problems of the Gulf Islands.

The party continued on to Campbell River.

Their arrival marked the first visit of the Camsell to Ganges. The 223-foot vessel, which cost $4,500,000, will leave for the western Arctic in July for three months' duty as an icebreaker, and will service lighthouses and navigation buoys for the rest of the year.

Ladysmith Talks Amalgamation

NOMINEE FOR POST of Kiwanis district governor is Ernest W. Miller, Nanaimo lawyer and past president of Nanaimo club. District includes Vancouver Island and northwest Washington.

LADYSMITH — A petition calling for the amalgamation of the village and surrounding districts will be presented to the public next week by a special committee of Ladysmith Chamber of Commerce.

There will be no house-to-house canvass. Instead, the committee will open an office in the business section, where all information pertinent to the move can be kept, and signatures taken.

A three-fifths majority of residents outside the city, but within the proposed new boundaries, will be required before the village commission will be authorized to place the proposition before Ladysmith owner-electors.

The move would increase the population of the village from 2,100 to more than 3,000, and would increase the area about five times.

Boundaries would be extended roughly two miles north and south, and would include all waterfront between Smelter Beach and Blaineys. The move would give residents in the area control of the waterfront for the first time.

On the basis of 1960 tax rates, it would mean an additional $72,000 revenue to the village in the form of taxes and grants.

Sports organizations look forward to amalgamation because there are several sites in the larger area considered as ideal for development as recreational parks.

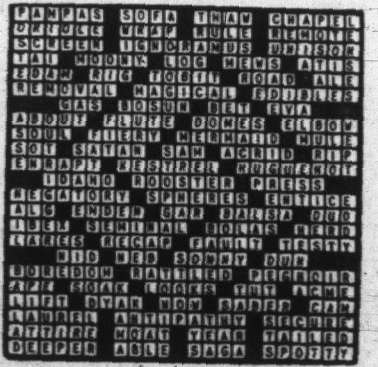
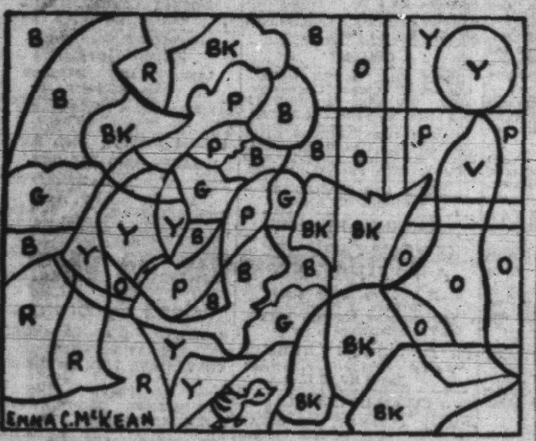
Solution of Last Week's Puzzle



COLORGRAPH FOR JUNIORS



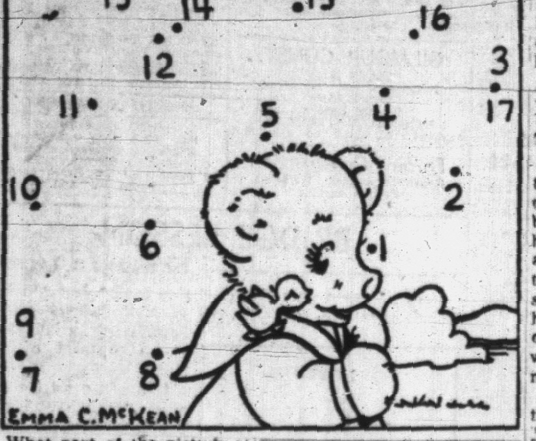
An artist usually knows beforehand what he is setting out to draw, but the artist who adds colors to the jumbled-line "canvas" above, will find his subject a surprise.

Use crayons as follows: B sections call for blue; R, red; V, violet; O, orange. Wherever you see Y, fill in yellow. Bk indicates black; P, pink; G, green. For pink, shade red lightly.

Where spaces are unlettered, do not add any colors.

You may wish to take a guess at what's portrayed in the scene before you begin. It's only fair to warn you that some of the figures that seem quite obvious now will disappear when colors are added to the diagram.

DOT TO DOT



What part of the picture at right is missing? To find out, draw a line from dot one to dot two, and then to three, etc., until you come to dot 17.

Wherever two numbers are close to one dot, use the dot for both.

Afterwards, you can have some more fun adding colors to the scene.

Can you guess what's missing before you begin?

CAN YOU ANSWER RIDDLE OF LIFE?

Can you figure out the answer to this famous conundrum by an unknown poet?

What does everyone love more than life;
Hate more than death and mortal strife?
What does the contented man desire;
What have the poor the rich desire;
What is it the miser spends and the spendthrift saves?
And what do all men carry to their graves?

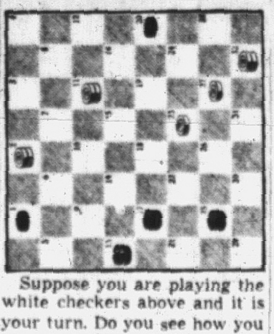
Answer: Nothing

The Sahara desert covers about 3,500,000 square miles, with rain only once or twice a year.

IT'S YOUR TURN



Suppose you are playing the white checkers above and it is your turn. Do you see how you can win in four moves?

Remember, it's your turn. Uncrowned white pieces move toward the top of the board; kings may move in any direction.

Long-time checker champ Millard Hopper, whose solution to this poser appears below, sometimes plays as many as 40 opponents at one time.

Solution: White 2-6, Black 1-10, White 11-15, Black 10-19-26, White 27-24, Black 20-27, White 32-23-30-21-14.

Horses were pulling street cars on some routes in New York City as late as 1917.

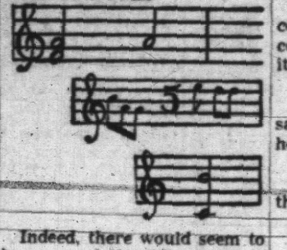
LET'S GO, MEN!

All of the words defined below are seven-letter words. As a clue to each one, the three letters MEN are indicated. Can you fill in missing letters?

MEN . . . . Allude
. MEN . . . Changed
. . MEN . . Spice
. . . MEN . Praise
. . . . MEN System
. . . . MEN Janizaries
. . . MEN . Constituent
. . MEN . . Moans
. MEN . . . Part of cow's stomach
MEN . . . . Threatens

Solution: Mention, amended, pimento, commend, regimen, doormen, element, laments, omentum, menaces.

TRAVEL NOTES



Indeed, there would seem to be no relationship between geography and music except in titles. Yet, if you can read some music and remember early schoolday lessons in geography, you'll find three geographic places named in the bars of music above.

At top: a lake in northern Russia. Middle bar: a county in California. Bottom bar: a French seaport.

Answers: Lake Onega (on-e-ga), Calaveras County (C-a-la-v-e-ra's), Bordeaux (B o'er do).

TRIPPER UPPER

The engineer, reporting to the dispatcher on the train's delayed arrival, said: "We blew off a cylinder-head an hour after leaving Locktown, and had to run the rest of the trip at three-fifths of scheduled speed, which brought us in two hours late. If the accident had occured 50 miles farther on, we would have arrived 40 minutes sooner."

How long was the run between stations?

Solution: 200 miles. If he had gone 50 miles fullspeed instead of three-fifths speed he would have saved 40 minutes. He could have gone 83⅓ miles at full speed in the time required to go 50 miles at three-fifths speed, a difference of 33⅓ miles. If at the same time he saves 40 minutes, then 33⅓ divided into 40 minutes, gives one-and-one-fifth minutes as his time per mile at full speed. Being reduced to three-fifths of his speed, he would lose four-fifths of a minute every mile, and then would have to go 150 miles to lose two hours. Thus he went 50 miles at full-speed and 150 miles at three-fifths speed, so his total run was 200 miles.

KNOTTY POEM

Read this aloud and see how long it takes you to "get" the answer.

There was a man who was not born,
His father was not born

He did not live, he did not die,
And his epitaph was not o'er
him. What was his name?

Answer: His name was Knott or Not.

LETTERITHMETIC TEST

Letters have replaced the digits 1 through 9 in the following arithmetic: E plus D plus H equals C. C plus J equals EF. D times D is EB. G times G is CE. A times G is EC. Can you indicate the digit substitutions?

Answer: E-1, A-2, H-3, D-4, F-5, B-6, J-7, C-8, G-9.

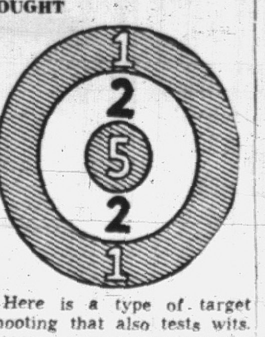
SUM SLICK SHOOTING SOUGHT



Here is a type of target shooting that also tests wits. Suppose you were given the target at left and asked to achieve a total score of 250. How many shots would you require — that is, how many times would you have to hit ones, twos and fives to achieve this sum? No one figure may be hit more than 50 times; all three figures must be hit at least once.

One possible answer is given below.

Time limit for this problem is two minutes.

Answer: You could make it in 84 shots, by scoring one five times, two 50 times and five 29 times.

BRIDGE LESSON

In the open pair championship at the Jackson Nationals, Clarisse Holt Bonnell of New Orleans found herself at a stratosphere contract of six clubs.

Unquestionably, Clarisse and her partner, Charles Gabriel, of Fort Worth, had co-operated to get a trifle too high, but Clarisse saw no reason to give up. After all, the only quick loser was the club ace and if she could just find a place to get rid of one little heart she could wrap up the contract.

The best chance for this would be to drop the king of diamonds. So, after winning the spade lead with the ace, Clarisse cashed her ace of diamonds; ruffed a spade to get to dummy; ruffed a diamond; ruffed her last spade; then led and ruffed a third diamond.

If the king had been kind enough to drop, Clarisse would have no worries, but the king did not fall. Nevertheless, Clarisse noted that she had an extra chance. She let her king of hearts; continued with a heart to dummy's ace; ruffed dummy's queen of diamonds and then finally played a trump.

East won with the ace and found himself in a losing position. He was down to three cards and they were all spades. He had to play one of them.

ONE OF VICTORIA'S FINEST NEW HOMES CONTEMPORARY DESIGN

1542 BYWOOD PLACE
(OFF ST. CHARLES STREET)
Saturday, 2 to 5.30

Follow me through this beautiful home. Located on a large LANDSCAPED lot at the end of a secluded cul-de-sac. The exterior is siding featuring various modern designed windows and WOOD AND SLATE PANELLING. Adding to this appearance is an attached double garage.

You enter through a SOLID TEAK DOOR into a large foyer expensively panelled in BLACK MAHOGANY. Immediately you realize the home has been built by Victoria's Best Home Building Contractor—Vickery Construction Ltd. I'll let you in on a secret: The finishing work was done by a carpenter who learned his trade in the furniture business in the Old Country. As so many people who know him have said, "His work is unmatched." Then into the living room—OPEN BEAM CEILING —Ellswood and black mahogany panelling—and one wall featuring a SLATE FIREPLACE AND PLANTER—impressive? How could it be more so. Then the full dining room and a large window with some sea view and featuring modern Swedish light fixtures—which are repeated throughout the living area.

NOW FOR THE LADIES—I'm going to call it a DREAMS KITCHEN—because it's the composite result of hundreds of kitchen dreams. Cabinets in BIRCH — beautifully grained with antique hardware, GLASS DOORS—and, believe it or not, everything self-edged—not one piece of cheap metal moulding in sight. Impossible?—Not in a Vickery House. Then we have the TAPPAN BUILT-IN OVEN AND RANGE—nothing but the best. This perfect kitchen is functional and beautiful. Now for the breakfast NOOK—the size is just right. Just outside is the patio. Ladies—you want convenience, so the house is designed with a glassed-in utility room.

Now to the 3 bedrooms—You know and I know that nobody uses mahogany louvred doors because they cost too much—however, Mr. Vickery says we're going to show Victoria that Vickery Construction produces the absolute best—so we will only use the absolute best—so it has MAHOGANY LOUVRED DOORS in all the bedrooms. Naturally, you must have 2 bathrooms, but it's better with 3. Two of these are tiled with large, modern vanities, plate glass mirrors, etc.

Now for the other rooms—that's what I said — OTHER ROOMS. A PANELLED RUMPUS ROOM AND a FOURTH BEDROOM OR DEN plus a roughed-in SPARE ROOM.

With a lot of houses we wrack our brains to find some one interesting and exciting feature—this house has so many features it is beyond my ability to adequately describe the house. You must see it—whether you buy it or not—and only one person can buy it—you will be amazed at such proximity to the ultimate in a new modern home.

A mortgage of $16,800 is available at 7¼%. Full price $29,500

Boy Recovering From Poisoning By Auto Gas

Father Held For Bad Cheque

A 2½-year-old Victoria boy gassed by carbon monoxide at Metchosin Friday was rushed to hospital and shortly after his father was jailed on warrants of two police forces.

Police sought Robert F. Millette, 916 Kings, on charges of false pretences, but would not have found him Friday if it had not been for an accident involving his son Gary, who was reported "fair" after a good night at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Millette was charged in city police court today with obtaining a car valued at $295 from Empress Motors Ltd. for which he gave a worthless cheque last Aug. 29, police allege.

He pleaded not guilty and was remanded to Wednesday to set a day for his trial. Bail was set at $750 after Magistrate William Ostler was told another charge is pending in the city and that Colwood RCMP have charged Millette with obtaining $16.75 by false pretences last August.

ENGINE ON

Millette was at Pedder Bay Marina at 3 p.m., doing some shopping and had left his son asleep in the rear seat of his car with open windows but engine running.

When he came back to the car, about 20 minutes later, Millette found Gary overcome by exhaust fumes which had blown back through the windows. Pausing only to ask the marina to call police, he set off in his old-model car.

Colwood RCMP met him part way, transferred the two and sped in to Langford, where Langford ambulance picked them up for the rest of the trip.

Fire Hazard Season Opens With Good Week

A rainy week doused forest fire costs in B.C.

The forest service's weekly report shows 63 fires were put out during the week ending Friday, and cost was only $6,127.

Last week—first of the fire hazard season—firefighting costs were more than $10,000 and damage was more than in the first week of 1959's season.

Thirty-one fires are still burning, but total reported to date of 193 is well below 1959's figure of 369. There have been only 12 fires in Vancouver District, which includes the Island.

Next week's predicted fire hazard is "low to moderate."

Arnuld Halliwell of Toronto will address a public meeting of the British Israel World Federation, Victoria branch, Monday at 8 p.m. in the Newstead Hall on "Brainwashing a Nation."

Parking Meters Yield Fortune

(Times News Services)

VANCOUVER — Parking meters are paying off like slot machines because of the efforts of thieves.

City officials said today a gang is using home-made keys to pilfer the meters on downtown streets. Their keys leave the meters' coin boxes unlocked.

As a result if a meter sticks and a motorist slaps it after putting in a coin, the door pops open and out pours a cascade of nickels and dimes.

Four motorists have turned their winnings of up to $4 over to police and many others are suspected of quietly pocketing the money.

Officials say collectors are finding up to 50 empty meters a day and estimated that the thieves are netting $150 a day.

In an effort to save some of the money collections now are being made three times a week instead of once a week as in the past.

WOMAN BOOKIE FINED

VANCOUVER — A woman who police said made an average of $900 a day as a bookmaker was fined $250 Friday after pleading guilty of keeping a betting house.

Prosecutor J. A. Carr produced the books of the woman, Mrs. Betty Alice Frame, to show that she had made the money during operations from Feb. 27 to April 27.

Magistrate James Bartman noted that Mrs. Frame, 44, could afford to pay $250 a day in fines and still make a big profit.

OLD FORT POPULAR

FORT LANGLEY—An estimated 17,000 visitors came to see the restored fort here during April, more than twice the number for April, 1959. Custodian D. C. MacKenzie said more than 100,000 persons are expected to see the reconstructed log and timber buildings during the spring and summer.

BLOSSOM QUEEN

CRESTON—A pretty and talented Judy Kriz was chosen Queen of the 1960 Blossom Festival here Friday night before a crowd of more than 2,000 persons jammed into Prince Charles High School.

On a stage decked with large bouquets of tulips and apple blossoms, Miss Kriz won over five other contestants. Each girl modelled sportswear and cotton dresses, then displayed their special abilities.

REFUGEE AID POOR

VANCOUVER — Extent of both Canada's and Vancouver's aid to the World Refugee Year program was described Friday as "disgraceful."

Harold Merilees, chairman of the World Refugee Year Vancouver committee, said Canada's aid has failed to measure up to that of most of the other 72 participating countries — especially smaller countries such as Norway.

YOUNG THIEVES JAILED

VANCOUVER — Two Calgary youths who spent nearly five hours ransacking cash registers after hiding in a downtown department store at closing time were jailed Friday.

Leroy Liebolt and Ronald Milne, both 16, were convicted in police court here of theft of money and merchandise. Each was setenced to nine months definite and one year indeterminate at New Haven Correctional Institutes.

SOROKIN MUST APPEAR

VANCOUVER—Stefan Sorokin, absent spiritual leader of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, has been told to come back to B.C. if he wants to press a libel suit against an Interior newspaper.

Mr. Justice A. M. Manson ruled in Supreme Court Friday that Sorokin, who has lived in Uruguay for several years, must return to continue the suit against the Trail Times and writer Dennis Williams.

The justice refused an application to have Sorokin's testimony taken in Uruguay.

To Receive MD

Victoria Esquimalt health unit education consultant D. Keith MacDonald will receive his degree in medicine next week at UBC spring congregation.

He joined the local unit in 1949 and left in 1953 for a two-year appointment with the World Health Organization before returning to his present post which he has held for five years.

Special Heart Units Not Practical Here

Special emergency coronary units would not be practical in Victoria, according to local authorities.

The technique, developed by a Victoria surgeon, Dr. W. Carleton Whiteside, 10295 Resthaven, consists of two emergency rooms staffed by a heart specialist, nurse, interne, and anaesthetist prepared to act in the absence of the attending physician.

They would apply hypothermia treatment — lowering of the patient's metabolism to give the damaged heart a chance to work—and in emergency use open heart massage.

Writing in the current issue of the International College of Surgeons Journal, Dr. Whiteside said the lives of many heart attack victims could be saved if this technique were used.

A local spokesman said the units have not proved themselves in general hospital use and doubted there were enough cases here to support them.

Hypothermia is used here in heart surgery and sometimes for treatment of severe shock.

EDUCATION PLAN BEATEN

CHICAGO (CP) — A proposal by Mayor Nathan Phillips of Toronto that provincial governments take over the full cost of education in Canada was defeated Friday at the 23rd annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

HISTORIC LINKS

Old Sawmill, Grocery List Purchased

The provincial parks branch has acquired an old sawmill and the inventory of a historic grocery store which officials hope will prove valuable links with Vancouver Island's past.

Chester Lyons, an official in charge of restoring historic sites, said an 80-year-old sawmill has been purchased from a resident of Happy Valley, near Victoria. The plant, including several large wheels, is made almost entirely of wood.

The price was not disclosed but moving charges amounted to $180. It is being stored in a parks department warehouse in Victoria.

The most unusual feature of the sawmill is a 64-foot carriage, an apparatus on which logs are drawn into the headsaw.

William, Ernest and Douglas Manson of Nanaimo have given the department the inventory of an old store which they once operated in the central Vancouver Island city.

Saanich Art Show Continues Sunday

Annual arts and crafts show of Saanich Peninsula Art Centre, which opened today at the Sidney Hotel, will continue Sunday at the hotel from 2 to 5.30 p.m., officials of the group said today.

It will include paintings in oils and water colors, pottery, leather work, hand weaving, hooked rugs, rock work, and demonstrations. Special attraction will be demonstrations by Peggy Walton Packard, Victoria artist, of portraits in black and white and pastels.

AT HEIGHT OF THE MELEE

San Francisco jails were jammed Friday night after 200 rioters had tried to "crash" a hearing of the House of Representatives sub-committee on un-American activities. Clubs and fire hoses were used by police to quell the riot, whose instigators are unknown. (AP Wirephoto.)

400 Policemen Battle San Francisco Rioters

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—One hundred and thirty policemen guarded city hall, barricaded the steps and admitted persons only by passes today to avert a repetition of Friday's riot by 250-persons over a hearing on un-Amercan activities.

Mounted police kept a wary eye on 200 pickets marching outside.

Inside, a House of Representatives subcommittee opened the third and final day of hearings at which most witnesses have refused to answer questions about Communist affiliation.

66 ARRESTED FRIDAY

Friday, crowds in the city hall rotunda surged up steps and tried to storm the closed door of the hearing room on the mezzanine floor.

Twelve persons were injured and 66 arrested during an hour marked by showers from fire hoses and swinging police clubs. Demonstrators were dragged kicking and screaming to patrol wagons as San Francisco had its biggest riot since V-J Day.

It took 400 police to handle the Friday disorders, during which six policemen and two firemen were injured.

It was difficult to determine whether the riot was instigated—or by whom.

Mayor George Christopher appealed to the demonstrators from a police car. Speaking over a loudspeaker, Christopher said:

"I do not want this to become a black day in the history of San Francisco. Please obey the law."

He was answered with boos from the shouting, jeering crowd.

Representative Edwin E. Willis, Louisiana Democrat and chairman of the subcommittee called it "very unfortunate, very regrettable . . . probably the worst incident in the history of the committee."

Several reputable organizations had protested the committee's scheduled hearings here, claiming they were designed to harass teachers in the area.

NEW YORK CUBANS RIOT FOR, AGAINST CASTRO

NEW YORK (AP)—Pro and anti-Castro Cubans clashed in street fighting today in front of the Cuban consulate-general. Clubs, umbrellas, pieces of board and a gun was wielded during the battle.

Some injuries were reported and at least 15 persons were taken into custody by police.

SHOPPERS' PARADISE

Ottawa's Mall Opens Tonight

OTTAWA (CP)—Traffic on Sparks Street today gives way to painted pavement and tulips.

At 6 p.m. the barricades go up and for the first time in Ottawa history, pedestrians will muscle out machines.

National capital commission workmen will transplant 10,000 tulips and 55 trees.

Under these trees, shoppers will find sidewalk cafes, canopies, tourist information booths, a special events platform for fashion shows, a fountain and lounging benches.

The city and merchant cosponsors of the pedestrian thoroughfare are hoping to create a holiday atmosphere that may prove a profitable and colorful answer to suburban shopping centres.

Paris Tension High On Eve of Summit

Doubt Cast On North Rail Plan

Opposition political party leaders today expressed mistrust and doubts regarding the scheme announced Friday by Premier Bennett whereby five companies will participate equally in a proposed 700-mile railway to the Yukon border.

It will be a part of the development of the Rocky Mountain Trench area by Wenner-Gren interests.

Liberal party leader Ray Perrault said here the Wenner-Gren story has had so many twists and turns it is hard to be sure whether this development is something to "give real hope to the people, or to win support for another election."

"Our party is fully in favor with development of northern B.C.," he said. "We are concerned about unemployment, and such a project would help. We are going to refrain from comment until we see statements of the companies involved, and they look impressive."

"But we want to know when it is going to start, what concessions there must be to induce a group of investors to build a railroad through a wilderness, and whether it will be a link with Alaska."

MANY QUESTIONS

"There are many unanswered questions," he said.

CCF leader Robert Strachan said bluntly the company will expect federal subsidies for the road from Canada and the United States, and suggested it will not stop at the Yukon border.

"They have never denied that they will ask for a subsidy," he said at his home in Nanaimo. "This is essentially the railway to Alaska, and we are giving a private company the franchise.

"The railroad will have to connect with publicly-owned roads, either CNR or PGE, and I feel any northern development should be continued by a publicly-owned organization.

FEDERAL MATTER

"While the premier says there will be no subsidies and no help for the road, once it passes over the B.C. boundary it becomes of federal concern."

The premier said in a press conference in Vancouver Friday the Pacific Northern Railway will extend west and northwest from Summit Lake,

Eisenhower Due Sunday

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

PARIS (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev flew into Paris today for a summit showdown with President Eisenhower on the spy plane crisis in American-Soviet relations.

His Ilyushin-18 airliner set down at Orly Field four hours and 45 minutes after he took off into the cloudy skies over Moscow in an extraordinary silent mood.

The weather here was sunny and brisk, but the attitude of the Western summit delegations was as gloomy as Moscow skies.

Khrushchev, however, was smiling as he stepped down from the plane. A 100-piece band and a company of troops paid the Soviet premier formal military honors.

WESTERN SUMMIT

Khrushchev got here almost 24 hours ahead of Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan. West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer had arrived an hour before Khrushchev. Adenauer will join U.S., British and French leaders in one-day Western summit consultations Sunoday.

Khrushchev holds the initiative and, to a great degree, the key to the success of the conference. French and American diplomats say that if he confronts Eisenhower in a hostile manner, the first summit conference in five years could be wrecked in five minutes.

Minutes after his arrival, Khrushchev made an obvious slap at the United States when he told the airport crowd that "certain military interests" are trying to continue the cold war.

"We hope they will not be successful."

He listed as the primary objectives of the summit disarmament and "liquidation of the remnants of the last war." He wanted to see a treaty of peace with both Germanys and improvement of relations between East and West.

The Soviet chief took off from Moscow in an atmosphere that was hardly optimistic for success of the top-level talks.

DENOUNCE 'AGGRESSION'

Front pages of Moscow newspapers were covered with stories and pictures denouncing "American aggression" by the U-2 spy plane downed over Sverdlovsk on May Day.

Khrushchev made no speech on leaving Moscow's airport despite an impressive turnout of the entire Soviet Praesidium and diplomatic corps to see him off.

President Eisenhower will reach Paris early Sunday. He apparently is no less determined in his support of spy planes beyond the Iron Curtain than Khrushchev is in denouncing them as aggressive acts against the Soviet Union.

MAC TO SEE KHRUSHCHEV IN PRIVATE

PARIS (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan and Premier Khrushchev were reported today to have arranged to meet for private talks Sunday.

French President Charles de Gaulle and Khrushchev previously had scheduled such a meeting. There were reports that President Eisenhower and the Soviet leader also might get together before the opening of the summit conference Monday.

Diplomatic sources have indicated that Britain and France were anxious to try to head off a squabble over the U.S. intelligence plane shot down over the Soviet Union.

Russia Warns Canada About 'Spy' Planes

LONDON (AP) — Moscow Radio today cautioned Canada against permitting United States spy planes to fly from Canadian bases.

A broadcast to North America said Canada "willingly and unquestionably" had put its territory at the disposal of the U.S. air force and "the gentlemen of the U.S. defence department and the intelligence agency" were making themselves at home there.

"What happens next is a matter for the Canadian government's conscience to decide," said the English-language broadcast.

"As everybody knows, Canada has not yet dared to disobey its partner. . ."

This was the first direct mention of Canada in Russian blasts in the last week about the American spy plane.

Swiss 'Plot'

BERN (UPI) — Russia accused Switzerland today of expelling two Soviet embassy spies in a Swiss-U.S. plot to deflect world opinion from the shooting down of a U.S. "spy plane" over Russia.

SOUTH AFRICA PROTEST

Children Want Parents Freed

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Police here arrested more than 20 children, white and Negro, who demonstrated outside city hall today against the detention of their parents under emergency regulations imposed March 30.

The children were released after being questioned for about a half-hour by police in a locked room.

The children delivered an appeal to Mayor Alec Corshel asking him to use all the powers at his disposal to secure the release of their mothers and fathers.

"We cannot manage without them," the letter of appeal said, adding that the younger children could not understand what had happened to their parents.

JEER POLICE

The arrested children were driven in police cars to headquarters for questioning. As police led them to the cars a big crowd gathered in the road jeering at the police, who ordered them to disperse.

The children entered the patrol cars quietly but just before the doors closed on them a 16-year-old girl waved at the crowd and then raised her thumb in the "Africa" salute.

The thumbs-up salute was originated by the now-banned African National Congress, the country's largest Negro political organization, but has since spread to general use.

At Harrismith, Natal, police Friday night arrested 120 persons in a raid on a Negro settlement.

Boy Beaten By Negroes

LUSAKA, Northern Rhodesia (AP) — Negroes stoned a white woman working in her garden, stoned a car driven by a white man and stopped and assaulted a white boy cyclist as sporadic racial violence persisted today in Northern Rhodesia's copper belt, despite reinforced police patrols and virtual martial law.

More violence is feared during the weekend, and civilian reserves are standing by to assist police.

AND WE, TOO, SAY 'HAPPY ANNIVERSARY'

COATESVILLE, Pa. (AP) — The Coatesville Record, under a front-page headline reading "to the Simpsons our apologies every 10 years," reports:

"Here's a correction that has to be made by The Record every 10 years.

"The '40 years ago today column' on Wednesday stated Harvey B. Simpson of Birdsboro and Miss Anna E. Slaymaker of Parkesburg were married he item should have read Miss Anna Shoemaker, not Slaymaker. The local couple are today observing their anniversary.

"The original account of the Simpson-Shoemaker wedding had to be rerun in 1920 because Miss Shoemaker was called Miss Slaymaker. In 1930 the person who compiled the '10 years ago today' column used the name found in the original wedding account, not the rerun.

"When the '10 years ago today' column became the '20 years ago today' item in 1940 the mistake was repeated. And the error was repeated in 1950 and 1960 . . .

"Confused? Happy anniversary anyhow, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson."

Business Notes

Canadian businessmen were urged Friday to forget the old notion of national self-sufficiency and go out and hunt for customers.

Speaking in Vancouver Attorney-General Robert Bonner told a management conference at UBC that an air of detachment is no longer justifiable.

The A-G said Canada must establish a broader trade relationship and sell on a freer basis.

Recent decline in value of Canadian dollar in foreign exchange deals in New York has been welcomed in Canada, especially by large exporters dependent on U.S. markets.

A government spokesman in Ottawa says the approach of the Canadian dollar to parity with the U.S. dollar reflects on increase in the availability of capital in Canada.

A Vancouver newspaper says the huge copper-iron deposits of Craigmont Mines Ltd., will be brought into production. The decision will be made this summer, a year before it is required under development contract.

The property is near Merritt in the Nicola mining division.

On the basis of current proven ore reserves, Craigmont is within sight and shooting distance of a 6,000-ton-a-day mill, the paper says.

Clarkson Co. Ltd. of Toronto, trustee in bankruptcy of Stanrock Uranium Mines Ltd., announced Friday it has accepted an offer by Rio Tinto Mining Co. of Canada for the assets of the big Blind River, Ont., mine. The offer price was not disclosed.

New B.C. Industry Registers Hit

BY HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

A new British Columbia industry, located hard by Victoria, has hit what might be called a small slam in sales and acceptance.

Malone

Philip D. Graham, president of B.C. Lightweight Aggregates Ltd., says his company's light weight aggregate which is mixed with cement to yield high-strength, light-weight concrete has been approved for use in B.C. and Washington.

B.C. Highways department is using it in bridge projects. Schools are being built with it in Vancouver, North Vancouver, West Vancouver and Burnaby. University of B.C. is using it. Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation has approved it.

An 11-storey apartment building in Seattle is being constructed with it. The material is also used on construction of floats for Seattle yacht harbor.

Not a bad record for a product which came into production on Saturna Island last October.

Mr. Graham, whose family holds the major interest in B.C. Lightweight Aggregates, enlightened us on the venture.

The company open-pit mines a Saturna shale deposit, crushes it, heats the shale in a kiln which causes it to bloat. The product is then used as an aggregate with cement.

Its primary contributions to construction, says Mr. Graham, are its light weight, high strength, insulating qualities, extremely low absorption and shinkage characteristics.

Marketed under the name "Saturnalite" it reduces the weight of concrete by 35 to 40 per cent.

The road to success of new building products is often long and difficult. Acceptance of architects and engineers must be won. Teaching an elderly poodle new tricks is rarely done overnight.

Saturnalite has not only burst the barrier of opposition. It has cut into sales of pumice blocks made in Oregon. Graham expects his product will soon go into canopies for service stations. Discarded by oil companies some time ago, canopies are coming back.

Mr. Graham concedes his aggregate is more expensive than standard aggregate. But used from the ground up, it allows builders to pare overall costs by reducing the amount of steel and labor on the job, he says.

'JAM SESSION' AGAINST PAIN

'Open Wide' to Hi-Fi Latest Dental Panacea

By MICHAEL ROSE

Hi-Fi has come to dentistry and you need feel pain no more.

A new machine, developed recently in Cambridge, Mass., allows a patient to don earphones and tune in music to tune out the anxiety-producing sound of buzzing drills.

Dr. George M. Ling, a researcher on the staff of the department of pharmaecology at University of B.C., explained the functions of the machine to B.C. Dental Association delegates at the Empress Hotel this morning.

He said the machine is actually a stereo-tape reproduction system that superimposes varying sound frequencies on top of music of the patient's choice.

"Personalized volume controls," he said, "permit the patient to adjust earphones to the intensity of sound necessary to dampen the grating monotony of the drill.

"Primary perception of pain is in no way altered but the diversion of attention tends to modify and in some cases eliminate anxiety and apprehension."

The sound, controlled by the patient, he said, has the effect of "jamming" pain producing fear impulses in the brain and local anaesthetics take care of the physical pain.

The system also produces a feeling of confidence in the patient who, through the control box on his lap, feels he is participating in the work rather than being operated on.

Dr. Ling said this technique is a refinement of the phenomenon seen on the gridiron or battlefield where a player or soldier may be badly injured but not feel the pain since he is involved in something more compelling.

Other applications of the system are possible, he said, in surgery where reduced apprehension will mean lower blood pressure, less bleeding to complicate the operation and a speedier post-operative recovery.

MONTE ROBERTS

An Esquimalt constituent has been kind enough to send me a poem containing a play on words.

The poem deals with a couple of characters called Ike and Mr. K., and at the risk of offending the kindly Esquimalt constituent, I will fail to reproduce it here.

But I will go along with the play on words embodied in the poem, which links the now-famous U.S. "weather" plane U-2 with the words of a dying Caesar:

"You, too."

In case you think the above indicates I take a dim view of the incident involving the U.S. "weather" plane which crashed in U.S.S.R. territory, I hasten to correct the impression.

I am all in favor of spies spying, whether it be U.S. spies spying from airplanes or U.S.S.R. spies spying from submarines.

There is nothing more pitiful than an unemployed spy, because he can't even draw unemployment insurance.

Now that the powers that be have decided, long in advance of the coming war, who the opponents are to be, why not scout them?

It is no more heinous an offence than scouting the opposing football or hockey team you're going to meet next Saturday.

The stakes are higher, but the ethics are not necessarily lower.

Whether it's football, hockey, or war, the only important rule is "don't get caught."

This is one reason I feel some segments of the Canadian population are becoming unrealistic and slightly hysterical when they suggest the U-2 incident should persuade we Canadians to divorce ourselves from the "bumblings" of the United States, dissolve our armed forces, junk our weapons, and assume a neutral role.

It is a dandy theory, but what I would like to know is, who are we going to be neutral for?

'Most Wanted' Man Adjudged Mentally Ill

An order-in-council has authorized the transfer of Daniel William O'Connor, once one of Canada's 10 most-wanted men, from Oakalla Prison to Essondale Mental Hospital.

The order, approved earlier this week, states that O'Connor is mentally ill. He is charged with attempted murder in connection with the assault and pistol whipping of an RCMP corporal near Keremeos, B.C., in 1953.

O'Connor, who was expected to face trial on the charge this spring at Penticton, was returned to Canada from the United States late last year. He was arrested in San Diego, Calif., on a bogus cheque charge.

GEORGE I. IS RETIRED—MORE OR LESS

Girls from travel bureaus throughout Pacific Northwest visited here today, to be unofficially greeted by retired commissioner of Publicity Bureau, George I. Warren, now manager of Victoria Automobile Club. They came here this morning on Black Ball sightseeing tour. Mr. Warren, one week from today, will also be a tourist—two months in Europe, which will include one month in England and one month on the Continent. Trip was made possible by city businessmen who presented veteran tourist chief with cheques totalling $1,900, plus tickets to London and return for "George" and wife. (Halkett Photo.)

SUMMIT AGREEMENT URGED BY CITY GROUP

A group promoting "success at the summit" gathered at Yates and Douglas at 10 a.m. today, hoping by 6 p.m. to have a sizeable crowd protesting world armament.

Four persons handed out B.C. Peace Council pamphlets, but said they represented "no one in particular."

The pamphlets urge that success at the summit meeting is "up to us"; that there must be agreement on world disarmament—"are we to live or die?"—and that the wishes of the people should be known to those at the summit.

Citizens were invited to write directly to the secretary of the summit conference, Paris.

FAIR OPENS MONDAY

Jaycees Aim For 100,000

The 14th annual Victoria Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition opens Monday and sponsoring Junior Chamber of Commerce officials expect this to be the biggest year yet.

"If the people of Victoria are as interested in the exhibition as we think they are," said fair chairman Bill Hughes," we will probably go over the 100,000 attendance mark."

The exhibition has 20 per cent more space and exhibits than ever before.

Mayor Percy Scurrah will open the week-long affair Monday at 8 p.m, although it will have been open to the public since 2 p.m.

The exhibition was first held in 1947 when 5,000 people attended. Last year's attendance was 75,000 and officials have perdicted if the weather holds more than 100,000 people will have come through the gate.

Visitors to the exhibition this year will not enter through the Memorial Arena as in previous years but through a specially contructed gate at the corner of Quadra and Caledonia.

Nightly Spectacle

Impressive enough in daylight, the fall of night will turn the midway into kaleidoscope of color illuminated by a brand new fluorescent lighting system.

One of the biggest improvements in the fair will be an increased representation by agricultural groups throughout Vancouver Island.

Wednesday will be 4-H Day and eleven clubs of the South Malahat District are entered and will be coneting for the Junior Chamber of Commerce Challenge Shield.

Included in the agricultural section will be the cattle pen on the hill behind Memorial Arena with some 150 head entered by breeders throughout the Island, and the rabbit show at the Curling Rink with a similar number of prize animals.

Biggest single exhibit of the fair will be the huge "Medical 60" display in the Curling Rink comprising entries by nearly every Victoria health organization and city hospitals.

Success at PNE

In addition there will be the section devoted to demonstrating the development of a child from conception to birth that was the hit of the 1959 PNE.

For those who want fun there will be more this year.

More rides have been set up than before on each side of the Curling Rink and the midway is bigger.

Each afternoon and evening professional entertainment will be provided in the Arena and candidates for the Miss Victoria title will demonstrate their talents.

Final selection of the queen will take place Saturday by a panel of five judges and the winner will be announced at 11 that night.

Information, Please

Jaycee officials will be on hand everywhere to provide information and experienced chamber members will be in charge of the special young children's rides and games on the midway.

The fair will be open daily Monday through Saturday from 2 p.m. to midnight except Saturday when the doors open at 10 a.m.

ONLY remaining Boer War nursing sister living in Canada, Mrs. Rose A. Maclennan, 85, 857 McClure, is leaving next week to attend the 60th annual reunion of the Boer War veterans in Toronto, May 21 to 24. Mrs. Maclennan was trained in St. Thomas' Hospital in London, England.

Newsmen To Talk Shop At City Parley

Some 70 daily newspapers from Newfoundland to British Columbia will be represented when the Canadian Managing Editors' Conference holds its 14th annual gathering in Victoria next week.

It is the first time the conference has been held west of Winnipeg and officials in charge say the attendance may be the largest in recent years.

Delegates will gather Thursday evening at a reception in the Empress Hotel and will hold meetings and attend social affairs through to the end of the week.

FEATURE

Business meetings will cover various technical aspects of handling and displaying news in a modern daily. One of the features will be a full afternoon clinic devoted to newspaper design, led by Edmund C. Arnold of the Mergenthaler Linotype Co., New York.

Other subjects to be discussed will include a panel on sports pages, use of newsphoto color in modern papers, reporting of crime news, staff problems and foreign correspondence.

A full social program has been arranged for delegates, including a dinner tendered by the province of B.C., a civic luncheon and a reception by His Honor Frank Ross and Mrs. Ross at B.C.'s new Government House next Saturday afternoon.

ISLAND FLAVOR

An event with a distinct Island flavor will be a beef and salmon barbecue at Sooke Saturday evening, along the lines developed by the All-Sooke Day organization.

Heading the contingent of visiting editors is Larry N. Smith, St. Catharines (Ont.) Standard, president; Eme y LeBlanc, L'Evangeline, Moncton, N.B., first vice-president; Peter M. Preston, Brantford (Ont.) Expositor, second vice-president; and William Thomson, Regina Leader-Post, secretary-treasurer.

$2.3 Million Expansion For Hospital

St. Joseph Program To Start Next Year

St. Joseph's Hospital officials today revealed full details of their big expansion program.

Here are the main points:

1. Estimated cost for a new 130-bed wing, extensions and renovations to present hospital facilities will be $2,320,000.
2. Construction is expected to start in 1961.
3. There will be no major fund drive to assist the building program, but the public will be asked to make voluntary subscriptions amounting to at least $200,000.

In disclosing the hospital expansion program, Sister Mary Ann Celesta, administrator, said as a result of grants from all levels of government and from the Sisters of St. Ann, most of the financing of the project is now assured.

But, she added, because of somewhat higher cost requirement than was originally anticipated, a balance of $200,000 must still be obtained.

"We are looking to voluntary subscriptions to provide this amount," she said.

Estimate of costs are broken down as follows: new construction, $1,810,000; renovations, $270,000; equipment, $240,000. This totals to $2,320,000.

NEW WING

This is what the money will pay for:

A new five-storey wing to be located at the corner of Rupert and Humboldt Streets. It will be devoted largely to patient accommodations.

A basement to contain a completely new and modern laundry designed to meet the increasing requirements of the hospital.

A new Humboldt Street entrance. It is proposed to replace the sunrooms on the Humboldt Street side of the hospital with a new four-storey tower which will provide a new entrance at street level for visitors.

ELEVATOR

The tower will contain an elevator to facilitate the transport of visitors and in addition will provide new and modern sunrooms on each of the patent floors.

A new fifth floor on the Humboldt Street wing. This area will house new accommodation for the Sisters. Accommodations now used by them will be converted into office space.

Sister Celesta said it is also proposed to extend the wing which houses the emergency department to three times its present size.

The basement under this extension will permit enlargement of the cafeteria and food service areas. This will facilitate the development of a centralized food service which will result in labor savings.

With regard to the new wing, the major hospital project, Sister Celesta said the first, second, third and fourth floor, will contain a total of 130 beds.

The fifth floor will contain a new modern case room and labor room suite.

"It is considered desirable to locate as much patient accommodations in the new wing in order to provide the patient with modern and pleasant surroundings," Sister Celesta said. "The number of beds will enable us to vacate other areas of the hospital which will then be used for necessary expansion of essential departments."

NEW TRENDS

She said the new wing will do a lot to permit alteration and renovations in many of the existing areas of the hospital which require improvements to keep up with newer trends in hospital care.

Power Talks United Front Predicted

Justice Minister Davie Fulton here today expressed confidence in outcome of talks with the U.S. on Columbia River hydro development.

The Canadian team will meet with its Washington counterpart in Washington May 19.

Mr. Fulton and Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton were here today to meet B.C. Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston and Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Today's meeting was expected to be the final B.C.-federal discussion on the project.

Mr. Fulton said the meeting here will prepare a "united front" on Columbia development.

"One thing is certain," he said. "We are not going to give the Americans anything for nothing."

Talks concern downstream benefits which could accrue in damming of the Columbia and U.S. participation in the mooted project.

SOUTH AFRICA PROTEST

Children Want Parents Freed

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Police here arrested more than 20 children, white and Negro, who demonstrated outside city hall today against the detention of their parents under emergency regulations imposed March 30.

The children were released after being questioned for about a half-hour by police in a locked room.

The children delivered an appeal to Mayor Alec Corshel asking him to use all the powers at his disposal to secure the release of their mothers and fathers.

"We cannot manage without them," the letter of appeal said, adding that the younger children could not understand what had happened to their parents.

JEER POLICE

The arrested children were driven in police cars to headquarters for questioning. As police led them to the cars a big crowd gathered in the road jeering at the police, who ordered them to disperse.

The children entered the patrol cars quietly but just before the doors closed on them a 16-year-old girl waved at the crowd and then raised her thumb in the "Africa" salute.

The thumbs-up salute was originated by the now-banned African National Congress, the country's largest Negro political organization, but has since spread to general use.

Opposition political party leaders today expressed mistrust and doubts regarding the scheme announced Friday by Premier Bennett whereby five companies will participate equally in a proposed 700-mile railway to the Yukon border.

It will be a part of the development of the Rocky Mountain Trench area by Wenner-Gren interests.

Liberal party leader Ray Perrault said here the Wenner-Gren story has had so many twists and turns it is hard to be sure whether this development is something to "give real hope to the people, or to win support for another election."

"Our party is fully in favor with development of northern B.C.," he said. "We are concerned about unemployment, and such a project would help. We are going to refrain from comment until we see statements of the companies involved, and they look impressive."

"But we want to know when it is going to start, what concessions there must be to induce a group of investors to build a railroad through a wilderness, and whether it will be a link with Alaska."

MANY QUESTIONS

"There are many unanswered questions," he said.

CCF leader Robert Strachan said bluntly the company will expect federal subsidies for the road from Canada and the United States, and suggested it will not stop at the Yukon border.

"They have never denied that they will ask for a subsidy," he said at his home in Nanaimo. "This is essentially the railway to Alaska, and we are giving a private company the franchise.

"The railroad will have to connect with publicly-owned roads, either CNR or PGE, and I feel any northern development should be continued by a publicly-owned organization.

FEDERAL MATTER

"While the premier says there will be no subsidies and no help for the road, once it passes over the B.C. boundary it becomes of federal concern."

The premier said in a press conference in Vancouver Friday the Pacific Northern Railway will extend west and northwest from Summit Lake,

400 Policemen Battle San Francisco Rioters

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — *One hundred and thirty police*men guarded city hall, barricaded the steps and admitted persons only by passes today to avert a repetition of Friday's riot by 250-persons over a hearing on un-Amercan activities.

Mounted police kept a wary eye on 200 pickets marching outside.

Inside, a House of Representatives subcommittee opened the third and final day of hearings at which most witnesses have refused to answer questions about Communist affiliation.

Private Talks With K Sunday

PARIS (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan and Premier Khrushchev were reported today to have arranged to meet for private talks Sunday.

French President Charles de Gaulle and Khrushchev previously had scheduled such a meeting. There were reports that President Eisenhower and the Soviet leader also might get together before the opening of the summit conference Monday.

Diplomatic sources have indicated that Britain and France were anxious to try to head off a squabble over the U.S. intelligence plane shot down over the Soviet Union.

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

PARIS (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev flew into Paris today for a summit showdown with President Eisenhower on the spy plane crisis in American-Soviet relations.

His Ilyushin-18 airliner set down at Orly Field four hours and 45 minutes after he took off into the cloudy skies over Moscow in an extraordinarily silent mood.

The weather here was sunny and brisk, but the attitude of the Western summit delegations was as gloomy as Moscow skies.

Khrushchev, however, was smiling as he stepped down from the plane. A 100-piece band and a company of troops paid the Soviet premier formal military honors.

Khrushchev got here almost 24 hours ahead of Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan. West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer had arrived an hour before Khrushchev. Adenauer will join U.S., British and French leaders in one-day Western summit consultations Sunoday.

Khrushchev holds the initiative and, to a great degree, the key to the success of the conference. French and American diplomats say that if he confronts Eisenhower in a hostile manner, the first summit conference in five years could be wrecked in five minutes.

Minutes after his arrival, Khrushchev made an obvious slap at the United States when he told the airport crowd that "certain military interests" are trying to continue the cold war.

"We hope they will not be successful."

He listed as the primary objectives of the summit disarmament and "liquidation of the remnants of the last war." He wanted to see a treaty of peace with both Germanys and improvement of relations between East and West.

The Soviet chief took off from Moscow in an atmosphere that was hardly optimistic for success of the top-level talks.

DENOUNCE 'AGGRESSION'

Front pages of Moscow newspapers were covered with stories and pictures denouncing "American aggression" by the U-2 spy plane downed over Sverdlovsk on May Day.

Khrushchev made no speech on leaving Moscow's airport despite an impressive turnout of the entire Soviet Praesidium and diplomatic corps to see him off.

President Eisenhower will reach Paris early Sunday. He apparently is no less determined in his support of spy planes beyond the Iron Curtain than Khrushchev is in denouncing them as aggressive acts against the Soviet Union.

Eisenhower cancelled plans

Russia Warns Canada About 'Spy' Planes

LONDON (AP) — Moscow Radio today cautioned Canada against permitting United States spy planes to fly from Canadian bases.

A broadcast to North America said Canada "willingly and unquestionably" had put its territory at the disposal of the U.S. air force and "the gentlemen of the U.S. defence department and the intelligence agency" were making themselves at home there.

"What happens next is a matter for the Canadian government's conscience to decide," said the English-language broadcast.

"As everybody knows, Canada has not yet dared to disobey its partner. . ."

This was the first direct mention of Canada in Russian blasts in the last week about the American spy plane.

External Affairs Minister Green, commenting on the Moscow broadcast, reiterated that no U.S. spy planes have flown from Canadian bases.

Returns After Successful Six-Week Buying Trip to the Continent and British Isles

Mr. Roy reports that:

England is enjoying a very prosperious period of business at present, with very little unemployment. This also applies to Scotland, especially in the knitwear and textile trades. The heavy industries, such as ship-building for example in Glasgow are suffering somewhat of a slump.

In Italy, Mr. Roy found Rome to be a hive of industry, especially in the building trades. Huge, modern apartments are being constructed in a new section known as Olympic City. These new apartments are being built to take care of the expected influx of people attending the Olympic Games. The games are to take place around the end of August.

It is also interesting to note that the Italian people intend to use the new apartments to house their own civic employees after the games are over. Road-building is also going forward on a round-the-clock schedule.

Mr. Roy also observed that Milan appears to be enjoying a very prosperious period; especially in the knitwear trade, where early deliveries from the mills are almost impossible.

Some of Mr. Roy's recent purchases are already arriving, and are now on view at Roy Imports. These items are listed below:

New and Exclusive Travel Tweed and Sporting COATS, made in London. From $$59^{50}$

. . . POLICEMAN

San Francisco had its biggest riot since V-J Day.

It took 400 police to handle the Friday disorders, during which six policemen and two firemen were injured.

It was difficult to determine whether the riot was instigated —or by whom.

Mayor George Christopher appealed to the demonstrators from a police car. Speaking over a loudspeaker, Christopher said:

"I do not want this to become a black day in the history of San Francisco. Please obey the law."

He was answered with boos from the shouting, jeering crowd.

Representative Edwin E. Willis, Louisiana Democrat and chairman of the subcommittee called it "very unfortunate, very regrettable . . . probably the worst incident in the history of the committee."

Several reputable organizations had protested the committee's scheduled hearings here, claiming they were designed to harass teachers in the area.

Ladysmith Talks Amalgamation

LADYSMITH — A petition calling for the amalgamation of the village and surrounding districts will be presented to the public next week by a special committee of Ladysmith Chamber of Commerce.

There will be no house-to-house canvass. Instead, the committee will open an office in the business section, where all information pertinent to the move can be kept, and signatures taken.

A three-fifths majority of residents outside the city, but within the proposed new boundaries, will be required before the village commission will be authorized to place the proposition before Ladysmith owner-electors.

The move would increase the population of the village from 2,100 to more than 3,000, and would increase the area about five times.

Boundaries would be extended roughly two miles north and south, and would include all waterfront between Smelter Beach and Blaineys. The move would give residents in the area control of the waterfront for the first time.

On the basis of 1960 tax rates, it would mean an additional $72,000 revenue to the village in the form of taxes and grants.

Sports organizations look forward to amalgamation because there are several sites in the larger area considered as ideal for development as recreational parks.
